KAIRWAN, THE HOLY CITY OF TUNIS.

Kairwan is built in the centre of a vast plain, part of which consists of salt marshes. THERE IS PHOTOGRAPHY AND PHOTOGRAPHY. WE ARE PROFESSORS IN PHOTOGRAPHY.

PHOTOGRAPHY is one of the Professions which admit of all classes of aspirants. As sure as the various standards of Gold differ in value, so sure is there an equal difference to be found in Photographers.

IF A PHOTOGRAPHER be not an artist he is but a mechanic working by rule to obtain a given result. But the work of the artist appeals to the heart.

OUR WORK IS an incentive and an inspiration to every true lover of Art.

WE HAVE supplied the Public with Artistic Portraiture and gained for ourselves the reputation of being the recognised Artists of Sydney.

A TRUTH.—We number among our Staff of Artists Gentlemen of the HIGHEST TALENT. Specialists in each Department. Producers of Sound Original Work.

is exceedingly small when compared with the great and busy interior. Similarly, our George-street Vestibule conveys but a slight notion of the enormous industry carried on behind it. When we tell you that our Studios and Workrooms together occupy the whole of the third-floor space from the Market-street end right up to the towering central dome, some 300 feet! and that, in addition, we have large framing works in the Markets and Basement, you will realise that our business, carrying a staff of nearly 60 Australians, is one of considerable magnitude. We attribute this huge development to our vastly popular line of SUPERIORITY PERSONIFIED.

If an engine can be said to personify anything, it is pretty certain that the HERCULES OIL ENGINE
has gained a reputation for EFFECTIVENESS, RELIABILITY, and STANCHNESS that is undeniable.
The new model, which we call our "SPECIAL," is a veritable wonder of speed and economy. Fancy buying a high-grade Engine, from 4 to 6 horse-power, complete equipment, for SIXTY POUNDS.
Yet this is all we ask for our "Hercules" Special Model.

HEADQUARTERS.
It is good to go to HEADQUARTERS. It is good to be ABLE to go there. WE are HEADQUARTERS for OIL ENGINES. We are the MAKERS; we supply direct to you. When you buy an "INVINCIBLE" there is no procession of middlemen (and their profits) between the manufacturer and yourself. That is why the "INVINCIBLE" represents MORE VALUE for your money than any other engine.
But it is not only the question of eliminating the middleman that should induce you to come to headquarters. There is also the great fact that you have a better opportunity of knowing exactly what you are getting. Buy here, and you can see, if you like, every part that goes to make your engine. You can see the raw material; you can see each finished part. But you have to take imported engines on trust. They may be right; they may be wrong; but if they're wrong you are thousands of miles away from the factory. Why take risk when you NEED not do so? And why actually PAY for the privilege? Why GUESS when you can KNOW.
To be SURE, buy an

COMMERCIAL ECONOMY.
Why use benzine when kerosene at 50 per cent. less cost used in a Fay and Bowen Engine gives a 10 per cent. increase in power, and less quantity used per horse-power than benzine? Enough said.

IMPERIAL OIL ENGINES.
MORE COLD FACTS.—30,000 MILES NON-STOP!
Upper Lane Cove Ferry, Ltd., May 13, 1910.
To the Agent, Imperial Marine Oil Engines, Sydney.
Dear Sir,—It is now over 12 months since installing the TWO 8-h.p. IMPERIAL Engines in our launches KILLARA and NATIVE ROSE. These engines drive the hulls 50 miles daily (on holidays they go for 12 hours without a stop). The repairs have been almost nil, and, judging from present condition, they will be out of date before they wear out. Last year the KILLARA did 15,000 MILES, and, as you are aware, the work is very severe, dragging over sand flats, etc., etc., these facts go to show that the ferry could not be run without good engines, and our experience of the IMPERIAL Engine is that it IS A GOOD ONE.
Your truly, (Signed) C. E. LUDOWICI,
Chairman of Directors.

STATE ELECTIONS.

REQUISITION TO
R. G. WATKINS, ESQ., MAYOR OF WAVERLEY.
Dear Sir,—
We, the undersigned electors of WAVERLEY, desire that you will allow yourself to be nominated for selection as a Candidate for the representation of the WAVERLEY ELECTORATE in the forthcoming PARLIAMENTARY ELECTION. And we pledge ourselves that, in the event of your complying with our desire, we will do our utmost to secure your election.
While we all join you in the great grief occasioned by your recent sad bereavement, we trust that our earnest desire, that you should further the interests of our Electorate, will persuade you to accept our nomination for selection.
We are, yours, etc.,

Reub. D. Braech	E. R. Abigail
William P. Manning	F. H. Turner
Edmund Playfair	S. B. Gange
Frank M'Elhone	Leslie V. Pockle
G. H. Henriques	Percy Douglas
T. Ormond O'Brien

(REPLY.)
To the Hon. Thomas Hughes, M.L.C., Mr. R. D. Braech, Sir W. P. Manning, and the very large number of Ladies and Gentlemen who have presented the above requisition to me.—
My feelings are that I would rather continue my duty to you simply as your Mayor, as I feel that so much responsibility devolves upon the occupant of that office that I could hardly do justice to the position which you requisition me to occupy. You have, however, pointed out that the requirements of this great Electorate necessitate that its representative should be a stalwart and progressive man, and I feel that I am loyally bound to accede to so general a request. My loyalty to Waverley induces me to place myself entirely in your hands, and if my name meets with the approval of the Electors of Waverley, as selectors of a Candidate in the Liberal interest, and I am selected, I will endeavour to prove that the selection is not unwarranted.
Yours,
R. G. WATKINS.

THE STORY OF CLARICE.

BY KATHARINE TYNAN.

(ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

"Clary, is it?" he asked; and the first real smile his faithful Anne had seen him wear for many a sad day lit up his dark face.

"Clar-issa," said the child, bringing out the syllables with a delicate precision.

"I hope you'll excuse us, sir." Anne put in hurriedly. "I didn't want to deceive you, sir; indeed, I didn't. 'Tis only that—the child's too good for where she is. The Lord has kept her unspotted from the world so far. You can see that for yourself, sir. There isn't many remains unspotted where I'm forced to keep Clary."

The minister sat down and took the child on his knee.

"Why didn't you tell me about Clary before?" he asked.

Anne shook her head.

"You weren't in a way to be bothered with my affairs, nor yet Clary's," she answered.

"Where has she been?"

"I couldn't have her very far off, sir, else I'd never see her. I never thought to like her as I do. But I couldn't resist her, sir. Could I, Clary?"

The child smiled her bright, strange smile without speaking. She had a remoteness from them as though she was a creature of another sphere.

"She is—somewhere near here? It is not a place for a child."

"None knows it better than I do, sir. Not but what it's a decent soul that has took charge of her. An old country-woman, if ever there was one. She left the country to do for her son in town, but after all he married and didn't want his poor old mother for another burden. You don't know how clean she's kept the little place. You'd say so yourself if you saw it. And Clary—Clary's a credit to her, isn't she?"

"I'd like to see a few country roses in Clary's cheeks," the minister said, with a pinch of satin skin between his finger and thumb. "Where does this old woman live?"

"On the Combe, sir. You know those high houses at the end of Boscage-street. She lives in one of them. Jane Truscott is her name. I'm afraid she'll soon have to go to the House. She's very old and tottery. The child isn't safe with her. One or both might get burnt by the fire. That's why I've had Clary here more than I ought to, maybe, when you were out."

The child's hand nestled in the man's. Her exquisite cheek, cool as a flower, was against his. The contact seemed to draw the burning heat from his old aching and throbbing wound.

"Clary had better come here," he said.

"Here?"

"I said here," he responded irritably. "You are not getting deaf—are you, Anne?"

"Bless you, no, sir. But—Clary—here." Anne was moved out of her usual air of impassivity by joyous excitement.

That night after Clary had been tucked to bed on the sofa—to-morrow a bed must be provided for the child—the minister took up again the question of Clary.

"Where did Clary come from?" he asked suddenly flashing the question at Anne who had brought him in the glass of hot milk with which her carefulness provided him the last thing at night.

"Clary, sir?" Annie was taken back—startled out of her composure. "She is my——"

"She is not your niece. You do not tell lies well, Anne. I am glad you have no real capacity in that direction."

"I'm very sorry, sir," Anne said, looking down. "I don't know why I said it. I might have known you'd know Clary wasn't. I found Clary there—at that house. You know—I had just found out where he was, and had gone down to see him. We had hardly spoken before the police were round the house. He knew they'd found it out at last. He'd sent for me to take Clary. No one questioned my right to do it. They were thinking too much about him."

"Who is the child? Do you know?"

"Nothing, sir. People thereabouts thought she was Webster's child. She is not. He had neither act nor part in her."

"Thank God," the minister said with a little shudder.

"He told me so. You needn't be afraid of Clary. Isn't she a lady's child? He told me she was no child of his. He'd have told me more only the police came. I meant to have asked him that last day at Pentonville; it went out of my head. It wasn't Clary I was thinking of. I was fighting for his soul—a lost cause, sir. Webster never had any soul. I don't know how I ever came to marry him, and me well brought up. The nuns thought a deal of me. But there—he had a way with women. Look at that poor thing, and she a lady, born and bred. I'm glad now that she didn't know she wasn't his wife. He wore the red coat when I knew him first. Better girls than me were mad for him; but he wanted me. I can't see the red coat now, but what I tremble."

Anne had broken silence with a vengeance after all those years. The minister put up his hand to check the flow of speech.

"Yes," he said—"yes, Anne. But tell me about Clary."

"Why, I know naught, sir. Only Webster bade me take the child. It wasn't like Webster. 'Twould be like him to leave her to the House. It was the one good I knew of him. A black villain. Wasn't it a queer thing, sir, that when he sent for me I came—after all the shame and wrong he'd put upon me. That was the way with Webster. Other men couldn't see it. He had no friends. The women were mad for him. I trust the men's judgments."

"Yes, yes, that will do now. You shall tell me more another time. Go to bed now, Anne. It is growing late. I shall want nothing more to-night."

She went away somewhat reluctantly. There was a look in her worn, haggard face, which had once been comely, as though the frost and the ice had broken up. To-night she could have talked. To-morrow the silence would have fallen once more, perhaps for ever.

When she had left him the minister took up his pen and wrote. It was a letter accepting the call to Midbury. The thing had been hanging fire. His mind had been too chaotic for action. Now the child had settled it for him. London was no place for the child. She looked ethereal. The minister knew little about children to be able to distinguish between the ethereal and the delicate. He had a quick fear for Clary. She had fluttered into his breast as frail as an evening moth: a rough wind might kill her. She must have the air and the sunshine, the green fields and the wholesome country fare.

So Clary decided it for the minister.

IN KIDAN'S TENTS.

After more than a decade of years at Midbury, the Rev. Alexander Elliott had accepted the pastorate of Midsomer Deeping, which is a village situated, as might be expected from its name, in a lotus-eating country. There is a fashionable health resort, Midsomer Magna, some four miles off round a corner of the hills. There is also Midsomer Parva. All the Midsomers are dominated by the hills, a long line of exceedingly gracious hills, from the heights and terraces of which you look over a stretch of valley which is the very flower of English scenery. "Very England of very England," said someone of this unparalleled view; and one English-born must be a clod indeed if his heart does not leap within him looking across this fair and fertile valley; dotted with church spires, with little homesteads set in fruitful orchards; a slow river meandering its length like a silver snake in the heart of the valley; upon the distant horizon yet another line of exquisite hills. Blue are the distances there with a blueness that melts into and is repeated in the blue sky. There is a song of running water always from a million rivulets that come down from the hills; and there is always a bleating of sheep and lambs, for this is a quiet, pastoral country, a country of lush grass to your knees, and the flowers are everywhere.

At Midsomer Deeping there is perhaps less energy than at the Magna and Parva, as the inhabitants describe the other Midsomers shortly for the Deeping lies less on that under the hills. It basks in beauty all day and every day, and its inhabitants—the inhabitants of the Parva, too, for the Magna is chiefly populated by birds of passage and those who minister to their needs—have a curious gentleness in keeping with the exquisite place. There are exquisite manners at Midsomer Deeping and Midsomer Parva. It is a bit of feudal England, as an orator from Bruntingham once described it with a qualification of adjectives. Perhaps it is too sleepy to be actively political, but it is not stupid. Our orator was quite wrong when he said it was.

Mr. Elliott had set up his Ebenezer, as his flock would have put it, right at the foot of the hill about which the Parva clusters in villas hidden among the trees. There is a line where the Parva ceases to be, and the road descends steeply into the valley. After that the hills, clothed with verdure to a certain height, barren above that, belong, as does a great stretch of the shining vale, to the Godolphins. The Godolphins doubtless have kept the place as it is—that is to say, have kept the railway out and modern progress generally. The Godolphins are quite satisfied to dwell several miles from a railway station. The distance is not beyond the power of their fat horses when they are minded to use the railway, which is not often. Sir Humphrey Godolphin was fond of saying that he could not imagine what any man wanted beyond the Midsomers.

It was not a place where dissent was very flourishing. From the hill-side half-a-dozen church spires were visible in the valley. Their incumbents were, if not "Squarsons," at least younger sons. They were generally very good fellows, who rode to hounds, and were good judges of port. They had no yearning after new things, or strenuous things, and they spoilt the villagers in hard winters by gifts of coal and soup and warm clothing, and a general system of coddling. The Midsomers had no poor of their own. In the summer time an incessant, melancholy string of tramps passed by the Glebe, between Roeminster and Whargrave. Whargrave and Roeminster workhouses. They were sometimes rather unpleasant customers when a cottage or small farmhouse was not inclined to comply with their demands. The people blamed Sir Humphrey Godolphin at the court for this; for it was a tradition of the Court, extending over some four hundred years, that none who asked alms there should be sent away empty.

It was a most unexpected place in which to find a little handful of True Believers. The body was so small that it was a wonder it had not ceased to exist, and only a very unworldly person like Alick Elliott would have accepted the pastorate, which was much less well endowed than Midbury had been. To Alick Elliott the beauty and seclusion of Midsomer Deeping counted as against the greatest stipend, but it comprised within it some few substantial farmers, the grocer at Deeping village, and Lady Polkinghorne, who kept the body alive with some contributions from the farmers and grocer aforesaid.

Lady Polkinghorne was a brewer's widow, who, it was said, could have bought up the Godolphins many times over, yet all the Polkinghorne thousands could not have bought one rood of Godolphin ground, nor have obtained Lady Polkinghorne admittance to the Court if it were not that the lady, being a person of strong character, had won her own admission there, and the illness of Sir Humphrey and Lady Godolphin, despite the fact that certain strong opinions expressed by Lady Polkinghorne would make Sir Humphrey's eyes blink as though signaling had lashed across them.

If it were not for Lady Polkinghorne, the minister would not have found himself inhabiting the glebe, the little ivy-clad cottage at the foot of the hill, hidden away in its fragrant, overflowing cottage garden; for the glebe was Godolphin property, and in the ordinary way of things would never have been let to a minister of the True Believers.

As it was, Lady Godolphin had actually come to sit in the glebe parlour, a dim little room, shimmer for being walled in books—and to sip a glass of cowslip wine, which Anne had learned to make according to the recipe of the Deeping people. Lady Godolphin, who was shortsighted—she had an exquisite exotic air, and rather floated than walked through life, being the daughter of a family which had never married with less blue blood than its own for centuries—had stared at the book-lined walls and the few pictures in old gilt frames, at the various evidences of refinement, most of all at Clary.

NOTES.

Mr. Spencer Crakanthorp, the State champion, is an officer in the Bank of New South Wales. He was recently transferred to Barmedman. His absence from the team to represent this State against Victoria on Monday next will be a severe loss.

Interstate Chess: New South Wales v Victoria.—The match between teams representing these States will take place on Monday next. The mother State's team is requested to meet at the rooms of the Sydney School of Arts C.C. at 9.30 a.m. The players will be selected from amongst the following:—Messrs. Bignold, Bradshaw, Calvert, Cockhill, Crakanthorp, Cummings, Jacobsen, Jonas, Ridley, Spedding, Spence, Taylour, Tyler, and Veckman. Although, of course, the team is not the strongest possible, as evidenced by the absence of players like Mr. Spencer Crakanthorp, the State champion, and Messrs. Wallace, Crane, Britton, Henderson, Miles, and Vane, it is yet a representative team.

St. John's Institute C.C.—The club night has been altered from Tuesday to Thursday.

Sydney C.C. Continuous Tourney.—Spence beat Berry (2), Spence beat Nicholls, Spence beat Britton, Berry beat Spence, Berry beat Britton, Britton beat Berry (2), Bignold beat Corkhill, Bignold beat Berry.

German C.A.—The 17th annual congress will start on July 16 at Hamburg. There will be a masters' tourney, a Haupt tourney, and a sectional Haupt tourney, a consolation tourney, minor tourneys, and a problem competition, also brilliancy prizes.

"The Year Book of Chess, 1910."—Mr. Michell, the editor, has been ill, and publication has accordingly been delayed.

Continuous Tourneys.—These automatic ladder tourneys afford excellent amusement in a club. The players are graded into classes, each class having three subdivisions. Each player can only play five games against any particular opponent in a month. At the end of the month each player's wins and losses are totalled up; if he shows a surplus, he goes up a division for each point; if a deficiency, he goes down a point similarly. The players are handicapped into classes, and after the first month furnish their own rating by their scores. The competitors pay a penny for each game lost. This goes to swell the prize fund. It is wonderful the modesty that handicaps engender, and the piteous wails as to the odds to be conceded, and the general imbecility of the handicapping committee—and yet how the strong players manage to carry the weight!

Sydney School of Arts Championship Tourney.—Results to date: Jonas beat Cummings, Brown, and Calvert.

(a) . . . BQB4; 12. KtKt3, QK2 might be considered. This place could be occupied later on by the QKt after the manoeuvre: KtQR4, BB2, KtB5, followed by KtQ3, the Knight being necessary here to prevent White's expected manoeuvre KtR4 and KtB5.

(b) QK2 would be out of place now because of KtR4 and B5.

(c) Ever so much loss of time, as this Knight could have stood at Q3, as pointed out in note (a).

(d) The intention of this move is not quite clear, unless it means to be followed by QKt2. He might have tried 20. . . . BR; 21. KtR5, Kt(K2)Kt. The threatened sacrifice would thus be avoided, unless Marshall intended to provoke it; but this is doubtful.

(e) A tempting sacrifice, but doubtful whether sound. It might have been prepared with 23. BK4, so as to prevent Black's PK5.

(f) Obviously the pawn cannot be captured.

(g) PKB4 seems a better move. If 27. . . . RB6, then QKt5, threatening QB8.

(h) Now the move is inferior.

(i) It is questionable whether he might not have captured the Rook, remaining with two Rooks for Queen.

(j) 37. . . . PKt5 might be considered here. It would have kept the centre intact, and the Bishop out of play.

(k) The winning move. Black cannot stand check with the Bishop. Again a fine ending on the part of Showalter.—Field.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

BRITAIN IN AFRICA.

The National Society is issuing a useful series of historical and descriptive books about "Britain Across the Seas." That on Africa is by Sir Harry Johnston. The primary intention was to compile a work suitable for young students; but this is to state the claims of an admirable summary far too modestly. In effect Sir Harry Johnston gives within a moderate compass a brilliant sketch of the history of all our African possessions, and at the same time discusses lucidly contemporary problems. The introductory chapter gives an excellent recapitulation of African geography and ethnology. Next we have a graphic little narrative about the early adventures after pepper, slaves, and gold. The part played by pepper is perhaps unfamiliar. Pepper from Indian shrubs had been introduced into the dietary of the Greeks after Alexander's invasion of India; passed from them to the Romans, and from the Romans to the Goths. The supplies continued to come from India down to the fifteenth century, and the trade was a Venetian monopoly. Their price was no joke. A "peppercorn rent," the supply of a pound of pepper, meant between twenty and forty sovereigns of our money. The Moors of North-west Africa brought a similar spice into Spain, and there were also real pepper shrubs in West Africa. The Norman-French went looking for them there a century before Portuguese settlement began, and the trade was really the first inducement to English adventurers in the same quarter. This was about the middle of the 16th century. The early vicissitudes of Cape Colony and Natal, of Orange River and the Transvaal, afford the material for the next few chapters. Then comes an account of Rhodes and Rhodesia, and of Natal and the union of South Africa. British West Africa gets a considerable share of space, and there are other long chapters on the Egyptian Sudan and British East Africa. There is an adequate supply of maps and a large collection of photographic illustrations. We only hope Australia will be done as well.

KING EDWARD IN CANADA.

In "The King's Visit to Canada" the late Lieutenant Gough gives some boyish reminiscences of the voyage of the Hero in 1860, at which time he was serving as a midshipman. The Hero was a screw line-of-battle-ship with a complement of 800 officers and men. She was commanded by Captain G. H. Seymour, whose sister was about to marry Prince Victor of Hohenlohe, and the commander was G. H. Stirling, afterwards commodore of the Australian station, where he married a Sydney lady. Lieutenant Gough was a boy of 15 at this time. The Prince of Wales was accompanied by a large suite but the midshipmen occasionally dined at the Royal table. The crossing to Newfoundland was not very eventful, but it supplies some readable small talk. Ashore the midshipmen seem to have had a reasonable share of Canadian hospitality. At Niagara Blondin was giving his celebrated performance, and he generously offered to trundle the Prince of Wales over to American territory in a wheelbarrow. The staid persons in authority, however, would not give their consent. On the way home the Prince celebrated his nineteenth birthday at a gun-room dinner, and incidentally got thoroughly drenched by seas breaking through an open port, and making catastrophic close to the festivities. (Murray, through George Robertson.)

ENGLISH IN IRELAND.

Dr. P. W. Joyce's "English: As we Speak it in Ireland" (Longmans) is an interesting study in dialect. The author tells us he has been collecting his material for more than 20 years, and his little volume is perhaps the first systematic analysis of the subject; though, of course, there are numerous Irish items in Dr. Wright's great dialect dictionary. The old Irish language has considerably affected both vocabulary and pronunciation; moreover, there are many idioms which are direct translations from Irish. In addition to this, Irish dialect preserves many usages of Elizabethan English, and a good deal of the Elizabethan pronunciation one finds in Shakespeare. Under the early Stuarts came a great influx of Scotch settlers, and their dialect still strongly persists in Ulster. The author arranges his matter under subject headings in the first part of his book, and in the second gives an elaborate vocabulary and index, alphabetically arranged. Irish people everywhere, and those who love the Irish, will welcome these reminders of many a quaint phrase that has been music in their ears.

RUSKIN AND HIS CIRCLE.

Ada Garland's "Ruskin and his Circle" is a fairly successful attempt to treat Ruskin's biography from an independent point of view. Ruskin was born at a modest house in Brunswick-square in 1819, and brought up in the most rigid Puritanism. Half a century later he remembered the gift of three raisins as a notable occurrence—the simple life with a vengeance. A dreadfully worldly aunt who kept a bakehouse presented him with a Punch and Judy show, but the evangelical child was quickly taught by his mother how very wicked a Punch and Judy show was. A little later on a pious minister taught him Greek, but he had no chance of being contaminated by a Public school. One result was that he fell severely in love at 17. Fortunately his affection was not requited, and Ruskin went to Oxford. He met Turner in 1840, and the first volume of "Modern Painters" appeared three years later. Ruskin married in 1848, but the union proved a failure; his wife left him six years later, and subsequently married Millais. Most of the book is taken up with Ruskin's friendships. We thus get interesting glimpses of Turner and Carlyle, Burne-Jones and Morris, the Brownings, Mary Russell Mitford, and many others. In addition, there is an account of the famous lawsuit with Whistler, and a couple of chapters summarising Ruskin's teaching. (Dymock.)

SKETCHES AND SNAPSHOTS.

The Right Hon. W. E. Russell's "Sketches and Snapshots" is a delightful volume of essays about everything. The first deals with Queen Victoria and the Whigs, and begins: "Mamma, are Tories born wicked, or do they grow wicked afterwards?" "My dear, they are born wicked, and grow worse." The paper on William Ewart Gladstone was written in 1891, and is a brilliant analysis of a complex character. There are other notable portraits in the gallery, including Cardinal Manning, Matthew Arnold, Garibaldi, and Lord Rosebery. In the course of an interesting article on Harrow, Mr. Russell assures us that not only the main plot, but every important incident in "The Hill," is drawn from life. From Harrow, too, is drawn a charming portrait of F. W. Farrar, who had charge of Remove when Russell went to the school. There are several other readable essays on the human boy in his various fascinating aspects, and quite a host of short articles, rescued from the "Manchester Guardian" and other journals. (Dymock.)

SOME AMERICAN CREDULITY.

A good example of the pseudo-education and recurrent credulity so quaintly characteristic of the American people is Dr. Isaac W. Heysinger's "Spirit and Matter before the Bar of Modern Science" (Werner Laurie). This book proves conclusively the existence of the spiritual world, and that spiritualism is the basis of all true religion. As evidence the author brings forward the testimony of all the great scientists and leaders of modern thought, every one of whom is forced to the conclusion that in the spiritual world only the key to the mystery of the universe is to be found. Our own impression is that Dr. Heysinger knows very little about spirit, and nothing at all about matter. His acquaintance with "modern science" is of the crudest possible description, and its most authoritative exponents are American gentlemen of whom we regret to say we have never even heard. The reader who wishes to be merely amused can, however, be cordially recommended to the book, and if he learns nothing else he will learn the art of misusing quotations. The author is indefatigable at quotations. He quotes Spencer and Professor Jones, Locke and Haeckel, Luther and Canon Farrar, Tertullian and Sir John Franklin, St. Paul and Canon Barnett, Chopin and Cardinal Newman, Mrs. Ross Church and Sir William Crookes, Tacitus and Benjamin Kidd, Jesus Christ and S. R. Crockett, Daniel G. Brinton and Mrs. M'Hatton-Ripley, and "three ladies personally known to the author"—all with the same sublime and childish confidence. He is possessed of the most cheerful and refreshing dogmatism, and his capacity for belief in Philadelphia mediums is unlimited. His great standby is Von Hartmann's "Philosophy of the Unconscious," but the fact that Sir William Crookes saw a detached hand come down upon a table before him in full daylight, striking on the table, and producing loud sounds, is full proof for the story of Belshazzar's Feast. Inventions are a clear case of spiritualistic inspiration, and their cash value in the United States per annum is ten thousand million dollars. About a third of the book is given to the author's psychic experiences.

CONCERNING PRIVATEERS.

Commander Statham was sure of an audience when he wrote about "Privateers and Privateering," and with that in view, he was right in treating his subject in a popular fashion. He draws his tales from authentic sources, but he has made them as graphic as fiction. The distinction between piracy and privateering is somewhat of a fine one; nevertheless it exists, and the letter of marque almost makes the privateer a respectable character. We meet with casual privateers in very early times; by the middle of the 16th century they were a well recognised and, indeed, important class, and the vessels were fitted out as often by corporations as individuals. In the American and French wars of the 18th century there were literally thousands of privateers engaged, and we may be quite sure they did not inquire too nicely into the eligibility of their prey. Lord Nelson remarked in 1804, "The conduct of all privateers is as near piracy that I only wonder any civilised nation can allow them." Among the celebrated privateers whose stories are here told are Barton, Dampier, Rogers, Fortunatus Wright, George Walker, Barney, and Boyle, together with a selection of the best French examples of the craft. (Dymock.)

MOTLEY AND HIS FAMILY.

The correspondence of J. C. Motley was published in 1889, but large further stores of letters were available, and these have been drawn upon for "J. C. Motley and his Family." There are, for instance, several fresh letters to Bismarck, and there are several epistles of Oliver Wendell Holmes to Motley. Those interested in literary and diplomatic history will find the volume well worth attention. It is a quaint example of the errors of publishers that John Murray declined to publish "The Price of the Dutch Republic," which was brought out by Chapman in 1856 at the author's expense. It was an immediate success, and, of course, has long since become an historic classic. There are some excellent portraits of the Motley family, and a very quaint silhouette of Prince Bismarck as a student. (Dymock.)

THE COURT OF WILLIAM III.

Those who like royal gossip will enjoy Edwin and Marion Grew's "The Court of William III." This is in no sense a history; it is a series of pen pictures of the men and women of the time and their part in current events is mostly told by themselves in letters and diaries. A good deal of correspondence thus appears for the first time in print, and the authors must be commended for much patient research. No important person seems to have been overlooked. Danby and Halifax, Marlborough and Hume, Bentinck and Sunderland, Somers and Montague, Rochester and Harley, are all here, with their portraits attached. The text throws many side lights on the period, and the book was much better worth doing than much contemporary memoir writing. (Dymock.)

RECENT FICTION.

Elizabeth Banks' "The Luck of the Black Cat" (George Allen) is a volume of exceptionally bright and clever short stories. Most of them are little studies of some type of woman, and the balance between pathos and humour is well maintained. The real humanity of the portraits, however, is what charms the reader. The episodes are all trifling and commonplace, but they are so subtly worked out that we find ourselves interested in the most minor of tragedies.

Patricia Wentworth's "A Marriage Under the Terror" (George Robertson) is the Melrose 250 guineas prize story. There is, however, no indication of amateurism about the book, which is an exceedingly crisp and well-written narrative with plenty of dramatic movement. The local colour is not too much emphasised, but the authoress has made herself thoroughly familiar with the period, and the result is a graphic, well-balanced picture, with a strong human interest.

William Allen White's "A Certain Rich Man" (Macmillan) is a fine and careful performance, showing the American novel at its best. The author works on a large canvas, and follows his hero from boyhood, in a frontier village at the time of the war, to those later days when he becomes an unscrupulous master of finance. Before it is too late, however, that hero learns what it shall profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul. Mr. White writes with a patience that wins its way with the reader who is not in too great a hurry, and this novel is perhaps the best he has done.

"Ubique, the Scientific Bushranger," by Clarence Martin, is an agreeable detective yarn, in which the detective is always nonplussed by an up-to-date bushranger. After each exploit the latter adds insult to injury by writing to the detective to tell him how it was done. In the end they discover they were boys together, and swear eternal friendship. Steele Rudd's "On an Australian Farm" is on familiar lines, but the humour of the author never seems to flag. Both the above from the N.S.W. Bookstall Co.

Mrs. Humphry Ward's "Canadian Born" (Macmillan) has run as a serial in this journal. The tragedy and pathos of it, with its final triumph of love over convention, will therefore be familiar to most readers; but many will be glad to have this vivid picture of Canada to-day in book form.

Somewhat of a novelty are the "Tales from Bengal" (Longmans), by S. B. Banerjea. Mr. Skrine contributes a lengthy introduction, and edits the tales themselves, which were originally written for a native audience. The result throws some interesting sidelights on native thought and habit.

In "The King of Four Corners" (Hutchinson, through George Robertson) Mr. G. B. Burgin returns to his earlier creations, Ikey and Old Man. Ikey on the point of death promises to return to the Old Man, and the unexpected shape in which, according to the Old Man's imagination, the return takes place is the theme of a pathetically humorous story. The setting is French Canadian. Mr. Burgin shows no sign of exhausting his field.

Desmond Coke's "Beauty for Ashes" (Hodder and Stoughton) is a decidedly clever study of temperament. Humphry Scott-Mahon has returned home from the Indian Civil Service to take his inheritance of Bufcot Priory and great possessions. An ordinary young man would have been well satisfied, but the hero was a supreme egoist with a mania for self-realisation. His inheritance had forced him to abandon a career, and he hated it in consequence. He tries to get rid of the incubus of the great house that makes him poor on five thousand a year, and goes slumming in the East End, where Joe the Hooligan is a precious discovery. In the end, however, he finds the quest of self-realisation does not succeed, and he learns that he has a duty to the property fate has given into his hands. The book is worth reading.

Fergus Hume's "The Lonely Subaltern" (Bell) is an exciting murder story with a military setting and the right amount of love and mystery thrown in. It is readable all through, and that is all one can expect.

In "Black Sheep" (Werner Laurie), Stanley P. Hyatt deserts South Africa for London. His hero this time had been knocking about the world in China, India, Australia, and South America, but comes home and begins afresh—it is not too late to begin afresh. Naturally his friends do not give him a very enthusiastic welcome, but he tried to make his way in journalism, and had the incidental help of a pretty love story of his own. The book is well written.

Alice Meadows' "The Wicked World" (Werner Laurie) is a long, rambling story, but those who like conventional fiction will find it readable enough. It is mostly about the wicked Reginald, Earl of Brent, and the women who had cause to suffer from his callous, cruel conduct. When Wilton killed him with a blow on the head from a thick stick no one was ever the wiser, and most people were glad he was dead.

Mrs. Parry Truscott's "The Question" (Werner Laurie) is as fresh, vigorous, and original as her previous books, and is sure of a good reception. Rupert May was a rising young pianist, and he had to win his spurs before Josephine would marry him. When the critical moment came he could not play at all. Then Josephine discovered she wanted him, and not a pianist. The book is full of clever character sketches.

Lady Troubridge's "The Woman Who Forgot" (Mills and Boon) is a modern love story, which opens in a Continental railway train, and is rudely interrupted by a thrilling railway smash. Fright took away the girl's memory, and the hero, who did not even know her name, took charge of her forthwith. She was still ignorant of her past when she married him. Shortly after another man claimed her as his wife—which was decidedly awkward for all parties.

John Barnett's "Eve in Earnest" (Bell) is a clever and pleasing study of a young girl with plenty of both pathos and humour in it. Eve is a charming girl, and the portrait of her father, the literary genius who sits on the tables to compose his magnum opus, so as to be out of the way of the mice, is a touching piece of work.

SHORTER NOTICES.

A pleasant little anthology of sea poems interspersed with prose selections is "Full Fathom Five" (Bell). The choice has been made by Helen and Lewis Melville, whose "London's Lure," a similar anthology, created a very favourable impression. In this volume the verse extracts come from a multitude of authors—William Sharp, Theodore Watts-Dunton, Edward Dowden, and Richard Garnett—as well as inescapable "classics."

Dr. Haydn Brown writes a sensible little book on "Sleep and Sleeplessness," in which he crusades vigorously against the use of drugs, and advocates simple hypnotic methods of producing sleep. Incidentally he assures us that not merely sleeplessness, but many disorders contributing to it, are caused by indigestion, and he recommends careful dieting as the most generally applicable cure. (Dymock.)

In "Law and Liberty" (Angus and Robertson) Mr. A. W. Johnston, M.A. (Syd.), writes a "Manual of the Elements of Political Economy for the use of Statesmen, Teachers, and Students." All this is accomplished in 86 pages of large print minus a liberal allowance of diagrams. A few elementary facts of economics are stated, but the author's principal object is to denounce Land Monopoly, Tariffism, and the Gold Standard. He thinks Single Tax and Paper Money will secure the millenium. Also the Governing Body must make religion the basis of all its political measures; otherwise it may enact laws in opposition to Natural Law—about which last the author tells us in the preface he has written a treatise for his own information.

Mrs. Lambert Chambers, a celebrated player, writes a charming little book under the title "Lawn Tennis for Ladies" (Chatto and Windus). The text includes a brief introduction on athletics for girls, hints on practice and match play, rackets and courts, tournament and club mangement, some personal reminiscences, and a chapter in which some leading players describe their most memorable match. There are also some dainty illustrations. Players of both sex will welcome the volume.

"From the Thames to the Seine" (Chatto and Windus) is a very pleasant narrative of a voyage in a small boat from London to Calais, and thence along the north coast of France. The author is at once seaman, artist, and writer. He describes his little experiences very brightly, and illustrates his text with sketches that have been admirably reproduced in colour and monotone. He enlists the cordial sympathy and interest of the reader all through.

We receive a copy of "Burdett's Hospitals and Charities" for 1910. Sir Henry has now brought out the manual for 21 years. The present edition contains two new chapters; one deals with orphanages, the other with State aid to hospitals in Canada and the United States. The chapter on nurses and nursing has also been greatly extended. The usual features of the work continue to make it indispensable to the hospital world.

Mr. Hugh Mocatta's "Impounding Law" (Law Book Company) was originally issued 13 years ago, and there has been for some time a demand for the new edition, which is now available. This was the more necessary in view of the effects of the Local Government Act on impounding law. The present edition is as complete and up to date as it could be made, and a large number of cases have been added to the original notes.

The May number of the "Art Journal" (Virtue and Co.) is specially good. Sir Martin Conway contributes an article on Gruyeres, which Mr. A. R. Quinton supplies with a charming series of drawings. Lewis Hind discourses on the consolations of an injured critic in a brightly-written causerie, and there are good articles on nature study and on W. K. Haselden, with many illustrations of that humorist's methods. A colour reproduction of Turner, and an etching of Notre Dame must also be mentioned.

A SURE CURE FOR CROUP.
NEARLY HALF A CENTURY'S USE WITHOUT A FAILURE.

The first indication of croup is hoarseness, and in a child subject to croup it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of the attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy be given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is used in many thousands of homes in Australasia, and never disappoints the anxious mother. We have yet to learn of a single instance in which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has not been effective. No other preparation can show such a record. Nearly half a century of constant use without a failure.—Advt.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Mr. Alex. Butler, the new American stage-manager brought over by J. C. Williamson to produce "The Dollar Princess," narrowly missed visiting Australia as chief comedian in "The Merry Monarch," in place of the late George Lauri, 20 years ago. At that time both artists were under Mr. Gilmore's management in connection with combinations for comic opera and spectacular extravaganza, and the fact that Mr. Butler was more prominently identified with the latter kept him where he was. No sooner had Mr. Lauri sailed than, as the wind-up to a continuous tour of 39 weeks, the company opened at the Central Theatre, Philadelphia, which caught fire just as the curtain rose at the first performance, and was burnt to the ground, with the loss of 13 lives. Originally the newcomer started at Buffalo as a call-boy, became prompter, then assistant stage-manager, and at 19 years of age was stage-manager at the Grand Opera House, New York, under Mr. French. Mr. Butler at one time went all over South America, Jamaica, Cuba, and other places, directing spectacular entertainments, in which the then famous Hanlon-Lees pantomimists figured, and in New York he joined Augustin Daly's company on tour as the Professor in "A Night Off." For nearly two years he stage-managed under the late Richard Mansfield in "Richard III." and other legitimate pieces, and helped to produce "Beau Brummell," the first piece written by Clyde Fitch. This author since so successful, was then unknown, and this comedy was tried at rehearsal, and cast aside, three times, before it "caught on" with the public. After a while Mr. Butler joined Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger at the Casino Theatre, New York, as one of their leading comedians (and basso), in musical pieces, and, after a year or two, was engaged for London, where he staged "The Earl of Pawtucket" for Mr. Cyril Maude at the Playhouse (1907), "The School Girl" and "The Catch of the Season," with Edna May, and other pieces. Mr. Butler, who must now be regarded as a much-travelled artist, has also visited South Africa, where (for the Messrs. Wheeler) he produced "The Merry Widow," "The Little Michus," and other notable pieces; and whilst Mr. Spencer Barry was here recently, the newcomer replaced him for a year as stage-director at the Empire Theatre, London. Mr. Butler, whose talents have been happily exemplified in "The Dollar Princess," has had a very wide experience, which embraces "Man and Superman," a Shaw comedy, which he directed in America, and of which he has a very high opinion, for production in Australia.

The dramatic side of Mme. Calve's art has so evidently appealed to admirers of the songstress both in Sydney and in Melbourne that her managers have decided to bring her forward at the Princess's Theatre in costume recitals, with orchestra and scenic accessories. In these operatic scenes Signor Galileo Gasparri will assist, and should the experiment prove especially successful, Messrs. J. and N. Tait will endeavour to secure theatres in some of the other State capitals. It will be remembered that Mme. Melba carried on such a season at the Sydney Theatre Royal at the end of 1902, without chorus, but with orchestra (under Herr Slapoffski) and a complete cast of principals, which included Mme. Slapoffski, Herr Louis Arens, Signor Bensaude (baritone), and Lempriere Pringle (basso). The scenic detail extended to the inclusion of the advance-guard of the seraphic host, with arms outstretched towards the forgiven Marguerite. The Melba charges at that time were a trifle severe upon musical devotees, the best seats being appraised at £3 3s and £2 2s; but the heavy booking was confined to the £1 1s and 10s 6d places. This little opera season, at which scenes from "Faust," "Lucia," "La Traviata," and "Rigoletto" were given, proved entirely successful.

Mr. Matheson Lang tells how the unconscious use of one small slang expression killed a whole performance in New York. He was leading man on the American tour of Mrs. Langtry, and the piece was "The Crossways." The leading man had been telling his love to Mrs. Langtry, and when she turned her head away, as if in pain, and gave him the answer to his unsuccessful suit, he knelt at her feet, and murmured, "Forget it; oh, forget it." A burst of laughter came from all parts of the theatre, some of the audience rocking themselves in the transports of their mirth. Mr. Lang was staggered. So were other English members of the company. But the reason of the mirth was explained. It turned out that "Forget it" was a popular slang term. When a person told a story which the other person was unable to swallow, the latter expressed his view of it by the remark, "Forget it!"

Mdlle. Antonia Dolores, who is now en route to Sydney, will make a very comprehensive tour of Australasia. She will open her season in Sydney on Wednesday, June 29, and at the conclusion of her concerts here will go northwards to Brisbane, and thence to Northern and Central Queensland, going as far as Charters Towers. Concerts in country towns in this State will be given before visiting Melbourne and other places in Victoria, the summer months being spent in New Zealand. The last portion of the tour will be devoted to Tasmania, South Australia, and Western Australia. In the meantime the arrival of the favourite French soprano is eagerly looked for from Perth to Thursday Island, her numerous tours, always lasting longer than a year, having endeared her to audiences throughout Australasia.

Mr. Walter Bentley intends shortly to produce a romantic play, in which he lately appeared in England, but which he has not had as yet an opportunity of presenting to Sydney playgoers, called "For the King." The story is set in the period of Charles I., and deals with Captain Harry Clavering, who is about to set out with despatches for the Royalist camp. He is captured by the Cromwellians, but as he has taken the precaution of giving the despatches to his boy guide, and they are not found, he is condemned to death as a spy. Cromwell endeavours to worm from him the secret of the King's hiding-place, but fails, and ultimately allows Clavering to visit his wife and child before his execution, his friend and comrade, Captain Rupert Vane, being hostage for his return. By the evil machinations of a Commonwealth colonel named Wenlock, Clavering is intercepted, and after a series of exciting episodes he arrives back in York, only just in time to save his friend from being shot. There is a large cast of supporting characters, all played by members of Mr. Bentley's Dramatic Club. Miss Stella Chapman will appear as Margaret Clavering, and Mr. Victor Coben as General Oliver Cromwell, and Mr. Bentley will be seen as Captain Clavering.

Miss Ivy Evelyn Scott and Miss Ada Stirling, both identified with the J. C. Williamson opera companies, are sailing for Vancouver on Monday by the Marama on their way to New York. The former artist has been before the public from early childhood, as she began her stage career in 1892 at the Sydney Theatre Royal in Bland Holt's revival of "Master and Man," with Charles Glenney and Edith Blande in the cast, when she "ran on" as little Johnnie. With the same dramatic company little Ivy Scott appeared as Sir Cuthbert in "The Trumpet Call," and she was the Cupid with Maggie Moore in the "Blue Beard" pantomime. Many people remember the bright girl as she approached her teens for her share in the popular duet (with Carrie Moore) "I won't play in your yard" in "Djin-Djin;" and for the past ten years she has played cleverly, and employed her bird-like soprano with tact in a score of musical comedies, making successes in Chopmette ("Paul Jones"), Fiametta ("La Mascotte"), Nan ("A Country Girl"), Natouma ("The Cingalee"), and Alice Coverdale ("Lady Molly"). Miss Scott's own favourite part is Molly Seymour in "The Geisha." Both artists carry strong letters of recommendation with them to leading New York managers, and should have no difficulty in securing good engagements.

Mr. Frank Speaight, an elocutionist and interpreter of Dickens, who has toured England and the United States several times with remarkable success, is on his way to Australia under engagement to Messrs. J. and N. Tait, and will open in Melbourne during next month. In addition to the masterpieces of Dickens, this artist's repertoire includes Shakespearian and other classics, in all of which he has made a name.

SCIENCE NOTES.

A WORLD BORN COLD.

Mr. E. A. C. Schwarz, in "Causal Geology" (Blackie), writes one of those exceedingly useful and stimulating books which gather up scattered threads of apparently disconnected research and show how when brought together they all tend towards a vivid generalisation. The author is Professor of Geology at Rhodes University College, and he had previously spent ten years on the geological survey of South Africa. As he went about that work in a country bare of soil and whose river-cut sections are unparalleled in magnitude and clearness, the facts began to present themselves to him in an order different from that of nineteenth century textbooks, and he found himself the victim of novel ideas. The publication of the Chamberlin planetismal hypothesis four or five years ago, however, together with the large amount of support it has received, confirmed him in a larger heterodoxy, and he continued to accumulate the material for his present work, which is at once a field verification and an expansion of the Chamberlin theory. Besides being a field geologist entitled to considerable respect, he has evidently been a careful and conscientious reader of current scientific literature, for he works in, more or less neatly, all sorts of little facts, from the growth of algae to stellar collision. The fundamental proposition, of course, is that we live on a solid earth born cold. Assuming the disruptive effect of stellar approach, Chamberlin accounts, say, for the origin of the solar system in a manner radically different from that of Laplace. The theory has often been referred to in these columns. Starting with the time when the solar system was a solid cold sphere, a dead sun, we imagine a similar though larger body coming, say, within 100,000,000 miles of it in the course of the aimless wanderings of the two in space. The distorting influence of gravitation drew up the solid matter of the dead sun as the moon draws up the tide. Huge, and less huge, fragments were torn off under the strain, and distributed through a gigantic spiral, at certain points of which it is shown such fragments would tend to aggregate. These centres of aggregation ultimately became the planets, and upon them the swarms of smaller fragments for long rained down incessantly as they still rain in the form of meteorites. Surface incandescence of both sun and planets was the result. In effect the earth was built up, not from an incandescent gaseous mass, but from solid meteors. The composition of existing meteors indicates the composition of the primitive earth substance; essentially nickel-iron and silicates with occluded gases. There was no atmosphere of free oxygen, and the earth grew up as a mass of unaltered basic silicate and metallic nickel-iron in the proportion of four to six. As long as the meteor showers lasted the surface was kept at a high temperature, but in the absence of an atmosphere radiation was rapid, and the central portion became quickly cold, except for the secondary effects of distortional movements caused by the sun. But under the influence of the surface high temperature the outer iron absorbed carbon, and a certain amount of oxygen was liberated. Such primitive atmosphere as there was consisted of nitrogen, hydrogen, some hydrocarbons, and the carbon oxides. The liberated oxygen combined with the primitive hydrogen to form water, which, when the temperature permitted, condensed and fell. At a very early stage after this, when the oceans were still perhaps at a high temperature, living organisms began to appear which absorbed carbon dioxide and liberated oxygen, thus manufacturing our atmosphere. The advent of water meant the gradual disintegration of the primitive silicates, and carbonates of iron and magnesium were carried away in solution along with lime, soda, potash, and so on. Very little iron and magnesia salts, however, reached the sea, as very little reaches the sea to-day. Iron and nickel, perhaps, as the result of magnetic forces, tend to disappear into the earth's iron core. The solvent action of water under considerable pressure and charged with carbon dioxide was greater than it is now. The original oceans were strong solutions of iron, magnesium, and lime salts with dissolved silica. From this again crystalline siliceous deposits were formed. From what is called secular creep or some other reason the positions of the land masses slowly changed, and the ocean floors were laid bare, and in turn exposed to denudation. From them sediments of uncrystallised silica again accumulated, and became subject to the agents of metamorphism. In the deeper parts under pressure the aluminium silicates and limestones were dissolved and crystallised as glass is dissolved by water under pressure in capillary tubes and deposited as crystalline silicates. Such was the origin of quartz. Again, in the beginning change of distribution of land and water was due only to secular creep; later the loading of continental shores greatly accelerated the process, which has gone on until the whole mass of the surface to a depth of 30 miles or so has been worked over. There are several ways of knowing that to that depth rocks are siliceous, solid, and crystalline, and contain water in interspaces. Under pressure normal sediments, however diverse originally, pass by interchange of material in solution into a rock consisting essentially of quartz, felspar, and an iron magnesium silicate. Water is a powerful solvent at a depth of twenty or thirty miles, and that in the rock interspaces causes them to pass into solution with any increase of pressure, or under differential movements. Hence we may have practically liquid though cold rocks at that depth. They will therefore transmit pressure equally in all directions, and the result of a subsequent recrystallisation will be not a foliated gneiss, but an irregularly grained granite. This is the subtle modern way of doing without the imaginary internal heat of the earth. Borings seem to show that temperature is dependent on quite local conditions, and is due to chemical changes, radio activity, and the friction of differential movements—the earth's crust is never still. Rocks are folded cold, nothing like the melting point of silica being required. If water could penetrate further the crust of the earth would be thicker. As it is, the centrosphere is held to be identical in composition with meteorites; and there is some direct evidence of this. High temperatures are not necessary to account for volcanoes. Pressure and friction along zones of movement locally fuse rocks containing water, which is thus converted into steam, which gives rise to explosion channels leading to the surface. The apparent extreme diversity of the earth's rocks is a surface phenomenon. They separated out originally from granite, and when in course of time they are again buried they are reconverted into granite. The cycle is recurrent. The existence of continents on the planetismal theory is due primarily to the fall of large meteorites; denudation and consequent shore loading forced these areas up, and gave rise to the folding of mountain chains. The continual pull of the sea slowly shifted these ridges (secular creep), traces of five of which still remain. The author illustrates these broad outlines with a wealth of intrinsically sound and interesting data. For instance, he points out the similarity between stony meteorites and the matrix of the Kimberley diamonds—the common denomination of the two hardly needs stating if we accept the planetismal theory. The diamond pipe in effect is an opening through which the meteoric earth core has welled up. South African geology again gives some evidence for the idea that certain terrestrial lava plains, like those of the moon, have been formed by the impact of large meteors fusing the rock on which they fell. In another interesting chapter the author reviews the evidence that life originated in the soil rather than in the sea, and closely related to this is the question whether we could have had life in an atmosphere of hydrogen and carbon dioxide—a question it is usual to answer in the affirmative. There is nothing against the assumption that the original atmosphere had been distilled out of meteorites. With regard to the internal heat of the earth, a great deal of interesting matter has been brought together, and the author discusses in turn many other outstanding problems, such as the effects of pressure, the cause of volcanoes, the origin of rocks, and the earth folds. The whole book represents an interesting attempt to interpret geology in the light of the planetismal theory, and it is well worth reading.

AMERICAN FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

A SECOND FLEET CRUISE.

NEW YORK, April 11.

Secretary Knox is a Cabinet member who is reported as contemplating resignation before the end of the year. Perhaps not altogether justly, he has been blamed for all the diplomatic misfortunes that have recently befallen the Washington State Department—such as the success of Japan in the Manchurian negotiations, the escape of Castro from adequate punishment, and the still undecided position of the Chinese loan matter. With Canada, too, everything is again at sixes and sevens, because after an agreement had been patched up about the tariff Canada has practically prohibited the export of the raw material of wood pulp. In short, if newspapers, regardless of party, are at one about anything, it is that the Administration has been thwarted, perhaps even outwitted, in most of its recent ventures. Mr. Knox's friends, however, claim that he had a bad hand to play, and has done better with it than might have been fairly expected. Congress shares the general discontent at the attitude of the outside world, and will almost certainly pass the reported bill to forbid civil or military or naval officials to accept gifts or decorations from foreign Powers. At present officials take such things and deposit them in the hands of the Government until Congress authorises them to accept them. About 200 frivolities of this nature are thus awaiting a final disposition, and what will become of them, unless Congress changes its mood, is a mystery. Of course, this country has no orders or medals to give back to distinguished foreigners in return, and that, of itself, makes the acceptance of them more or less an embarrassment. Furthermore, the plan to purchase permanent homes for the legations abroad has been summarily voted down, for in Congressional eyes the "splurging" of some of the present ambassadors—appointed abroad because in several notorious cases their services to the party could not be recognised by preferment at home—has become a great scandal. Quite possibly, should some diplomatic cataclysm end in the recall of ambassadors from several of the Great Powers, no successors would ever be appointed, negotiations thenceforward being conducted through the consulates for ordinary business and directly in greater affairs between the respective Foreign Ministers themselves by cable. Formal presentations at Court and the White House could still be made by friendly citizens, and one source of acute national irritation would thus be removed. And, finally, Congress has not only authorised a marked expansion of the navy, but has secretly pledged the individual support of the more prominent members of the leading committees to a second cruise of the fleet, now fully twice the effective strength it had when it started two years ago, to the European coast and the Mediterranean and quite possibly east about through the Suez Canal to the Philippines, China, Hawaii, and San Francisco. The first point will be Gibraltar, and then dividing into four divisions every important port in the Mediterranean will be visited. The number of ships will be the same as before, but no less than four will be of the Dreadnought type—the Delaware, North Dakota, South Carolina, and the Michigan. These four will be a division by themselves. Three other new vessels will figure in the new fleet, and the seven old ships to stay at home will be the Kentucky, Kearsage, Ohio, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, and Alabama. Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder will be in command, and if the fleet goes to San Francisco the voyage will be continued through the Magellan Straits. The start will be made probably as before from Hampton Roads in November; the signal to depart will be given as before from the bridge of the Presidential yacht Mayflower by Mr. Taft, Secretary of the Navy Meyer standing at his side.

Harry Freedman, twice champion of Scotland, gave a simultaneous exhibition of draughts playing at Johannesburg recently. Mr. Freedman played 16 opponents, won 11, and drew 2, on Boxing Night. On New Year's Day he played 24 games, of which only two draws were secured against him.

The champion of England arrived during the week, and is causing a great stir in Melbourne.

Mr. Jordan, according to present arrangements, will make a two months' tour of Australia, giving exhibitions of his skill at the various draughts-playing centres.

Mr. Willie Gardner, the Yorkshire champion, recently gave a very successful display of blindfold draughts at Runcorn, contesting 14 games simultaneously against the leading players of Widnes and Runcorn. Of these the champion won 13, and the remainder were drawn.

Banks, the new American champion, has been challenged for the title and a purse of 500 dollars by C. H. Leggett, of Saratoga Springs, a comparatively unknown player, who has a record of numerous drawn games played with the late C. F. Barker. Leggett was an interested spectator of the Banks v Henderson match.

THE FINAL CUP TIE.

SCENES AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

ASTOUNDING FOOTBALL FIGURES.

LONDON, April 29.

The final cup tie was played at the Crystal Palace on Saturday last, between Newcastle United and Barnsley, in the presence of 80,000 people, and, resulting in a draw, was replayed yesterday at Everton, when 60,000 people saw Newcastle win by 2 goals to nil. That is the prosaic way of suggesting the last scene of England's greatest sporting drama. It really needs an epic.

Sixty-four clubs took part in the first round of the Football Association cup competition on January 15, and subsequent rounds eliminated all save the two clubs named. £60,000 has been paid by the public for admission to the contests, and £60,000 represents a total of spectators well over a million. Not that that by any means represents the aggregate association football attendances. On the contrary. Simultaneously with the cup tie contests, 40 of the clubs were also engaged in the "league competitions," 20 in the first division, and 20 in the second division, the point at issue being that at the end of the competition two clubs, by reason of results, would be promoted from the second division to the greater gate-producing opportunities of the first division, and other two, also by reason of results—losses, to wit—relegated from the first division to the second division, and the disadvantages thereof. It is estimated that during the season 2,000,000 people attended the first league games, and 1,250,000 the second league games. Then there are the competitions of the Southern League, the Scottish League, the Welsh, and Irish, and a host of other leagues, all drawing crowds Saturday after Saturday. Association football thus easily dwarfs, in point of popularity, every other form of British sport.

The attendance of 80,000 on Saturday last is quite good for a cup tie final, though it had been approached in the earlier rounds, and also in some of the league games. The record Crystal Palace "gate" is 110,000. That multitude foregathered in 1901, when Tottenham Hotspur and Sheffield United contested the final tie. But Tottenham Hotspur is a London club, and the Crystal Palace is a London ground, and since that year no London club has survived the final, else would the record have been disturbed. Finals in which both sides are from the provinces have not the same amount of interest for the Londoner. He is only mildly concerned in the matter under those conditions, does not go to the cup tie at all; goes, rather, to the local league game being fought on the same day. Of the 80,000 at the Crystal Palace on Saturday, it is estimated that 50,000 came from Yorkshire and the north of England, and the Midlands. The fiercest local rivalry animates the games throughout the competition. Sydney's wildest crowd of "barrackers" for their district club in the Metropolitan Rugby Union competition is an assemblage of mild-mannered propriety compared with a crowd of London toughs following the fortunes, say, of Chelsea or West Ham United, or Queen's Park Rangers, or the aforesaid Tottenham Hotspurs, while the progress of the provincial sides is not only watched in provincial cities and towns with incredible anxiety, but the said sides are often followed to the place of battle, over long railway journeys, by thousands of their fellow-townsmen—and great, and sometimes grievous, happenings ensue.

As for the descent on London of the provincial audience for the final tie, that is a sight to which no sporting event in Australia offers any parallel. The excitement begins with the result of the semi-finals a month earlier. Certain two towns know that their heroes are to provide the great Cup Tie Palace spectacle. Financial clubs are hastily formed all over the districts concerned. Thousands join. Weekly subscriptions are paid in, and a financial basis is thereby secured for journeys to London otherwise impossible to these men, for they are of the working class. In the case of the two clubs concerned this year, Barnsley is a town in Yorkshire, and Newcastle is farther north still. At Barnsley, especially, the excitement was tremendous. Newcastle has appeared in the final four times in the past six years; but Barnsley was an outsider, and its attainment of such a dignity quite unexpected. The town rose to the occasion. Factories ceased work; coal-miners emerged in hundreds from their invisible lairs. Thousands of men made ready for invasion of the metropolis, while at Newcastle were similar thousands. The exodus was duly marshalled into companies, and on Friday night crowded excursion trains bore them from the north and set them in London at daybreak on Saturday morning. The streets swarmed with them—short, sturdy men for the most part, and easily to be distinguished from Londoners proper. Every man of them wore his colours in his coat, and a cloth cap on his head. They marched through the streets in battalions. In every thoroughfare one came upon the crimson rosettes of Barnsley, and the black and white rosettes of Newcastle, and groups of thick-set cloth-capped men sounding their bull-lungs, and estimating the curiosities of London life as distinguished from their own. Many of them had never seen London before, and for benefit of these, processions of fours-in-hand moved about the city in pursuit of its sights. Sometimes one of these drags would overtook a group 50 strong of their fellows on the side-walk. The latter alike stopped to cheer, and shout, and exchange holiday courtesies, in a clatter of broad vowels and picturesque phrases exceedingly hard to follow. Altogether a laughing, jovially noisy lot, these north countrymen, with any amount of humour concealed behind the iron hardness of their outward seeming, and all of it available for their big day in London and "t'Coop." Though they could not always catch the flavour of the witticisms constantly addressed to them in this so strange tongue, Londoners all over gave them were glad enough to see the sturdy little men of the north, and to give them friendly greeting. Many hundreds of the more seasoned invaders, knowing the power of London's lures to deprive them even of the great game, in wary avoidance thereof went about the Crystal Palace in the early morning, slept in the grounds by way of preliminary, and arose refreshed, and in time to bank themselves with their comrades upon the terraces, in full vigour of the football enthusiasm that had brought them hundreds of miles from their homes.

The strangest thing about this great game upon which so many thousands of people are so concentrated for months in every year is that generally it is one of the poorest exhibitions of football in which the players take part. It is in the final tie both sides will be below their normal. The strain of the Crystal Palace match breeds a trouble among the players well-known here as "Palacitis." The men become nervous, and fail to do their reputations justice. It happened so once again on Saturday. Newcastle United are a side of extremely clever players. Their game is a scientific exposition of the Association code, in which skill and not strength predominates. Barnsley, on the other hand, is a side of the sturdily vigorous type, whose methods are on the bustling order. To the astonishment of everybody they had won through to the final, and now most people wanted to see them take the cup, because they are a young side, and because, moreover, they are all Englishmen, while Newcastle is a composite eleven made up of English, Scotch, and Irish players. From the kick-off both sides gave evidence of anxiety. The fine points of Association football were conspicuously absent, while its unpleasant features were freely exploited. "Fouls" and "off-side" were numerous, and the referee's whistle soon became a nuisance. There was much haphazard play, and very little of the short pass, quick dribble game, which is one of the Association code's most interesting assets. On the contrary, speculative kicking was frequent, the ball was too often wildly flying in air, and for a long time the game was a mere scramble, with bustle and luck as its chief constituents. Then came Barnsley's goal, certainly a clever effort, for by means of an unexpected inward pass and a swift opportunist shot by a handy forward, the ball beat Newcastle's goal-keeper, and cannoned into the net off the post. A deafening shout went up from the multitude, and a ringing of bells, and a springing of rattles; and with the roar of sound an astounding vision of many thousands of cloth caps wildly waving. That was a great moment. Half-time occurred shortly afterwards, with the supporters of Barnsley justifiably elate, and their crimson favours proudly prominent. The second half consisted largely of attacks by Newcastle and sturdy spoilings by Barnsley, and, in particular, much clever deviation of the ball by head passes. It was an agile head movement, in fact, which equalised matters 10 minutes from the end, when the thousands of Newcastle men on the ground were becoming despondent, for into the centre of an attacking movement near the Barnsley goal a Newcastle forward suddenly sprang to intercept, met the ball with his head, and adroitly turned it into the net. Then arose the men of the North in a vast body, and cheered and cheered again, and Newcastle, at last playing their reputed game, swarmed upon the Barnsley stronghold in a series of rapid and exceedingly skilful movements. The ball travelled from man to man with quite exhilarating accuracy, and a winning score seemed certain; but Barnsley's defence was staunch, and at the final whistle Newcastle were still vainly attacking, and the game was still 1 all.

IN THE GARDEN.

PAEONIES.

Paeonies are strikingly handsome, compact-growing plants, with distinctly ornamental foliage, and very large single and double flowers resembling gigantic roses. The blooms are variously and gorgeously coloured, the double white and brilliant crimson ones being particularly attractive. Many of the varieties have flowers which possess the delightful fragrance of tea roses. Paeonies are very hardy plants, which thrive and flower more profusely in the cooler and colder parts of the State than on the warmer eastern side of the Dividing Range. There are two distinct groups, the moutan or tree paeonies, which are of shrubby habit, and the herbaceous varieties. The former grow from three to four feet high, and the latter from two to three feet. Now, when the plants are at rest, is the seasonable time to plant them, and the earlier this is done the better. Paeonies do best in a partially-shaded position, for then the extraordinarily large, showy flowers last much longer in perfection than those that are grown in a situation fully exposed to the sun. These plants thrive in deeply-worked, rich loam, but will do well in any deep, fertile garden soil, provided that it is not of too sandy a nature. If grown in a bed by themselves the plants should be set out quite four feet apart every way. Although they produce the most gorgeous effect in a cut-bloom state, they make a charming addition to mixed flower borders if allowed plenty of room, and are not grown too near robust shrubs and plants. When planting, care must be taken not to injure their thick fleshy roots, and the crowns of the herbaceous varieties must not be covered deeply with soil. Once the moutan paeonies have been planted in the positions where they are to flower, they should not again be disturbed, as any undue interference with their roots will prevent perfect development. Similar remarks apply to the herbaceous kinds until the stools have grown too large for their positions, when they may be carefully lifted and the roots divided and replanted in other places. To keep established plants for many years in a healthy, vigorous condition they should receive a liberal dressing of well-decomposed natural manure every winter, and that may be either very lightly forked in about their roots, or left on the surface of the ground, allowing the rains to wash the fertilising matter contained into the soil. When the plants are flowering profusely, and extra large blooms are desired, an occasional watering of weak liquid manure at the roots will have a most beneficial effect.

CLIMBERS FOR WALLS, ETC.

It is often desired to cover with beautiful foliage walls, unsightly rocks, tree trunks, etc., on which it is not convenient to fix supports to train ordinary climbers, and this can be more easily accomplished than is generally supposed. The plants that climb and cling by means of tendrils and adventitious rootlets are admirably adapted for that purpose. Amongst the best and most rapidly-growing climbers that possess these characteristics is the true Virginian creeper or American ivy (Ampelopsis quinquefolia). The botanical name is given because the poison ivy (Rhus toxicodendron), a toxic plant of somewhat similar habit, but with dissimilar foliage, is sometimes but erroneously called Virginian creeper. The true Virginian creeper has curious tendrils, on which are small, sucker-like expansions, which adhere firmly to surfaces, and securely support the stems. The leaves of this plant are composed of from three to five leaflets, which are tinted with rich red and brown in autumn, and produce a beautiful effect. Although the Virginian creeper thrives in the coast districts, the most beautiful colouring is developed in the cooler and colder parts of the State. It does well when planted in ordinary soil and in any aspect, but the autumnal colouring of the leaves is better developed when the plant receives a fair amount of sunshine. Another species, the glandular-leaved (A. tricuspidata), thrives under precisely similar conditions to the one first described. One plant of either of the above species will cover a large area in a few years.

The creeping fig (Ficus stipulata) and its variety minima climb by adventitious rootlets emitted from their stems. These plants do well in the coast districts, growing in ordinary soil and in any aspect, and should be planted about 10ft apart. In addition to covering walls, etc., with bright green foliage, they are admirably adapted for growing over unsightly wooden fences.

The common ivy (Hedera helix), of which there are innumerable varieties, many of them having beautifully variegated leaves, also climbs by the adventitious rootlets of its stems. Besides being most useful for the purposes already mentioned, the ivies, especially those varieties with green foliage, make capital edgings to walks in very shady situations, and are most useful for covering ground under the shade of trees where grass will not grow. Under the dense shade of trees in the Parc Monceau, Paris, the common green ivy is largely grown, and produces an excellent effect all the year round where otherwise the sight would be anything but pleasing to the eye. In the Luxembourg Gardens, Paris, ivy is grown as wreaths on trees, and has a singular effect.

BUSHHOUSE.

All the necessary watering and syringing should be done in the early part of fine days, so that no superfluous moisture will lie around the roots at night to the injury of any plants. Although the plants will require less water than they have been receiving for some time past, none of them must be allowed to suffer for the want of moisture at the roots, more especially the vigorous-growing aspidistras, cordylines, ferns, both terrestrial and epiphytal, and palms. The syringe should be freely used on the underside of the foliage of azaleas and rhododendrons, to keep thrips in check. Should these insect pests become numerous on the plants they will seriously interfere with the development of their beautiful flowers later on. Any tender plants that have been growing in the bushhouse during the warmer months, and are likely to suffer from the cold nights that will soon be experienced, should be transferred to the glasshouse for their better protection during the winter. Epiphyllums that are showing their flower buds should receive similar attention, for their interesting blooms develop better under glass, and they are not so liable to injury from wind and rain as in the bushhouse. If the pots in which they are growing are filled with roots, an occasional watering of weak liquid manure will be beneficial. Pelargoniums of the decorative, fancy, regal, and show varieties should be kept rather dry at the roots, for too much moisture will result in spindling growths, and subsequently inferior flowers. If any of these plants have filled their pots with roots, and are sufficiently forward, they should be transferred to the larger-sized ones in which they are to flower. When repotting, use a free, open compost, and water carefully until the roots have freely penetrated the new soil. If the seeds of mimulus and schizanthus were sown as previously advised, the seedlings should now be sufficiently grown to be transferred to the flower pots or earthenware seed pans in which they are to bloom. Half-a-dozen mimulus plants set in a seed-pan at equal distances make a fine display when in bloom. They should be grown in a light, rich compost. The allied sweetly-perfumed musk plant may be similarly treated, but the schizanthus produces the best effect in flower when grown singly in pots.

FRUIT GARDEN.

If the land has been thoroughly prepared as advised in this column in March last, it will have become sweetened and ameliorated under the influence of the sun and air, and be in an excellent condition to receive any deciduous fruit trees that it is proposed to plant. Although the planting season extends till August, the sooner the trees are set out the better, provided the weather is favourable. When selecting young fruit trees choose healthy, vigorous specimens, and in the case of apple trees plant none except those that are grafted upon blight-proof stocks, such as the Northern Spy. Generally the trees may be set out from 25ft to 30ft apart, according to the richness of the soil; the former distance should be adopted for the less fertile soils. Before planting the trees examine each one carefully, and remove all the broken and bruised roots with a sharp knife. In the hole made to receive each tree spread the roots in as natural a position as possible, distribute the soil evenly among them, and when all the earth is replaced tread it firmly about each one. No tree should be planted more than one inch deeper in the soil than it stood in the nursery-row. After each tree is planted it should be cut back to the height fixed upon for the future trunk, which may be anything from 18 to 22 inches. In the case of apple and pear trees, if there be no lateral branches the three terminal buds only should be left, from which will develop the principal branches to form the head of the tree. Pear trees that are grown in pyramidal form will require a little different treatment; the terminal bud only should be left, from which will develop a perpendicular growth; the subsequent side shoots will be trained as lateral branches. Young peach and similar stone fruit trees often have several lateral branches. After the leaders have been shortened to the length desired, all the internal buds, except the tree near the apex, which should be shortened, should be rubbed off. Each tree should be securely tied to a stake, then the operation is complete.

THE CLAIMS OF BROKEN BAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—A few letters have appeared in your columns of late reminding us that the necessity of having a "fine natural harbour" at Broken Bay will be overlooked by the Government pursue a vigorous policy of dirt-scooping at Newcastle. We are informed that that place has a natural right to the trade of the north and north-west. Then let Newcastle alone, that trade in open and fair competition with other ports. If Broken Bay is to be done inevitably and naturally to Newcastle, why raise such flunky objections to a railway that will demonstrate Broken Bay's merits?

Mr. C. A. Earp is indignant that produce is hauled from 100 miles past Newcastle to Sydney. He thinks that if Newcastle harbour were improved, and facilities placed there for shipping wool and wheat, all that could be avoided. No doubt; and if shipowners were informed that they must receive northern wool and wheat only at Newcastle wharfs, and producers were told that they must not go past this "natural outlet," trade would fairly roar. On the same principle, if some little coastal place north of Newcastle were to complain that trade went past it, and that Newcastle harbour improvements were the proper policy on the part of the Government would remedy matters, they would be entitled to a hearing. But as the country as a whole is interested in these things, and provides the money, it asks (if it adopts a business-like principle) that the money spent give the best possible return.

Now, if Broken Bay can show that for a given expenditure it can do its work at a cheaper rate, in time, money, and convenience, than Newcastle could do the same work, it would go a long way to establish a case for itself. In short, if the producer and the shipowner can meet at Broken Bay better, and the country can—in its own interests—provide them with the conveniences there cheaper than at other places, those conveniences should be placed there. The complaint that it would only help to fatten Sydney is beside the mark. If it does, so much the better, but it will not be the fatness resultant on too frequent applications at the Treasury for harbour-scooping.—I am, etc.,

IN GOVERNOR BOURKE'S TIME.

(BY F. R. G. S.)

Ancient times are not of necessity remote. In the land of the pyramids thousands of years need to be counted before historic perspective is reached. But in England a few centuries bring one to the storied past. And in Australia a couple of generations only lie between the present and a condition of things at so far a cry that the historic sense is fully aroused.

"The New South Wales Calendar and General Post Office Directory" for 1835 is not a hoary publication, but it very well might be from the quaintness of its matter. It was published by Stephen and Stokes at the "Herald" Office, George-street, and on its title page is a small steel engraving of Sydney General Post Office. This is built after the style of an ordinary dwelling-house of the period, and has two stories, the upper with three windows, and the lower with two windows, and a round-headed door in the middle. The postmaster and his family evidently lived on the premises. In front of it stands a coach and four, loaded up with passengers.

The volume exceeds the order of leave of its title, for sixty-three of its earlier pages are given up to an essay on "The Culture of Wheat." With the same discursiveness later on, the lists of "The Royal Family of Great Britain," and of "The Governors and Commanders of British Colonies and Settlements" are followed immediately by directions for "The Cure of Meat," and "The Salting of Hides," and Mr. Claters' Ointment for Scab in Sheep."

An interesting part of the contents is an "Itinerary; comprising the roads throughout New South Wales." No detail has apparently been omitted. Every bridge, every residence, every farm, to say nothing of public-houses, is noted, and all natural features commented on. The "Itinerary" begins with the information that "the traveller on setting out for any part of the colony except for South Head, or Botany Bay, must leave Sydney by George-street, which extends nearly a mile." At one and a half mile out the compiler notes the entrance to "Ultimo House, belonging to Dr. Hafris," and at the same point tarries to describe "Newstead, a commodious house and premises recently built by the late George Bunn, Esq.—a gentleman whose early death was alike a loss to his amiable family, his numerous friends, and the country at large, and whose public spirit and private worth could not be too publicly or permanently recorded. Alas, that the words of Ossian quoted by Byron respecting another Newstead should apply also to the builder of this. "Why dost thou build the hall? Son of the winged days, for another race will inherit the walls." yet a few years and the blast of the desert comes; it howls in thy empty court.' " By this it will be seen that our compiler was not content to make his "Itinerary" a mere road-guide.

At this same point, too, still half a mile short of the Glebe-road, which he reckons two miles from his starting point, he begins to note the public-houses which freely dotted the road to Parramatta, "the 'Spinning Wheel' public-house, and what is called the 'Soldiers' Garden,' belonging to the Government." At three miles in Blagnigge Wells public-house, kept by J. Sappe." Then after passing "Annandale, the residence of Robert Johnstone, Esq., with an avenue of Norfolk pines leading to the house, one of the most complete farms in the neighbourhood of Sydney," there is a note of "Cherry Gardens public-house on the left, and Cheshire Cheese ditto on the right; these houses have tea gardens, some fetes a la Vauxhall were once given here." A mile and a half further on is "public-house called the Plough," and then a stretch of half a mile and the Ship Inn, and within a quarter of a mile the Fox and Grapes.

At 9 1-2 miles is Home Bush, formerly the residence of D'Arcy Wentworth, Esq., being a mile and a half, which is the greatest extent of land cleared and stumped in the neighbourhood of Sydney. Also an excellent description occupying half a page is given of Parramatta. The description associates the police magistrate in a way the reason of which is not quite apparent—"There is a resident police magistrate here." Also an excellent inn—"Walker's Red Cow has long been celebrated, and the Woolpack, Nash, is also a commodious inn."

On the "Great South-road from Sydney to Cowpastures Bridge" our compiler is betrayed into history. He has passed by several hostelries with an official nod, but now "Clegg's Inn, on the left, named the Weavers' Arms, kept by Mr. Solomon; and a little further on, on the right, the Harp of Ouid Erin, kept by Michael Ryan, a good, honest son of the Green Isle of Ireland," deserves encouragement." Under the same note is this: "Inn to the left, named Speed the Plough, kept by Cole." One wonders what encouragement had so warmed the heart of the writer of the "Itinerary" toward honest Ryan, and one fears that chilly Scottish reserve will not help to speed the plough of Cole.

These discriminations are frequent, though perhaps unintentional. Our guide arrives at Liverpool. "The town has a straggling appearance" (which it has not yet altogether lost, one may parenthesise); but he is "a good town with many neat houses, but the one most particularly worthy of notice is that of T. Moore, Esq., J.P." But just beyond Liverpool he dismisses a retired army officer's property thus: "On the left, Captain Bunker."

With parramatta as the compiler carries on his "Itinerary," the settlements becoming further and further apart as the roads stretch into distance, until they give out in the unknown. The Great Western-road is recorded as far as Wellington Valley, and the "Great Southern" Sydney; but the proper place noted on that road lies 69 miles back. The "Great South-road," spoken of as "in present use," because another route was projected, ends at 190 miles, "beyond which all the country is unlocated." The "Great North-road" crosses Liverpool Plains, and "the road thus far is a well-marked cart track . . . how far it may be necessary to carry that road beyond remains to be determined, when the interior country is known." Many branch roads and cross roads are carefully noted in the "Itinerary," though the compiler in a final note speaks of some of them as tracks, and, in spite of his directions, they could not have been easy to find or to keep, unless one had the bushman's instinct.

Turning to the arrangements of the colony in 1835, it would seem that complaints of want of promptitude were not unknown. Special attention is asked to the hours of despatch in order "to relieve the Postal Department from unmerited imputations." Daily mails left Sydney for Parramatta, Liverpool, Windsor, and Campbelltown, taking places on the way also. The mail to Bathurst was every Monday and Thursday, and to Goulburn every Tuesday. The postage on country letters varied, with a shilling as maximum. And there was an up-to-dateness about the G.P.O., Sydney, in those days, for "arrangement is made upon a similar plan to that adopted in London for keeping letters in private boxes till sent for; application for this purpose to be made to a clerk at the window." Exception was also aimed at, for the notice urges that "clerks, shopmen, and servants should cause as little delay as possible to the letter-carriers when they call for their delivery." The revenue from the Postal Department in 1835 was £2968 10s 11d. The "Principal Postmaster" had £400 per annum. There was in Sydney one clerk at £100 per annum, and also one letter-sorter at the same stipend. There were three letter-carriers, costing altogether £165 per annum, and uniforms for letter-carriers are put down at £20. There is also put down at "one shilling and threepence per diem" an office-keeper. Conveyance of inland mails cost £1190, and coastal mails £100 per annum. The staff does not appear to have been overmanned, since the postal notices point out that "from the great extent of Sydney, reaching from Dawes battery to the turnpike, a distance of three miles, and the number of intersecting streets, it is desirable that letters put into the Post Office should be correctly addressed." The population of Sydney was then over 16,000, and there were two deliveries of letters daily. The mail bags were evidently not heavy, but the three letter-carriers must have earned their money (£165 per annum between them).

A DISPUTED LEASE.

Hutchinson v M'Guren.

Mr. D. G. Ferguson and Mr. A. M. Cohen, instructed by Mr. H. Hourigan, appeared for the defendant, and moved to make absolute a rule nisi to set aside the verdict for plaintiff, and enter it for defendant, or for a new trial. Mr. Lamb, K.C., and Mr. Chubb, instructed by Mr. S. S. Dight, of Walgett (by his agents, Messrs. Abbott, Tout, and Co.), appeared for the plaintiff (respondent) in support of the verdict. The action, which was tried during the last Jury sittings, before Mr. Justice Pring and a jury of four, was brought by George Charles Hutchinson against Francis E. M'Guren, to recover compensation for alleged breach of contract in connection with the sale of the business of the Imperial Hotel, Walgett, for the sum of £2400. Plaintiff's case was that defendant entered into a written agreement in August, 1909, for the purchase of the business, and that after paying a deposit of £50 he had failed to carry out the contract. The defendant's pleas which were material to the appeal were the fifth and sixth, the first of which alleged that the agreement was subject to, and conditional upon, the ratification by Thomas, the landlord, of a new lease to defendant of the hotel for 10 years, and that no such lease was effected. The sixth plea alleged that defendant had been induced to make the agreement by the misrepresentation of the plaintiff that the trade of the hotel had been, and then was, £124 per week, and had not been injured by the opening, by one Vanstone, of another hotel in the neighbourhood. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for £50, and found specially, in answer to questions put to them by the presiding Judge, that there was an agreement between Thomas and defendant as to the terms of the new lease, and that the defendant was not induced to enter into the agreement by false representations on the part of the plaintiff. The defendant appealed on the grounds: (1) That the verdict was against evidence and the weight of evidence; (2) that upon the evidence defendant was entitled to a verdict on the fifth and sixth pleas; (3) that there was no evidence of the making or ratification of a new lease between defendant and Thomas, within the meaning of the agreement sued upon.

The reserved judgment of the Court was now delivered.

Mr. Justice Cohen, after reciting the facts disclosed in evidence, said that the jury having negatived fraud, he could not, in the face of the evidence, bring himself to decide that they acted unreasonably in so doing. It was contended, on behalf of the defendant, that, although the jury negatived fraud, there was clear evidence of misrepresentation, albeit innocent, and as that would furnish a defence, a new trial should be granted. But, without determining whether such misrepresentation would have that effect under the circumstances disclosed, this issue not having been raised, or attempted to be raised, in the Court below, he did not think that a new trial should now be granted in order that it might be tested. Such a course would be obviously dangerous. The jury's finding that Thomas and defendant had agreed upon the terms of a new lease was supported by the evidence, and although it was a verbal agreement, it went to show that had the defendant not repudiated the contract, the new lease could have been obtained from Thomas on or before September 15, for Thomas said he was always ready and willing to give a 10-years' lease upon the terms agreed upon. At the trial Mr. Lamb applied to amend the declaration, so as to include a count alleging that there had been no ratification of a new lease through the defendant's wrongful repudiation of the contract, but on objection by defendant's counsel the application was refused. He thought, with every deference to the presiding Judge, that it should have been allowed. (See Lysaght v Falk, 2 C.L.R., 421), but as it was clear upon the defendant's evidence that he repudiated the contract prior to September 15, it would be useless to send the case down for re-trial on that issue. The jury having found that the defendant and Thomas had agreed upon the terms of the new lease, it might be inferred that these terms were reasonable, although it would have been open to the parties, by mutual arrangement, to modify those terms or to add to them.

WHAT IS "NATURAL JUSTICE."

DISPUTE ON A CONTRACT.

Re J. W. S. Lucas.

Mr. Flannery, instructed by Mr. A. W. E. Weaver, appeared for John William Stewart Lucas, and moved to make absolute a rule nisi for a prohibition to restrain William M'Kenny Moore, of Gordon-road, Chatswood, and John Lethbridge King, S.M., from proceeding further upon an order made by Mr. King on February 8 last, at the Central Police Court, in favour of respondent Moore, and ordering appellant to pay £20 19s for debt and costs in respect of work and labour done by Moore on a road contract at Chatswood. The magistrate held that appellant was liable under the contract, because he signed as attorney for James E. H. Spencer, who was expressed in the contract to be resident in England. Mr. Windeyer, instructed by Mr. E. A. Abigail, appeared for the respondent Moore, in support of the finding of the magistrate. The appeal was based on the ground that the verdict was against natural justice, in that appellant was not a party to the contract sued upon, and that he had not at any time any interest in it, or in the subject matter or performance thereof.

The argument was heard on May 12, and the Court now delivered judgment.

The Chief Justice, in the course of a lengthy judgment, said the contention that the decision was against natural justice was based on the evidence adduced on behalf of the defendant, from which it sufficiently appeared that the claim of the plaintiff arose out of a written contract to which defendant was not a party. This contract was one between the plaintiff and one, Spencer, described as being "of England," and was signed "J. C. H. Spencer, by his attorney, J. W. S. Lucas," that being the only place in which the defendant's name appeared in the contract. It was conceded that the magistrate had under the Small Debts Recovery Act, 1899, complete jurisdiction both over the person and the subject matter in the present case, that the plaint on the face of it showed a good cause of action within that jurisdiction, and that apart from the alleged wrongfulness of the decision itself there was no ground contending that there had been any denial of justice in the method of conducting the proceedings, or any disqualifying bias on the magistrate himself, or that the order was not one which the magistrate would have had power to make had the evidence in the case warranted a decision against the defendant. But it was urged that the applicant was nevertheless entitled to a prohibition on the ground that the decision was "against natural justice, inasmuch as it ordered one person to discharge another's liability in a case where there was no evidence connecting the plaintiff and defendant by any legal relation. According to the authorities, a decision contrary to natural justice was where a presiding Judge or magistrate denied to a litigant some right, or privilege, or benefit to which he was entitled in the ordinary course of the proceedings, as, for instance, where a magistrate refused to allow a litigant to address the Court, or where he refused to allow a witness to be examined, or cases of that kind. In the present case the Court was not called upon to express any opinion whatever upon the justice or otherwise of the order complained of, and he was of opinion, on decided cases, that the ground of appeal failed. The rule nisi must, therefore, be discharged, with costs.

Mr. Justice Cohen said the arguments in the case on each side had been able, exhaustive, and interesting in both their legal and historical aspects. He was of opinion, in view of the repeated decisions in this Court, by which he held himself bound until a higher Court declared it to be wrong, that this rule should be made absolute. It was asked for because the decision of the magistrate was against natural justice for imposing upon the applicant the liability to pay money earned under a contract to which he was no party, and from which he derived no benefit; in other words, to pay the debt of another man without any undertaking on his part to pay it. The right to a prohibition under such circumstances was established in ex parte Healey (1893), 9 Weekly Notes, page 180; Purcell v the Perpetual Trustee Company (1894), 15 New South Wales reports, page 365; ex parte Shakespeare (1894), 15 New South Wales Reports, page 477; and Boutell v Lindsay (1899), 16 Weekly Notes, 107. In many other cases in this Court, which it was useless to detail, the principle had been recognised, although the facts in them did not, in the opinion of the Court, justify its enforcement.

Mr. Justice Gordon said he had had the advantage of reading the judgment delivered by his Honor the Chief Justice, and he fully concurred in the conclusion at which his Honor had arrived.

Newis v General Accident, Fire, and Life Assurance Corporation, Ltd.

Mr. D. G. Ferguson and Mr. Monahan, instructed by Mr. George Crichton Smith, appeared for the plaintiff, and moved to make absolute a rule nisi calling upon the defendants to show cause why the verdict and judgment for them on the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh pleas should not be set aside, and a new trial granted. The action, which was tried before the Chief Justice and a jury of four in March last, was brought by Richard John Newis against the defendant company to recover on a policy of fire insurance. The defence was that, under the provisions endorsed on the policy, the company was not liable to pay unless the loss was incurred after the premium had been paid. They also said that plaintiff induced the company to believe that he had drawn a cheque for the premium and written a letter in reference to it before the fire took place, whereas the contrary was the fact. The jury returned a verdict for the defendants on all the counts other than the first count (detention of the policy), and on that count a verdict was returned, by consent, for the plaintiff, with damages £1 1s. Plaintiff now appealed on the grounds, among others: (1) That the verdict so found was against evidence and the weight of evidence; (2) that his Honor ought to have directed the jury to find a verdict for the plaintiff upon all the issues, and that there was no evidence given by the defendants in support of them; (3) that his Honor ought to have directed the jury that there was no evidence of any fraud within the meaning of the seventh plea, or within the meaning of the condition of the policy in such plea referred to; (4) that there was evidence of waiver of payment. Mr. Windeyer and Mr. Barton, instructed by Mr. W. A. Windeyer, appeared for defendant company to oppose the application.

The argument was heard a short time ago, and the reserved judgment of the Court was now delivered.

Mr. Justice Pring said that plaintiff, in September, 1908, made a proposal to the defendant company for an insurance against fire. The proposal was made through an agent named Hamlin, and was accepted by the company, and an interim receipt for the premium given on the same day. The policy was actually signed by the directors or manager of the company on September 7, and it was a policy which was not under seal. No premium was, in fact paid at any time prior to the fire, and, although the policy was signed on September 7, it was not issued until a month later. After that date the company wrote twice to plaintiff, namely on November 10 and December 9, demanding payment of the premium, but it was not paid. The fire took place on December 14, and, according to the plaintiff's evidence, he, on December 13, wrote a cheque for the premium, and gave it to Hamlin, who, so far as the evidence went, did not appear at that time to be the agent of the company. Hamlin handed the cheque to the company on December 15, after the fire had occurred. The defendant company at once repudiated the claim put in by the plaintiff on the ground that the payment was too late and it returned the cheque. Plaintiff then brought his action, and as far as the first count was concerned, which was one in detinue, the jury gave a verdict to the plaintiff, with nominal damages. The other counts claimed in one shape or the other payment of the amount for which plaintiff's property was insured. The question was whether the verdict was right, and on the view he took of the case it was not necessary to determine whether or not there was evidence of a fraudulent device to go to the jury. In his opinion the defendant company was entitled to the verdict on another ground, and that there was no evidence of waiver of payment of the premium before the fire. In fact, there was evidence the other way. The contract was made on October 7, when the policy was issued, and plaintiff was bound by the conditions of the policy, and nothing else; and it did not depend upon the date when the interim receipt was sent to the plaintiff as cover. As to the question of waiver he had come to the conclusion that there was no evidence of waiver, and that, on the contrary, the correspondence showed that the company on December 9 made a peremptory demand upon the plaintiff for the payment of the premium. He was, therefore, not entitled to recover, and the verdict of the jury was quite right, although it had been arrived at by a wrong process.

Mr. Justice Street and Mr. Justice Sly concurred.

Rule discharged with costs.

Mr. Ferguson asked that a verdict should be entered for the plaintiff on the defendant company's plea as to fraud, as there was no evidence as to fraud.

Mr. Justice Pring: I have not formed any definite opinion on the question of fraud. As far as that issue is concerned, on the view I take it is not necessary to come to any decision. I doubt very much whether there was sufficient evidence of fraud, but I give no decision upon the question, because I have not considered the matter sufficiently.

Mr. Justice Street said that if Mr. Ferguson was entitled to a definite expression of opinion from the Bench whether fraud had been made out, he had given sufficient consideration to the matter to be able to say that, in his opinion, fraud was not made out. Therefore, a verdict should be entered for the plaintiff in regard to that plea.

Mr. Justice Sly: I am of opinion that there was not a scintilla of evidence of fraud.

Mr. Ferguson: Then the verdict will be amended accordingly.

Mr. Justice Pring: Judgment would be entered accordingly.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge in Equity.)

Mr. J. A. Ferguson, instructed by Messrs. Macgregor and Palmer, appeared for the plaintiff, William Frederick Floessell; and Mr. R. Clive Teece, instructed by Mr. W. D. M'Mahon, for the defendants, Samuel Robert Walder and Mary Ann Walder.

Plaintiff set out that he was an inventor, and he and the male defendant had agreed to jointly apply for a patent for a horse and cattle rug which the plaintiff had invented, and share the profits therefrom. Walder, however, without plaintiff's consent, secured letters patent in his own name, and the firm of S. Walder was now making rugs of the kind in question. He asked that the agreement and any ownership constituted thereby between him and the male defendant be declared void; that the defendants be declared trustees for him in the invention; that the defendants be restrained by injunction from selling or dealing with the invention; and that accounts be taken.

The defendant Samuel Robert Walder denied that, except as employee of Mary Ann Walder, he had any interest in the firm of S. Walder. He denied making any agreement with the plaintiff, and denied that the invention in regard to which he had applied for a patent had been communicated to him by the plaintiff. He further denied that letters patent had been granted to him, notice in opposition having been given, and the Commissioner of Patents had not yet given his decision.

His Honor granted an injunction against the defendant Mary Ann Walder restraining her, until the hearing of the suit, from assigning the license for making the rugs. He also ordered her to keep an account of all rugs sold.

LONG v PARKER.

In this matter Evan Parker, butcher, of Crookwell, consented to an order—which had been made against him, at the instance of Joseph Francis Long, butcher, of Crookwell, until the hearing of the suit of Long v Parker—being turned into a motion for decree. The order restrained him from carrying on or being connected as master or servant with the business of butcher at Crookwell or within 10 miles thereof.

Mr. S. A. Thompson, instructed by Messrs. Vindin and Littlejohn (agents for Messrs. Johnson and Sendall, of Crookwell), appeared for the plaintiff.

Plaintiff alleged that the defendant sold, on August 17, 1908, his butchering business at Crookwell to John Kelly, and agreed not to carry on a similar business as master or servant in the town or within 10 miles of it for five years. On December 3, 1908, Kelly transferred to plaintiff the benefit of the agreement, but since then defendant had been working in a butcher's shop at Crookwell, either as servant or having an interest as partner.

His Honor made a decree restraining Parker in the terms of the order for five years from August 17, 1908.

A PARTNERSHIP DISPUTE.

Rankin v King and another.

IN DIVORCE.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

DEAN v DEAN.

Josephine Bernadette Dean, formerly Calachor, made application for the dissolution of her marriage with William Ernest Dean, on the ground of desertion. Mr. Fraser appeared for the petitioner, and Mr. L. B. Bertram for the respondent, a gold-miner of Cornet Vale, Western Australia, who denied the desertion.

The parties were married at St. Mary's Cathedral, Sydney, in August, 1902, said the petitioner, who stated that respondent went to Western Australia, and then returned to Melbourne. Later he returned to the west, and did not write. She went across to Kalgoorlie, and he tried to induce her to return to Sydney. They went to Africa later on, and lived on the borders of Natal and the Transvaal. In 1906 he went to Johannesburg, since when petitioner had seen nothing of him.

PLANT v PLANT.

Laurine Plant, formerly Clemesha, petitioned for a divorce from Francis James Plant, a coachtrimmer, of Rose-street, Darlington, on the ground of misconduct. Mr. Perry, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared for the petitioner. Respondent failed to appear, but filed an answer in which he attributed such wilful neglect as to conduce to the misconduct, if any.

The parties were married in July, 1891, at Ashfield, according to the Anglican rites, said the petitioner, but respondent never supported her, and she had to keep herself. She went to Rose-street, Darlington, and found respondent there with a woman. Corroborative evidence was given by William Gore, a commission agent, and Elizabeth Hassard, of 31 Rose-street.

His Honor found for the petitioner, and granted a decree nisi, returnable in six months.

GORRY v GORRY.

Jean Agnes Gorry, formerly Jervie, petitioned for a divorce from Charles Richard Gorry, on the ground of desertion. Mr. Cowan, instructed by Mr. F. C. Petrie, appeared for the petitioner, and Mr. J. H. Clayton for the respondent, who denied the allegation. The parties were married at Leichhardt, according to Roman Catholic rites in February, 1898.

The case stands part heard.

CERTIFICATE APPLICATION.

RE WILLIAM SCOTT FELL.

Mr. Knox, K.C., Mr. R. H. L. Innes, and Mr. H. K. Denham, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., appeared in support of the application of William Scott Fell; and Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. R. K. Manning, instructed by Messrs. Perkins, Stevenson, and Co., for the official assignee, to oppose.

Mr. W. H. Palmer, official liquidator in connection with Scott Fell and Co., Limited, in the course of his evidence, said that he had told bankrupt that if he gave him all the information he wanted there would probably be no necessity for him to be examined before the Master. Bankrupt expressed his desire to avoid publicity, and agreed. On August 27, 1908, witness asked bankrupt if he had any interest in or anything to do with the business of R. B. Wallace, of Newcastle, and he replied that he had never had anything to do with it. Witness pressed him several times, but bankrupt persisted in his denial. Witness told him he could not believe him, as he "knew something," and said that if he continued to treat him (witness) as he was doing witness would have to abandon the investigation in that way and take bankrupt before the Master. Bankrupt then said he had had something to do with the business—he had negotiated for the purchase of it on behalf of Dawson. Dawson, however, had got nervous, and would not go into it. He then negotiated for the purchase of the business on behalf of George. Witness asked him if he knew George had purchased the business, and he replied that he did not know whether he had purchased it or had bought a half share only. He asked bankrupt if he had financed George, or assisted him with money in any way, and he replied in the negative. Witness persisted, and eventually under great pressure bankrupt said he lent George £500. He said no arrangements had been made for repaying this, but after some questioning he said George was to repay the money by promissory notes at one, two, and three years. Witness at this point decided not to go any further with his questioning.

The case stands part heard.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Cohen.)

Mr. C. A. White, Crown Prosecutor.

THE KATOOMBA CASE.

George Charles Stretton, who had pleaded guilty to attempting to commit an assault on a little girl 5 years of age at Katoomba, was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. In passing the sentence his Honor remarked that offences against children were becoming altogether too frequent.

A HEAVY SENTENCE.

Blanch Ellen Withey, who had been found guilty of manslaughter on Monday last, was brought up for sentence.

His Honor said that he agreed with the verdict of the jury. The career of the prisoner had been a notorious one, and in addition to the present case the deaths of four women had been traced to or had been associated with the house where she resided. In two other cases instruments had been used. Death had not followed, but the cases were also traced to her residence. It was very difficult to detect offences of this nature, and it was his duty to pass a severe sentence as a warning to those persons who conducted this nefarious business. The sentence of the Court was that prisoner should be kept to penal servitude for a period of 14 years.

The prisoner, as she was led from the dock, protested her innocence, and said "a cruel sentence has been passed on an innocent woman."

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)

FIRST OFFENDERS DEALT WITH.

Charles Edward Maes, who had pleaded guilty to three charges of breaking and entering and stealing, and one charge of sacrilege, was brought up for sentence. Mr. Walker, who appeared for accused, said that the offences had been committed in a spirit of bravado. In every case, with the exception of taking a box from a church, the offences were breaking into tobacconists' shops and dividing the proceeds amongst boys, and not selling it to receivers. After hearing satisfactory police evidence his Honor agreed to deal with accused as a first offender, providing that £7 15s, accused's share of the property stolen, was made good.

The amount being forthcoming accused was sentenced on one charge of breaking and entering and stealing to 12 months' imprisonment, and to be released as a first offender. On the other charges he was bound over to appear for sentence when called upon.

John Bywater, who had pleaded guilty to charges of stealing 108 whip thongs, the property of Henry Bywater, and breaking and entering Henry Bywater's warehouse and stealing 44 whips, 26lb of leather, and one tape measure, was brought up for sentence. Mr. J. W. Abigail, who appeared for accused, stated that evil associations had led accused, who was little more than a lad, astray. He would ask his Honor to deal with Bywater as a first offender. His Honor agreed to adopt this course provided accused made restitution to the extent of £9 1s 3d.

Accused was then sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment and to be released as a first offender on the first charge, and bound over to appear for sentence when called upon on the second charge.

Horace David Howard, who had pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and stealing, and wrongfully signing his name to a telegram, was on the first charge sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment, sentence to be suspended under the first offenders provisions of the Crimes Act, and on the second charge bound over to appear for sentence when called upon.

PRISONERS SENTENCED.

May Sinnett, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing three brooches, one handbag, three bangles, one necklace, a pocketknife, and other articles, the property of Georgie Matthews, at Parramatta, on May 13 last, was sentenced to 12 months' light labour at Long Bay Reformatory, and leave was given to accused to apply for release on license at once.

Rose Stevens, who was found guilty of larceny from the person on the preceding day, was sentenced to 12 months' light labour in Long Bay Reformatory.

MANKINDS BEST MEDICINE.

NURSE HOLLAND, LATE ACTING-MATRON, CONDOBOLIN HOSPITAL, WRITES HER OPINION OF CLEMENTS TONIC AS A STRENGTH-CREATING MEDICINE FOR THE RELIEF OF ANAEMIA AND NERVE BREAK-DOWN.

NURSE B. HOLLAND,
late Acting-Matron, Condobolin Hospital, New South Wales.

CLEMENTS TONIC may be described as a natural medicine—one of the best for the people—and this assertion is based on the fact that it is used largely over the width and breadth of Australia, and that testimonies from people in all ranks of life are given to it weekly. These come from workers in the country, on farms, mining camps, sheep stations, cattle runs, country businesses, and other sources; from business and professional men and women in the large cities of the Commonwealth, and from members of professional nursing staffs and sanatoriums. Here is a testimony to its value as a health-restorer from a professional nurse, who had ample opportunity of observing its effect upon debilitated constitutions, both in and out of hospital centres. Nurse Holland writes:—

"CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.

"Your medicine has been used by me personally, and I have known it to give rapid relief in cases of Indigestion, Nervousness, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Anaemia or Poor Blood in women. Often in cases which have come under my personal supervision in and out of public and private hospitals, both in city and country, where I have been Acting-Matron, I have seen evidence of its wonderful health-restoring powers in anaemic, nerve-wrecked women, who, after taking a brief course of it, have recovered so much as to surprise their best friends. I think this rapid nerve recovery is due to the healthful and strengthening effect the medicine has upon the stomach, creating appetite, enriching the blood, and thereby giving life and power to the nervous system. Anaemic women should never be without it, for it is their best medicine. From the benefit derived from its use personally I am certain that there would be less general ill-health if Clements Tonic were more largely used.

"I am, yours faithfully,

"(Signed) Nurse Holland."

MR. PATRICK DOWNES, THAT MIRACLE OF RUTHERGLEN, VIC., again writes:

"I wish to inform you that I have sent my photo. I had it taken on Sunday afternoon. I lost no time in sending it. I wish I could do more to advertise Clements Tonic to sufferers of ill-health, for scores of men and women have come to me in the last three months from far and near to see me, and wanted to know if Clements Tonic cured me. I am thankful that I can assure them all without fear or doubt that it has. I can say that also to those who gave me up, and to the hundreds of people who know the truth, when I was ill in Clunes, Ballarat, Wangaratta, and Corowa. Medical men had no hope for me, but thanks to this medicine I am here before them all this day a cured man. I wish I could talk in person to you to tell you the look of surprise many persons have, especially those connected with the hospitals, who meet me and see me alive. I wish you long lives to cure the many as you have cured me."

Rutherglen, Vic., 19/5/'10. "(Signed) PATRICK DOWNES."

(CHRONICLED BY HENRY W. LUCY.)

The Budget Passed—The Royal Academy Exhibition—Portraits of his Majesty—A Big Balance-sheet—A Newly-discovered Letter from Byron.

WESTMINSTER, April 29.

The week in Parliament has seen the long-contested Budget Bill passed through both Houses, and irrevocably added to the Statute Book. It must have been a bitter pill for the House of Lords to swallow. But it had to be, and they manfully took it at a gulp, suspending the Standing Orders so as to rush it through. The worst part of the business, from their point of view, is that it leaves behind the legacy of imminent danger of having their wings clipped in the matter of the Veto. And it would have been so easy to avoid dilemma. Conflict between the two Houses on the question of predominance of partnership was inevitable. It must have been brought about before the termination in ordinary time of the last Parliament. Egged on by irresponsible counsellors in the press, whose picturesque rhetoric fatally worked upon the untutored prejudices of the Backwoodsmen, the Peers, contrary to the advice of their sagest, most respected leaders, hurried on the fight, giving the adversary the advantage of the most favourable position on the battlefield. A conflict on the issue of the Veto upon ordinary legislative business would have been hard enough. Deliberately to challenge the time-honoured exclusiveness of the right of the House of Commons to deal with money bills was an unexpected illustration of the truth of the familiar tag, "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."

The almost pathetic clinging to the belief that after all there may be no dissolution this year, a feeling common to both sides, has, within the last day or two, taken a new turn. There is much talk about the referendum as offering a way out of the difficulty. I have good reason to believe that the question has been mooted in Cabinet Council, and cursorily discussed. A practical objection recognised is that it would not be acceptable to the Opposition, whether in Lords or Commons. Mr. Balfour is not less desirous than the Prime Minister of avoiding the personal expenditure and the serious interruption of business that would follow upon a general election at the end of June. But a referendum would place the Conservative party at grave disadvantage. To begin with, it would abolish the privilege of plural voting, a powerful weapon, more especially in metropolitan constituencies. It would make nought of the combined private influence of the Church, the liquor trade, and the landlords. It would preclude the possibility of three-cornered elections which last January handed over something like a dozen Liberal strongholds to Conservative candidates. It would be as idle as it is unreasonable to expect the Opposition to surrender these advantages, and since the ordeal of the referendum could be authorised only by Act of Parliament the minority in the Commons still have the whip hand. They could count with confidence upon the Lords throwing out the bill.

In the 142nd exhibition of the Royal Academy, which opens to the public on Monday, there will be less need even than in recent years to rail off a particular picture from the pressure of a crowd. The peculiar distinction the show will have is its level of mediocrity. We miss the work of some of the great masters. Alma Tadema, stricken by a great bereavement, sends only one picture, in which gleams the familiar marble flooring and balustrade. There are no Sargent portraits to look at and to talk about. Aweary of monotonous success in that richly-paid line of work, the modern painter who most nearly approaches the old masters has turned to nature and sends three studies. The public will, I fancy, prefer the portraits. Orchardson, unknowingly working for his last exhibition, has three portraits, including those of his friend and colleague among the R.As., Mr. Abbey, and Lord Blythe. The last represents his final work, a picture upon which he was engaged almost up to the day of his death. It reaches the excellence of his highest effort. Regarded as a faithful portrait, it is better than Abbey's.

That popular painter, like his compatriot Sargent, has by force of circumstances been drawn aside from the fields of work in which he made his fame, and earned the dignity of his R.A.-ship. He has come to be the painter of historical episodes for the United States, and the canvas is stretched something on the scale of that mighty continent. In Gallery VIII. there is a gigantic picture running from the floor to the cornice of the lofty room. This, depicting Penn's treaty with the Indians, has just been painted for the State Capitol of Pennsylvania. It suggests that the work was done after the primitive fashion of the house-painter slung alongside the outer wall on a plank seat suspended by ropes. As a matter of fact, Abbey, who is nearer David's height than Goliath's, was able to paint the upper reaches of his gigantic work only by means of an elaborate staging. It will be a great addition to the decoration of the State Capitol.

The balance-sheet of the Army and Navy Co-operative Society, privately circulated among shareholders, discloses the colossal business done in a twelvemonth by the mammoth establishment in Victoria-street, Westminster. The turnover amounts to £3,149,261 6s 11d. Another penny, and the shillings would have been seven. The balance from trading account exceeds £474,000, whilst miscellaneous revenue derived from advertisements, sale of tickets, and other sources of revenue make up a trifle of £15,472. The net profit is £138,475. Out of this a dividend equal to 300 per cent. upon the one shilling shares is paid, free of income tax. Under that heading the stores contribute to the Imperial Exchequer a sum of £10,500. In connection with the society there is a provident fund amounting to £100,000, and a pleasing custom of paying a bonus to selected countermen, among whom during the past year £3000 has been distributed. It would seem that this almost fabulous measure of transactions across the counter, all for ready cash, would leave no opening for smaller shopkeepers. It practically does not seem to influence their work. On the contrary, Victoria-street, which when the stores were opened 47 years ago was exclusively composed of private residences, chambers, and offices, is now transformed into lines of shops clustering near the stores.

History goes on repeating itself. At a time when the party not in power declare that we are on the eve of revolution, drawn thither by the action of a reckless, unprincipled, unpatriotic Government, it is interesting to come across a letter written by Lord Byron 90 years ago, expressing opinions on the political situation as it then presented itself to his view. He writes from Venice, October 15, 1819, and addresses his sister Augusta Leigh. The missive, which does not appear in Mr. Prothero's edition, nor elsewhere in print that I know of, forms part of a rare collection of autograph letters and historical documents being prepared for sale by auction next week. "If there is to be a scene in England," Byron writes, "which seems approaching by the violence of political parties, you will probably see me in England next spring. But I have not decided on the part I ought to take. They say in Italy that 'One nasce Patrizio innore Patrizio,' and I am not democrat enough to like a tyranny of blackguards. Such fellows as Bristol Hunts are a choice of evils with Castlereagh, except that a gentleman scoundrel is always preferable to a vulgar one. To me it appears that you are on the eve of a revolution, which won't be made with rosewater, however. If so I will be one. As Listom says, I love a row." All familiar with speeches on the platform and in the House of Commons in this year of grace decrying the Chancellor of the Exchequer and Mr. Winston Churchill, will recognise the echo of the description "a tyranny of blackguards," with the modification that a gentleman scoundrel is always preferable to a vulgar one—or to a Welsh solicitor.

NAPLES.

(BY B. C.)

"La Bella Napoli!" If you could hear the Neapolitan roll the syllables lovingly round his tongue, and see the fond look in his eye as he speaks to his "Beautiful," you would understand a little how intensely he loves her. One does not as a rule hear him boast of her beauty. What need? If you have never seen her, his shoulders will shrug, and he will smile commiseratingly upon you; but no, signor, how can his poor words picture her to you? Some day—yes, yes—you will surely go and see for yourself; and the black eyes and white teeth will beam and flash kindly on you, as one who promises a treat to a child.

And on the other hand, if you have visited her—good; but again, still less the need to boast. "You have seen her! Enough!" A pinched forefinger and thumb nip off the sentence, and a magnificent gesture wipes off the air the possible need of further remark. He may listen while others talk of the beauty of this place, the climate of that, the mountains or plains or sea or hills of another. But if you catch his eye he will look across at you and nod gently and smile benevolently. They went here and looked there, they liked this and admired that. "Ah, yes; but you, signor—you and I—we have seen the Beautiful Naples."

But outside the Neapolitan's love for his native city, "Is it as beautiful as it has the name of being?" you will ask. It is hard to answer. I have known people who were intensely and utterly disappointed with Naples, and could see nothing out of the way in it as a beauty spot. On the other hand, I have known cold-blooded Northerners who raved about it and outheroded the Neapolitan himself in his praises. After all, it is a matter of taste and opinion, I suppose, so you must be content to take my own impression as such till "some day—ah, yes!"

For my own part, then, it is beautiful—with a beauty that is indescribable, and makes one fall back on the apology of the Neapolitan and his poor words. I have seen many pictures of Naples, pictures by masters which were accorded unbounded praise by the critics. But I have seen no picture which to my mind does justice to the place. It must be, I think, a good deal a matter of temperament or feeling. I know many places, Monaco and Monte Carlo, or the view of Venice from the Lagoons as the sun rises, for instance, which fill the eye, and balance and harmonise, and look as if they would look perfect put on canvas and set in a frame. But in Naples it is more than this; one feels the beauty more than one actually sees it. Though, to be sure, even as a picture I think it beautiful; and when I recall the view from the heights at night looking across the bay, with its twinkling ships' lights, and the jewelled necklace strung round the shore under the bulk of Vesuvius; and the dark but luminous blue of the sky, thick sown with stars; and down below in the foreground the black rocks and deep shadowed pile of the Castle of Santa Lucia accentuated by the blazing glow of the lights along the balconies of the cafes and the dancing reflections in the water—when I remember all this, I feel inclined to alter my opinion and say it is as a perfect picture that Naples pleases. But still, there are those others—and they may be among those who read—who say they see no beauty.

But it must always be remembered that it is at a distance—as a vision of vivid white-walled houses splashed with dark, cool green of trees as a part of a whole of the wonderful blue of the bay and the gleaming felucca sails, the melting green of the lower and the naked stark dead rock of the upper slopes of Vesuvius—that Naples has any claims to beauty. There are one or two good streets, but on a close acquaintance the town resolves into an intricate jumble of narrow, dirty, tortuous streets, cobble-stoned lanes, and steep, high flights of steps, with the tall white or pink or yellow walls of the houses linked together with strings and festoons of the weekly wash, and with the gutters choked and filthy and smelly, and often with an offensive but unregarded heap of garbage at the corner. The artist's eye will be delighted, even if his nose be offended, with innumerable "bits," and a wealth of colour—crude and raw blues and greens, reds, and yellows that one would expect to clash horribly and hurt the artistic sense, but which somehow seem toned down and blended in the strong sunshine and deep blue sky. The young girls are usually handsome, and their bright scarlet or yellow neckerchiefs or headdresses seem to set off the dark skin and full red lips and coal-black eyes. The men, too, are artistic and picturesque in a ruffianly way, with swarthy complexions burned to a deeper tint, teeth gleaming white as snow, and huge earrings twinkling against the black beards and hair. And the children—oh, the children, are beautiful beyond words. Big, melting eyes, skins with the colour and texture of a perfect peach, features, nose and mouth, and chin, clean cut and dainty, and alas, too often dirty as a mudlark's. But it is easy to forgive their dirtiness. It does not disgust as it would seen in our own paler-skinned faces here. It is harder to forgive the incessant whine for "Pen-nie, signor! Un' pen-nie, signor," with which they pester the unfortunate visitor. It is, of course, fatal to succumb to temptation, and throw a handful of coppers to be scrambled for. If one does the news seems to be telegraphed far and wide, and a cab is the final result of the efforts to escape the ever-growing army—and the cab will have to drive fast to escape it. The children's begging is a nuisance, but, as I have said, one forgives it for the sake of their pretty faces and wistful eyes. (Seeing them it is easy to understand why the Italian masters could not resist the temptation to paint the "Madonna and child" pictures that fill the churches and museums and art galleries.) But what one finds it hard to forgive is the begging of the professional beggars that hang round every church door and street corner. They are not perhaps so numerous as in Spain, and their sores and afflictions not quite so disgusting as in Rome, but they are bad enough to be an utter and everlasting pest. How they all make a living is more than ever I could understand. Surely there cannot be visitors enough to be imposed upon, and surely also the natives do not contribute to their regular upkeep. But anyhow there they are. Certainly, it does not take much to feed them—a sufficient meal of macaroni can be had for a halfpenny or less—and clothing they evidently do not require beyond one suit and shirt and hat in several generations. So it is easier than appears at first sight.

It is not only the beggars who live cheaply. All food is sold at a price which you would hardly think would pay for the cooking. I have had a full-course dinner, with wine included, for 1½ lira—little over a shilling—and well-cooked and daintily served in a good restaurant at that. Hotel living is cheap, too—if a bargain is made before possession is taken of a room. If you simply ask for a room, as you might here—then stand from under when the bill comes. The bargaining is an amusing, sometimes annoying, but always important and necessary factor, in Italian life; and certainly in Naples more than all. You bargain for everything, with the exception of railway tickets, and I have seen an old countryman turn away from the booking office and wrap his money up and pocket it, after vainly trying to beat down the price. There are no window price-tickets in Naples. You must inquire the price, and bargain and haggle for a packet of postcards or handful of cigars. Otherwise you will be fleeced preposterously. When you ask the hotelkeeper his charge for room and board, and he says 10 lira a day, he does not dream you are going to pay that. He expects about 6 or 7 lira.

Why they cannot abolish this time-wasting system heaven knows. It would be so much simpler for the hotelkeeper to say 6 lira, and let you decide whether it was too much or not, and stay or go accordingly. I remember my first introduction to the game. I went to an hotel with a friend, who knew Italy and the Italians and their little ways. We left our bags in the cab, and walked into the hotel. My friend demanded of the bowing major-domo what was the charge by the day. "Twelve lira, signor," was the answer. "Twelve," said my friend with his eyebrows arching and a world of indignant wonder in his voice. "Ah, but yes, of course —," and his eyebrows resumed the normal, and he smiled with an air of apology—"twelve lira for the two, you mean." "For two!" twelve lira for two!" His hands went up in an attitude of supplication to high heaven, and his voice soared to crescendo—"But the signor jokes. Of course—ha, ha—it is the signor's joke. Twelve lira a day for two"—the hands and voice dropping together, "it is very funny—ha, ha!" "The joke, then—where is it?" said my friend wonderingly. "Do you mean the charge is 12 lira each?" His voice switched off from mild wonder to ferocious indignation. "Come away"—to me, as he turned to the door, "we will go to the Hotel Bellevue." But before he has well turned, "Of course, if the signor prefer—ah. We have also the room not so dear. The room very good, with the most beautiful view." My friend turned back. "Let us see it, then—this room," he demanded, and we were accordingly led upstairs, and ushered into a rather nice room with a big window and balcony. My friend glanced round disparagingly. "How much," he asked. "Ten lira—each," in an indifferent take-it-or-leave-it tone. A waiter sneaked in here with our portmanteaux, and deposited them gently inside the door—move one to the enemy. My friend saw, but seemed not to see. "It is nonsense," he said. "Let us finish this children's talk. We will give six lira each." He mouthed the words grandly, as though he was saying 600, but our host's hands flourished wildly, and he broke into a torrent of Italian—the conversation up to now had been in English. "But," he broke off abruptly, "you have not seen—ah, the view," and he stalked to the window, and flung back the curtain with a magnificent high tragedy gesture. "We do not eat the view, nor sleep on the view," said my friend, "but," with an air of anything-for-a-quiet life. "We will give you a lira." Boniface gazed at him as if wondering of what flint and rock he was composed. "It is impossible, signor," he said sadly, with his hands quivering from this death-blow. "I might talk of nine; but seven—." He turned and pulled the curtain straight, as if all was over, he had done his best, but—better death than dishonour. "Then we will go," said my friend, "to the Bellevue." He scowled and winked at me as I tried to edge over and whisper my opinion that 9 lira was really very reasonable. Then he saw our bags—dramatically saw them, I mean. He had really saw them all along. "Who brought these up?" he demanded. "Take them down at once. Where was the porter?" etc. Nobody appeared to take them down again, and he turned round. "Since the baggage is here," he announced, "we will stay. We will give 16 lira for the two." "Never, never has this room been given for a price so small—ah. But, Santa Maria, since the signor insists, I will accept—the 17 lira for two." His shoulders were round his ears, and despair and utter ruin, moral and physical, were in every line of his attitude. "All right," said my friend, seizing his bag; "17 lira. At what hour is the dinner?"—and the battle was over. I felt ashamed and humiliated, but my friend laughed and assured me this was the usual thing, and we were not thought any the less of for it—rather the reverse, in fact—and I must make it a rule to do the same everywhere. But I confess it was some time before I could stand beside a cab and chaffer about the price while the cabman poured out frenzied Italian, which I did not understand, and kept dropping his price by half-lira at a time. The first thing to do when one thinks of hiring a cab is to walk ostentatiously to the horse's head and look at the bit. If it is an English one, you can start the bargaining; if it is one of the Italian abominations, walk away regardless of the frantic and rapidly reducing prices. This practice is recommended on little leaflets distributed by the S.P.C.A., and deserves unfailing observance. It is useless to appeal to the Italian's humane feeling to dumb animals. He hasn't any; and if you try to argue he informs you with withering scorn that "an animal cannot feel; it is not a Christian." It is no good either trying to argue that if it cannot feel it is useless to torture it. He is only amazed at such ignorance, and informs you that it makes the horse go; but, of course, it cannot feel—how could it? But if his pocket is touched, and he loses a fare because of his Italian-bitted horse, and sees it go to a rival whose horse has an English bit, it is another madness of the mad English; but perhaps he had better also get an English bit. And many of them do. The Italian bit does not go in the horse's mouth, but it is a half-hoop of metal fitting over the nose above the nostrils, and turned out straight for about 6in at the ends. The reins pass through these ends and back, and are joined to a chain and metal plate studded with sharp spikes like large tacks passed under the chin. When the rein is jerked the spikes prick into the chin, and a strong pull hauls the hoop tight over the nostrils till it stops the breathing if necessary, the spikes at the same time being sunk into the chin. The S.P.C.A. in Naples must be a hard-worked body. Cruelty—and unnecessary, useless cruelty at that—seems the rule rather than the exception. You may see a huge nail fastened permanently on the inside of a cart shaft so that as the horse walks his haunch swings against the point. You will see the milkman driving his cows and goats with a long stick armed with a sharp spike. And when a customer buys milk he will kneel down and milk the required quantity into the customer's jug, and stand up and send the goat back to the flock with a violent kick in the ribs or belly, or start the cow with a whack over the nose. The poor brutes seem to take it as a matter of course. And the aggravating thing is that here one cannot even touch the man's pocket by explaining that he is reducing the value of his horse by keeping an open wound in his flank, or probably getting less milk by kicking the goat. He will only shrug his shoulders, with an amused smile at such a silly idea.

I wished my space was unlimited that I might tell you of the dim glories of the churches, the wonders and beauties of the museums, with their wealth of curios and sculpture from near-by Pompei and Herculaneum; the glitter and glories of the cafes and the Galeria Umberto Arcade; the delights of the table—the exquisite fruit and never-to-be-forgotten spaghetti, and the huge flask of Chianti placed on the table so that you may help yourself, and the quantity of which you have consumed the waiter guesses at the reckoning by the amount left. (It will cost you 1d or 2d, or perhaps even 3d, if you were very thirsty.)

But there is no room to speak of all these things at length, and I must say, like my Neapolitan: "Some day—ah, yes, some day—you will surely see for yourself." And it is surely worth the seeing.

THE BOOT TRADE DISPUTE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In reply to the letter of "A Boot Manufacturer" suggesting that a truce be called, and that both parties meet in conference to arrive at some settlement of the present difficulty, I would respectfully suggest that he submit his proposals to the Boot Manufacturers' Association for their consideration, as they are the parties responsible for the appeal to the High Court. They might consider "Boot Manufacturer" a new contestant, and with no right to interfere, but as our trouble extends throughout the Commonwealth it must affect all in the industry, be he employer or employee, and any suggestion to rectify matters should be welcomed.

My opinion is that the delay caused by the action of the manufacturers in the appeal to the High Court aggravates the position, and only tends to make the men more determined to bring about an alteration of the present unsatisfactory state of affairs. The men recognise that the inevitable effect of the present system of juvenile employment will be that there will be little or no work for men in the occupation, and that the tradesman will find his vocation virtually gone. At the present time men are not employed beyond the fractional that is necessary, and a boy, if he is kept on long enough, will discover that he has wasted years in acquiring a valueless asset, because in his turn he will become workless when he is able by virtue of his age to demand a man's wage.

Let any person interested compare the proportionate number of men and boys in the trade five or six years ago and the number in the trade to-day. The surprising result will be that the industry carries far too many boys to the number of men.

The first principle should be in fixing the proportion of juvenile labour. Can the trade in seven years' time—basing it with an allowance with the past seven years—find work for the men who have devoted the best part of their life to it? Every man ought to get a fair and reasonable wage out of the industry to which he devotes his life.

Allow me to quote a case in condemnation of the present system. The following letter was received by me from the mother of a boy in the trade:—

Redfern, September, 7, 1909.
To the Secretary of the Boot Trade Union.
Sir,—I do think something ought to be done to make employers teach the boys something. . . . My boy has been employed by —— since he left school two years and four months ago. . . . He knows no more than putting in "stiffeners." I am simply complaining to you about the time he has wasted, also the best part of his life."

Several other cases could be cited if time and space would permit, but the weighty words of his Honor Judge Higgins sums up the position very clearly:—

"At present all the conditions of boy labour in this great Australian industry tend in the direction of inefficiency; and as the men trained to make boots by handwork from start to finish pass from the trade there is every prospect that in place of intelligent, skilled artisans the Commonwealth will have thousands of anaemic, ill-developed, under-trained factory slaves—youths unfitted for any work but the feeding of some one insatiate machine; youths prematurely put under the strain of bread-winning, and soon to be replaced by other youths ad infinitum."

"Boot Manufacturer" considers the facts of the case have not, owing to the heat of the discussion, been placed fairly before the public. Perhaps he has been viewing the position through certain coloured glasses. My advice is to look at it from a national standpoint, and he will agree with me that it is time something was done to stop the exploitation of juvenile labour in the Commonwealth, and compel each employer to do his duty to the boy, viz., teach him a trade and fit him for the battle of life, and not, as in the letter quoted, take the best part of his life, and when it suits throw him on the industrial scrap heap. I am, etc.,

DAVID JOHNSTONE, Secretary,
New South Wales Branch Australian Boot Trade Employees' Federation.

CITIZENSHIP.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S SORBONNE LECTURE.

A STRIKING UTTERANCE.

English files to hand by the last mail contain reports of Mr. Roosevelt's recent lecture at the Sorbonne, Paris, which aroused such widespread interest. The address, which was on "The Duties of a Citizen of a Republic," appears to have been strikingly forcible and frank, and the reports emphasise the enthusiasm with which it was received.

PERSONAL CHARACTER.

In the course of his remarks the ex-President said that the importance of good citizenship in a democratic Republic was paramount. In monarchies or oligarchies more depended upon those who were at the head of affairs, but in Republics like France and America the personal character of the individual citizens, who were in theory and in fact the rulers of the country, was all-important. France held a place in the world which was unique in many ways, owing to the example which for many centuries her sons had set as chivalrous and valiant soldiers, and as men of intellect, of learning, and of scientific, artistic, and literary genius. Both France and America, however needed at the present day to remember the importance of personal character, in the formation of which the highest physical and the highest intellectual efficiency, however admirable in themselves, represented only means towards that great end. Intellectual training in almost all cases failed if it led to isolation or cynicism, which were the marks, not of superiority, but of weakness. It was the man in the thick of the fight who was doing the world's work, and whom posterity would honour—not the mere critic who only succeeded in shunning both victory and defeat.

THE FAMILY.

Every man ought to work. Until he could maintain himself he could not do anything for the nation. It was, moreover, an eminent national duty to propagate the race. "Thy seed shall inherit the earth" was the benediction of Biblical times, as it was the benediction of our own. Sterility was the worst of scourges, and nothing was more deserving of reprobation than voluntary sterility. The most essential necessity was "that the man and the woman should become the father and mother of healthy children, so that the race might increase and not decrease." Voluntary sterility was worse than a misfortune; it was a crime arising from selfishness, from the dread of pain and of peril, and it was one which nature in the end would punish more severely than any other. "If we of the great Republics, if we, the free people who claim to have emancipated ourselves from the thraldom of wrong and error, bring down on our heads the curse that comes upon the wilfully barren, then it will be an idle waste of breath to prattle of our achievements, to boast of all we have done. No refinement of life, no delicacy of taste, no material progress, no sordid heaping up of riches, no sensuous developments of art and literature, can in any way compensate for the loss of the great fundamental virtues, and of these great fundamental virtues the greatest is the race's power to perpetuate the race."

GREAT FORTUNES.

After dwelling upon the necessity that a man should work to support his wife and family, Mr. Roosevelt proceeded to deal with the case of those who by great success in business, or by inheritance, were placed beyond the stress of material cares. Material well-being represented nothing but the foundation, and was worthless unless there were reared upon it the superstructure of a higher life. In a characteristic passage he continued:—

"That is why I decline to recognise the mere multi-millionaire, the man of mere wealth, as an asset of value to any country, and especially as an asset of my country. If he has earned or uses his wealth in a way that makes him of real benefit, of real use—and such is often the case—why then he does become an asset of worth. But it is the way in which it has been earned and used, and not the mere fact of wealth, that entitles him to the credit. There is need in business, as in most other forms of human activity, of the great guiding intelligences. Their places cannot be supplied by any number of lesser intelligences. It is a good thing that they should have ample recognition, ample reward. But we must not transfer our admiration to the reward instead of to the deed rewarded, and if what should be the reward exists without service having been rendered, then admiration will come only from those who are mean of soul. The truth is that after a certain measure of tangible material success or reward has been achieved the question of increasing it becomes of constantly less importance compared to other things that can be done in life. It is a bad thing for a nation to raise and to admire a false standard of success, and there can be no falser standard than that set by the deification of material well-being in and for itself."

PROPERTY AND THE COMMUNITY.

A little later he said:—"My position as regards the moneyed interests can be put in a few words. In every civilised society property rights must be carefully safeguarded; ordinarily, and in the great majority of cases, human rights and property rights are fundamentally and in the long run identical; but when it clearly appears that there is a real conflict between them human rights must have the upper hand, for property belongs to man, and not man to property."

SOCIALISM v INDIVIDUALISM.

Mr. Roosevelt then touched on socialism. He was a convinced individualist. The fatal consequences of a logical system of socialism carried to its extreme limit could not be exaggerated, but it should be with them a point of honour to help towards the approach of the day when every man should have his chance. To say, however, that the spendthrift, the idle, and the vicious should have the same rewards as the thrifty, the industrious, and the steady man was contrary to truth. So, let them strive to bring about equality by raising men, and not by lowering their standard. The good citizen would claim liberty for others as well as for himself. Perhaps the best proof of true love of liberty was in every country the way in which minorities were treated. There should be complete liberty, not only in matters of religion and opinion, but for every individual to lead his own life, provided that he did no wrong to his neighbour. Persecution was wrong because it was pernicious, and class hatred was equally so. The same condemnation should fall on the arrogance which disdained or crushed a man because he was poor, and on the envy and hatred which would destroy another because he was rich. No one did more harm to his country than the man who induced his compatriots to divide into distinct classes, forgetting that the only really democratic rule was to judge a man according to his merits. There had been many Republics in the past, and the chief cause of their fall was the tendency of parties to divide on either side of the line between wealth and poverty. Broad tolerance of differences of views must be exercised.

THE RIGHTS OF MINORITIES.

Passing to the subject of the rights of minorities, Mr. Roosevelt maintained that there ought to be not only complete liberty in matters of religion and opinion, but also complete liberty for the individual to lead the life he chose, provided always that in doing so he did no wrong to his neighbour. Persecution was odious in itself altogether apart from the merits or demerits of the opinion, the class, or the individual persecuted. Class hatred was pernicious. Mr. Roosevelt continued:—

"You ought to remember that the arrogant brutality of the rich or the powerful, and the envious malice directed against wealth or power, are really and essentially different manifestations of the same disposition—they are only the two sides of the same shield. . . . The dominance of a class, whether it is that of the populace or of an oligarchy, is the ruin of republics. . . . There is no greater need to-day than to keep ever in mind the fact that the cleavage between right and wrong runs at right angles to, and not parallel with, the lines of cleavage between class and class."

Politicians who promised to confer benefits upon one class of citizens at the expense of another were not to be trusted. "If a public man tries to obtain your vote by telling you that he will perpetrate some injustice in your interests you may be absolutely certain that if ever he should find it to his own advantage he will perpetrate an injustice against your interests." Republics needed to "combine intensity of conviction with a large tolerance for differences of conviction."

PATRIOTISM.

The concluding portion of the address was devoted to patriotism and its bearing upon international relations. A truly patriotic nation made the best member of the family of nations. An honest nation ought to treat other nations as an honest man treated other men. It should stand up for its rights, but should respect the rights of others. He could never admit "that political morality differed from private morality, or that a promise made on the platform was different from a promise made in everyday life." A statesman must not resort to deception in international any more than he would in private relations. He had great hopes of international law, though it was still in its infancy and lacked the sanction which enforced private law. For the present every nation must be the final judge of its own vital interests, and in the last resort must have the will and the strength to withstand the wrong which another would inflict upon it. They were all for peace and justice, but they would despise the man who would not stand fast in a just cause, even if the whole world were in arms against him.

THE CHURCHES.

It is announced that Friday, June 10, is to be set apart at St. James' as a day of intercession in connection with the difficulties through which St. James' Church is passing at the present time. Arrangements are being made for almost continuous services from 8 a.m. until midday, in which the parochial clergy and other sympathising clergy will take part. During the rest of the day there will be continuous intercession offered by members of St. James' and other sympathising Anglican congregations. A cable message has also been sent to England inviting sympathisers there to participate.

The Archbishop of Sydney (Dr. Wright) will hold confirmation in the Cathedral to-day. To-morrow morning he has arranged to consecrate the enlarged church of St. Jude's, Randwick, and in the evening he will preach at St. James', Sydney.

The foundation stone of a rectory in connection with St. Martin's, Kensington, was laid by Archdeacon Gunther last Saturday in the presence of a large number of parishioners and friends. In the service held in the church Canon Hough and the Rev. J. Rook assisted.

A sub-committee of graduates has been formed to supply information regarding foreign missions in high-grade boys' schools. It includes Mr. J. Bateman, B.Sc., of St. Paul's College, Mr. F. C. Phillips, M.A., of Moore College, and others. The Archbishop of Sydney as president of the association is a member ex-officio.

The first batch of young men from Cliff College, England, engaged for Methodist Home Mission work, arrived in Sydney per the Afric on Tuesday last. Quick work was done by the Home Mission office in getting them away to their respective appointments. Mr. Albert Watson left by the same evening's train to work as circuit missionary in the Cootamundra circuit, and was "welcomed" on Wednesday night at the same time as the late circuit missionary was "farewelled." Mr. Kay Mason left last night to take charge of Bombala home mission station, and Mr. Frederick James Winn also left last night to act as circuit missionary in the Grenfell circuit.

A most important departure has been made by the Church Society in giving a grant of £50 a year towards the stipend of an agent to minister to the many immigrants who land at Sydney. The Colonial and Continental Church Society has promised a grant also in order to get the work started.

St. Andrew's Cathedral authorities say that the services there are more thronged than ever. They state that it is becoming all too evident that the Cathedral is wholly inadequate to accommodate the ordinary Sunday congregations. Gradually churchmen are beginning to talk of additions to the Cathedral.

Speaking with regard to Bishopscourt the Archbishop of Sydney says:—"I am asked at times how far the committee had gone in providing a new Bishopscourt. The answer is that they have not yet sold the old Bishopscourt. Speaking as one who is no business man, I yet venture to suggest that it is a pity to lose one good house now offered to the trustees. The feasible method of securing it is for a group of churchmen to secure it and hold it. Is it too much to hope that they would do so without interest for the sake of the Church? This would allow time to sell the old Bishopscourt with deliberation. The fact that the Church has allowed the mortgage of £3300 to rest for 20 years upon the old Bishopscourt may perhaps deter. But as I observe the signs of Church life around us, it ought not to do so. What is needed is volunteers with initiative. The particular offer will not involve an unreasonable risk, mortgage and all, else I would not have named it."

Recently Mr. T. A. Dibbs promised to give a sum of £700 towards liquidating the debt upon Christ Church, Lavender Bay, on the condition that the remaining £200 was subscribed by the parishioners. This public-spirited offer resulted in a meeting being held at the parish hall on Wednesday night, over which the Rector (Rev. J. H. Maclean) presided. The attendance showed how much the parishioners appreciate the generous offer, and when the matter had been explained there was a prompt response, and the sum of £100 was subscribed in the room. There is now no doubt that the remainder will be realised, and Mr. Dibbs' offer become effective. Messrs. E. H. Scales and R. Old were appointed hon. treasurers of the movement.

The president of the New South Wales Christian Endeavour Union, Mr. John B. Spencer, has just returned from a visit to the North Coast district in the interests of the movement. Meetings were held at Newrybar, Teven, Lismore, Grafton, and Maclean. The Rev T. Parker was elected president, and Mr. Bert H. Witherspoon secretary of the Clunes and Richmond River District Local Union, and the Rev. W. Stewart president, and Mr. Munro secretary of the Clarence River Local Union.

It is probable that the Rev. W. A. Charlton, rector of St. Barnabas', George-street West, will represent the Church Missionary Association at the world's missionary conference, to be held in Edinburgh this month. Over a thousand delegates from missionary organisations all over the world will attend.

Miss Miller, of the Church Missionary Association, has recently arrived home on furlough from her station in Mpapua, German West Africa.

Monsignor Barry, administrator of Sandhurst (Vic.) diocese, has received a letter from the Rev. Father Rooney, dated Rome, April 18, in which he confirmed the cabled news of the serious illness of Bishop Reville, and also Bishop Corbett, of Sale. The writer states that for three or four days Bishop Reville's condition was regarded as most critical, but he suddenly took a turn for the better. At the time of writing he was making good progress towards recovery, and Bishop Corbett was also recovering.

The Rev. Father P. M'Curtin, S.J., who has been on the teaching staff of the Xavier College, Kew, for many years, has been transferred to St. Aloysius' College, Milson's Point, where he has entered on his duties.

The General Synod of the Church of England in Australia and Tasmania will be held in Sydney on Tuesday, October 11, and the subsequent days. The archbishop and bishops will hold meetings also during the week previous. An effort is in contemplation to repeat something of the missionary conference of the Church, held with such success three years ago.

The Enmore Tabernacle celebrates to-morrow and Tuesday the fourteenth anniversary of Mr. Geo. T. Walden's ministry in that district, and the semi-jubilee of his ministry in the Church of Christ. He began his work at Millersburg, Kentucky, 25 years ago this month. During the time he has been at Enmore the church has grown from 351 to 884. There have been received into the church during this time 1293. The church building has been three times enlarged. The Sunday school has increased from 227 with 20 teachers to 513 with 45 teachers; 319 students have joined the church during the 14 years.

The death of Dr. Marcus Horowitz, Chief Rabbi of Frankfort on the Main, removes a figure of considerable force and influence in that community. For nearly a third of a century he had presided over the fortunes of the Frankfort community with dignity, diligence, and excellent results.

At St. Sepulchre's, Holborn, the Archdeacon of London devoted his charge to the clergy in connection with his annual visitation to a history of faith healing. The clergy, he thought, might do more in their visitation of the sick by encouragement to faith. The faith of the believer might be stimulated, under proper conditions, by such adjuncts as the laying-on of hands or anointing with oil. Nothing could be properly attempted without the sanction of the medical profession, and there should be a clear understanding established as to the relative duties at the sick bed. The ultimate responsibility must lie with the accredited physician. Success in healing by faith must be subject to the most public tests. Meantime the clergy and religious laymen might properly devote far more attention than had in recent times been employed to calming the minds of patients and encouraging them to hope for recovery.

Thirty churches in the city and suburbs were occupied by the City Missionaries on Sunday last in connection with the annual meeting. Several of them have been in the City Mission over 20 years, and one of them (Mr. Freland) has been nearly 40 years. The recital of experiences in dealing with poverty, sickness, and criminality were told in simple language, showing that Christian principles were effectual in working cures and alleviation.

An impressive service in memory of the late Mr. J. S. Huthnance, for 14 years choir master of the Methodist Church, Bondi Junction, and hon. librarian of the Royal Philharmonic Society since its formation, was held at the Methodist Church, Bondi Junction, on Sunday evening, May 22.

Commissioner Hay states that the rumoured engagement of Commander Eva Booth is incorrect.

Mr. John Fairley and Mr. Marsh Little, who have just concluded a successful mission in Goulburn, will begin a 12 days' mission in the Leichhardt Presbyterian Church to-morrow.

An enthusiastic thanksgiving rally on Tuesday last brought to a close the successful membership campaign, which has been in force in the Ashfield Y.W.C.A. during the month of May. The members were received by the vice-presidents, Mesdames W. G. Crane and Hunter M'Pherson, and the four companies provided an attractive programme. The result of the campaign numerically has been the addition of 151 to the membership, which now totals 281, exclusive of intermediate and junior branches.

The General Assembly of the Free Church of Scotland, which met in Edinburgh last week, appointed the Rev. D. M'Lean, of St. Columba Church, Edinburgh, a deputy to visit the Presbyterian Church of eastern Australia. Mr. M'Lean will labour first of all in Sydney, and then visit the congregations in the country.

Rev. L. H. Robjohns, B.A., has resigned charge of the Killara Congregational Church and accepted a call to the pastorate of the church at Mt. Lofty, South Australia, rendered vacant by the death of the Rev. Thomas Kite. Mr. Robjohns leaves for his new sphere about the middle of the current month.

BRONTE TRAM.

OBJECTION TO ROUTE.

A section of the residents of Bronte and of a portion of Bondi is hostile to the carrying out of the approved extension of the tramline to Bronte. A meeting was held on Thursday night, presided over by Mr. J. C. Humphrey, to protest against the scheme and to press the claims of an alternative route. It was stated that the approved route, which was in effect the extension of the Waverley line to Bronte Park, would be of very little service to residents of that part of the district, which was suffering from inadequate tramway facilities. Moreover, it would not be productive of revenue to any extent, except possibly on holidays. The suggested scheme, on the other hand, would serve a thickly populated district, as well as the pleasure-seeking public, while on account of its easy gradients and absence of engineering difficulties the cost of construction would be less. The route proposed would necessitate but one inconsiderable resumption, and was within a mile in length. It could branch off the main Bondi line at Ocean or Watson street, and traverse Birrell-street, turn into Belgrave-street, and proceed along Murray, Read, Alfred, and Hewlett streets to Bronte Park.

It was also resolved to form a deputation to the Minister for Works.

PULPIT AND POLITICS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Does "Semper Fidelis" think that the sun rises because he crows. None of my statements are made on "hearsay, without reliable data," they are not "bald" statements, and I am not "in a hole;" though if I had him before me I could readily prove him to be. At any rate, like many more, always "Semper Fidelis" to his nature, he hides anonymously in his hole.

I don't know what he means by clergymen "of that ilk." What does he mean by "ilk?" Does he know himself? I never make a sublime attempt to capture the "gallery." I speak the truth to sensible men, amongst whom he cannot be numbered. I do hold myself a "working" man, and I preach the doctrines of the "Carpenter of Nazareth." I am always on the side of the working man, whom I believe has never yet received justice and his rights at the hands of the greedy rich. I am proud to be his defender, his helper, and his teacher. The report in the "Herald" formed a very small part of my two hours' lecture, which was listened to by thousands of respectable, intelligent men. Regarding "intimidations" at the recent elections there, I will say that already several have lost their seats, on petition, because of bribery and such; and every week since the English papers have had cases where people have been proceeded against and convicted for intimidating the voters. I can readily supply such specific cases.

Miss Wilson, sister of the deputy master of the North Cheshire Hounds, was committed for trial at the Cheshire Assizes, and Mr. Charles Bell, of Norley Hall, was proceeded against for intimidating two of his employees, at the Eddisbury Sessions. Mr. Bell pleaded that he dismissed the men, with several other labourers, because they "showed impertinence by flaunting the Liberal colours." Mr. Charles Fillingham, a leading Tory in West Lindsey, dismissed his labourers earning 15s a week because they voted Liberal-Labour. Messrs. Marshalls, of Britannia Iron Works, Gainsboro, dismissed men wholesale, including Councillor Tom Bell, J.P., the workmen's leader. Scores of other instances could be given. Thousands more never saw the light of the courts, though they were common knowledge. To all "Semper Fidelis" has to say upon these matters I say, "rot," "palpable ignorance," "woeful nonsense;" moreover, such as he would do the same towards any clergyman who ventured to differ from rich men in his church.

He says, "I say most emphatically, and without the slightest fear of contradiction, that his statements regarding such do not square with facts." I say that man's a fool to talk like that. His ignorance is too deep for words. What can he say to the above facts? Regarding his other point of low wages, and his request for proof of my "wild assertions," I will give these instances. One firm in England, whose name I enclose, pay their men an average wage of £1 a week. Their chief cashier receives £3 a week, and the chief assistant £2 10s. Many foremen get £2 and under, and the workmen slave from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m., many of them for 17s a week, while the many sons get £2000 a year and big houses, and all supplied for doing nothing. Yet their returns to the shareholders with the regular annual bonuses added reach nearer 30 than 20 per cent., as I stated.

I lectured to 2000 workmen in the Town Hall of the place where the firm had its centre, and heard from the men's lips of their state. Moreover, my home is near, and I know the place well. The men are not permitted to join a union. The employers nip any attempt in the bud by promptly dismissing the promoters.

The other place I refer to is Long Melford, near Ipswich. The Rev. Mr. Bamber, M.A., the Anglican rector, with whom I stayed there, took me over the place, and was my informant. He said the average was nearer 14s a week per adult. This place is the residence of Sir John Aird, the famous engineer. These statements were made in the House of Commons upon the findings of a commission: "That four-fifths of the families in Britain earn less than £3 a week," and "that 43 per cent. of the hardest working part of the community, however hard they might work, or thrifty they might be, were not able to provide for the standard of a workhouse subsistence." A manufacturer in St. Helens, over whose works I went, assured me the average wage of the glassblowers in that place would not reach 15s a week.

I can give instances from Dundee, Glasgow, Liverpool, Lancashire, Leeds, Leicester, Sheffield, Grantham, Nottingham, and many others. Germany is worse; Belgium worse still; Austria and France worse again.

What are the causes? The greed of monopolists, the avarice of the rich masters, the inhuman callousness of the Lords, the unfathomable meanness of the landowners, and then, a long way behind these, and more a result than a means—drunkenness. And don't forget that France and Belgium are the most drunken countries of Europe. They worship the Goddess of Reason.

Finally, in reply to his jibe at a clergyman appearing in politics, may I remind him that 23 clergymen sit in the House of Commons, and every one on the side of the people among them Rev. C. Sylvester Horne, M.A., the present minister of Whitfield's Tabernacle, and chairman of the Congregational Union of Great Britain, Revs. Dr. Leach and George Nicholls, founder and president of the Agricultural Labourers' Union, both Congregationalists; also Rev. J. Scott Lidgett, M.A., president of the Wesleyan Conference, and Rev. Dr. Wakefield, Dean of Norwich, and many others are progressive members of the London County Council. So I err in good company.—I am, etc.,

BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION.

LADY OF 50 LOOKS LIKE 17.

A Nashville lady found a way to beautify her complexion without the use of drugs or face creams.

"Before I began the use of Grape-Nuts," she writes, "I was convinced I could not live long. I was sick all the time; heart trouble, kidneys seriously affected, eyesight bad, sense of smell was gone, and hearing very poor.

"My family thought I had dropsy, and could not get well, and I only ate Grape-Nuts because I slept better afterwards—did not dream I could be entirely cured, and quit all treatment and given up hope.

"After spending a large sum of money, and being under the best physicians for three years without relief, I commenced eating Grape-Nuts food three times a day, and now I am sound as a dollar, am in perfect health, 50 years old, and my complexion is better than some girls' at 17.

"I never have headaches, nerves are strong, sight so much improved I never need no glasses; heart and kidneys in perfect condition.

"Your Grape-Nuts alone cured me, and I cannot find words to express my thanks to the Postum Co. I have told hundreds of people what cured me. It was simple food that I could digest."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Ck., Mich.

It sometimes amazes persons what damage has been done by improper eating, not knowing any better way. A change to Grape-Nuts soon tells the story. Read the famous book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.—Advt.

Thin Women!

Would You Like to be Well and Fully DEVELOPED?

Any woman who lacks good bust development, lacks the one essential that creates a perfect appearance. Lack of proper bust development, hollow cheeks, and "salt-cellars" quickly take from a woman the bloom and freshness of healthy womanhood.

Misfortune may have been your lot in so far as natural development was concerned, but science has found a way to correct your deficiency. Even though you have never been full-bosomed, and although you have been attenuated all your life, if you suffer from no wasting desease, your bosom can be fully developed and your weight increased to normal.

There are, to-day, hundreds of women who were once thin, flat-bosomed, hollow-cheeked, and generally scraggly in appearance, suffering the effects of anæmia and defective digestion, who are now, for the first time in their lives, healthy, full-bosomed and pink-cheeked, and enjoying the full vigour of robust womanhood, as the result of a few weeks under Flesh-Food Treatment.

Many women whose figures have been spoiled by maternal duties have been entirely restored to splendid form, and flat-chested young women who suffered slow development have had the fault corrected by this treatment.

"Flesh-food" is totally harmless in every case. Its efficacy is beyond question, and its use is no demand upon the subjects time. Many cases have gained even up to six pounds a week, and an increase in bust measurement up to eight and ten inches.

Every women should desire a good figure, and this treatment will produce it. Thousands endorse it and testify publicly to its efficiency. Use it and you will be in a position to do the same.

A Trial Sample FREE!

We publish an interesting book on the subject of attenuation and development, and will send same and a FREE SAMPLE TREATMENT to you free of charge, upon receipt of a 2d stamp to pay part postage. All communications private and confidential. Write or call for full particulars.

BLED TO DEATH.

NOBODY KNEW FIRST AID.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the absence of the knowledge of the principles of first aid by those about him, Thomas Howland, farmer, 80 years of age, bled to death to-day at his home, four miles from Dimboola. Howland knocked an ulcerous sore and burst a varicose vein near the ankle. His daughter attempted to stanch the bleeding by applying flour, but this had no effect, and he died within 10 minutes.

AUSTRALIANS AT THE TOP OF THE TREE.

RECENT MEDICAL DISCOVERY SECURES OLD-WORLD APPROVAL.

LIVERPOOL, Friday.

At a congress of representative medicos from all parts of Great Britain just completed in this city, the Vecsey Method of Treatment, the new Australian method of cure for Varicose Veins, secured the universal approval of all present, and the opinion was freely expressed, that for such cases it supersedes the surgeon's knife.

VARICOSE VEINS

CAN BE PAINLESSLY CURED!

Thousands of men and women suffer from varicose veins, and will go on suffering simply because they have been misled into believing that there is no cure for them "except an operation." As a matter of fact, an operation for varicose veins is Not a Cure: on the contrary, it is a step in the wrong direction that only aggravates the complaint instead of curing it.

One operation presages a further one, just as surely as day follows night, and as operation succeeds operation the condition of the complaint gets worse, until death comes to end the victim's suffering.

Varicose veins and varicose ulcers are dangerous complaints that should not be borne philosophically. Any day may see disaster overtake the victim of this disease.

A vein or ulcer may burst, a clot may form that will totally incapacitate the victim if nothing worse results. Eczema often sets in, and makes the victim's life miserable.

THE VECSEY METHOD OF TREATMENT

of varicose veins, ulcers, and eczema is one of purely local application only. A home system of treatment, easy to use, and positively wonderful in its effects. The first application relieves in bad cases.

Old-standing cases of varicose veins and ulcers, that have existed for as much as twenty-five years, and have resisted all efforts to cure them, have by this discovery been rendered almost harmless and entirely curable under a few weeks' treatment.

THIS TREATMENT IS HARMLESS TO USE, TOTALLY PAINLESS, AND CURES RAPIDLY AND PERMANENTLY.

If you have varicose veins, or a bad leg, you should obtain full particulars of the Vecsey Method of Treatment, which will prove most interesting to you. Would you like to be certain that you could, by a few weeks' painless treatment, entirely rid yourself of varicose veins and any unpleasant consequences that accompany them? Would you like to know that your leg was as strong and supple as it should be? Would you like to be for ever free from the pain and mental aggravation that the varicose veins create?

If you would—investigate the Vecsey Method of Treatment. Every effect has a cause—every disease an antidote—some have not yet been found, but they exist. Until the discovery of the Vecsey Method, a cure for varicose veins was not known. Take advantage of its wonderful efficiency. Consultation and Advice Free.

READ THIS GRATEFUL TESTIMONY.

ALMOST INCAPACITATED.

Bridge-street, Sydney, 17th May, 1910.

Mr. Gideon Vecsey, Sydney.

Dear Sir,—For over twelve years I suffered greatly from Varicose Veins in the legs. These veins traversed both my legs from knee to ankle, and were often so painful that for days at a time I could not put my feet to the ground.

The veins burst twice, and were, in fact, so tender that whenever I walked I was in constant terror that they would again break out. I had doctors' advice and treatment continuously, but with only temporary relief at all times, until I finally got so bad that I feared to attempt to walk.

A friend told my husband of Mr. Vecsey's method, and he kindly undertook my cure, with the result that in less than two months all pain had completely left me. The veins became stronger and subsided rapidly, and I do not know what it is to have trouble from the old cause, although it is nearly a year since my cure was effected.

With almost the first application of the treatment, I got great relief, and my improvement advanced rapidly to the condition as stated, and I only hope that many may profit by my gratifying reference and experience.

Yours faithfully, (Sgd.) A. F. GRUBBA.

THE "BULLOCKY."

The bullock-driver, with his long team and heavy load is a very harmonious feature in the Australian landscape. The "bullocky," as he is universally called, is certainly an easy-going individual. But while he never appears to be in a hurry, his life is not the lazy one that some people may imagine. Seen on the road, walking with long, slow stride, and looking as if he had no cares at all in the world to worry him, it is not realised what work he has had before and after getting his load on. With the team moving lazily onward, his whip resting obliquely over his shoulder, it does apparently look as if he has nothing to do but to keep up a walking pace with his bullocks. But only apparently; it takes a good man to make his entire team pull together. His eyes have to be ceaselessly on them. This is where a good dog is of great assistance. Commencing at the hindmost off-side bullock, the dog will make a bite at his heel, and then with lightning speed to that of the one in front, following up to the next along the line, and so on. He then wheels back, dodging dexterously in and out between the wheels, with only a bare inch or so to spare from being crushed to death. With lolling tongue he is evidently enjoying the whole proceedings. The bullocky is sometimes accompanied by a mate, who walks on the off side of the team, keeping the off-side bullocks up to their work. He is known as an "off-sider," a term that is also applied to the shearers' cook's assistant. A good dog, though, is as efficacious as an off-sider. He plays no small part, and a good cattle dog is as invaluable to a bullock-driver as a sheep dog is to a drover or a shepherd. The horse when hitched up behind the waggon very often takes it into his head to pull back—possibly objecting to the slow steps he has to take—which means a broken bridle. To guard against this he is provided with a rope breeching. Here again the dog plays his part. When first starting the horse will will probably not move at once; the dog falls behind, and "heels" him on.

A good bullocky has perfect command over his team. To the uninitiated, watching the bullocky walking seemingly aimlessly along with whip in hand, it seems simplicity itself to drive a team. Let another person try to stop them when once moving, or even try to start them. It will be found well nigh impossible. Anybody can drive a horse, but it is not everybody who can drive bullocks. It is solely by the "hoit" and the movement of the whip that they are handled. For instance, if the whip is held horizontally over the head it may mean to ease up; if held in the left hand, to move backward; if carried over the right shoulder to go straight ahead, and if dropped on the ground to stop, and so on. Each bullock keeps his eye on the whip. It is, therefore, the whip that controls the team. An exciting incident once happened where a left-handed man once tried to work a team of bullocks that had been trained by a right-handed man. The consequence was that the animals would do the direct opposite to what the "left-hander" required of them. Proceedings were abruptly ended by the team clearing out and four of the number breaking their necks.

Bullocks are very faithful creatures, and, unlike horses, will not sulk and stick a man up if there be the slightest chance of getting out of trouble. When the waggon is bogged some bullocks will go down on their knees, putting all their energy into the yoke meanwhile. This is what is known as "scratch-pulling." Each pair of bullocks are as evenly matched in strength as possible, so that they will pull truly, when no surplus pulling strength is lost. Two bullock drivers with their waggons generally travel together for the sake of company. Should one get into a fix the other is there to lend a helping hand. The bullocky is not lacking in jealous pride. It is common to his kind. Nothing jars him more than to insinuate that his team cannot pull a decent load. Nothing pleases him more than to have his team photographed. He takes great pride in the manner he puts on his load, and ties it up very neatly; hence the reason why the tarpaulin is not spread over, unless in case of wet weather. Still, although he may envy his fellow-man's load, he will never see him stuck; but will render all assistance possible. During a very wet season some few years ago in that stretch of country between Cootamundra and Condobolin, long before the railway went to Wyalong, there was a continuous line of loaded wool teams on the road for no less a period than three months. So soon as a break in the weather would accrue and the roads got fairly passable again another downpour would some. Thus the bullockies were stranded. Their trip is often beset with difficulties of a similar nature nowadays, although not for such lengthy periods.

A team is divided up as follows:—Those two on either side of the pole are the "polers;" those immediately in front the "pinners" or "pointers;" the foremost pair the "leaders;" while the intervening ones are known as the "body" of the team. Some bullockies are faddists, and like to have their whole team uniform in colour. An "all black" team is sometimes met with, so also is an "all brindle," while a "poley" team may be come across occasionally. The spade and the axe are two essential implements on the track—the former in case of bogging in a bore drain or in wet weather, while the latter has often to be brought into requisition when passing through timbered localities, when a tree will probably have to be chopped down to enable the load to pass along. Again, when a waggon is loaded too wide, some of the gateposts may have to be lessened in height. The bullocky will always pull up for a friendly chat with a passing traveller. The bullocks, taking advantage of this temporary halt, will lie down, as they become very sore-footed. In dry times, of course, the uppermost thought is of his bullocks, and the first question put to a traveller is: "How is it off for grass on ahead?" Unlike the bullocky of the past, the bullocky of to-day has in most cases an area of farming land. When the shearing commences he leaves this and makes out for the sheds, and by the time the shearing season is over it is time for him to return to his home and cut his crop.

As the railways push their way farther out into the interior, so also must the bullocky make further out, and as the years roll on the stages will become shorter and shorter. What would be considered a long stage to-day would have been considered a mere "fleabite" in the past. Where it took months for wool to reach the metropolis it is now only a matter of days. Out on the Darling River the "bullocky" is an absent type. The bales, in place of being carried on teams, are sent direct from the shearing sheds—which are built along the banks of the river—down a slide and loaded into a barge, having a holding capacity for a thousand bales or more. Beyond the Darling, again, camels perform the work, each camel carrying two bales. A bullocky's average load is anything between 40 and 50 bales—in weight about seven tons. He contracts to deliver the whole clip to the railway at so much per ton, which varies according to the distance. He travels about 12 miles a day. Although horse teams and the encroaching railways are tending to drive him from our midst, the bullocky will ever stand as a distinct Australian bush type.

SHEEPBREEDERS' SHOW.

EIGHT HUNDRED SHEEP ENTERED.

FOUR STATES REPRESENTED.

The Sheepbreeders' Show, which will begin on the 29th inst on the Showground, Sydney, promises to be a fine exhibition of high-class stud sheep, and most of the leading New South Wales flocks have entered exhibits, while Victoria, Tasmania, and New Zealand will also be represented. It is expected that the standard of quality will be unusually high this year, and the contests for grand champion honours should excite keen interest among sheep men. The entries received show that some 800 sheep will be exhibited, and, as usual, merinos occupy first place, there being over 300 single pens and 13 pens of 10 each in this division. The British breeds are also very strong, and the Department of Agriculture will make another interesting display of crossbreds.

The addition of a novice class to the sheep dog trials is appreciated by owners. For the two classes there are 40 entries, and the trials will extend over three days, the novice event being the first on the programme.

THE WOOL TRADE.

CLOSING AUCTIONS NEXT WEEK

There has been no falling-off in the demand during the week for available supplies; the bulk of which have been skin-wools from the local fellmongery establishments. These wools are sold by private treaty, and firm rates are reported. As there has been an interim of about six weeks since the last auctions in Sydney, the market has been kept moving with local scoureds. Fortunately, there has been a good demand; more ample supplies than usual at this time of the year have been forthcoming, and there has been practically no accumulation of stock. This is an exceptionally satisfactory position, for the catalogues to be submitted at auctions next week are of very fair proportions, and promise to be received with open arms by a very large attendance of buyers. The auctions in Brisbane this week are strong evidence of that. Three days have finally been set apart for the Sydney auctions, which will be the last series of public sales in the Sydney market for the current statistical wool year. The auctions open on Tuesday next, and are to be continued on the two following days. About 13,000 bales will be catalogued. The offerings will comprise a number of early shorn clips from the north-west and west of this State, with some important lines from the northern State. Although some of the clips from the north-west will be rather short in the staple, due to wool-growers shearing earlier than usual through the fly trouble, the selection will be an attractive one for the time of the year. Stations that have shorn unduly early this year will probably keep to about the same dates next year; thus increasing the importance of the winter auctions, as well as adding to the quantity of greasy wool at a time of the year when it is not too plentiful. Early shearing, if it suits woolgrowers so far as their flocks are concerned, is a boon to the trade generally, for it tends, if even only in a slight degree, to spread supplies more evenly over the wool-selling year, and relieve some of the pressure at the height of the season, when consignments come forward more rapidly than the wool can be catalogued. Shorten the breaks as much as possible during the "off season," and they will re-act beneficially on the busier part of the year. As to the prospects for next week; they are exceedingly bright. The strong demand that ruled in Brisbane, and that has been passing as an undercurrent in Sydney since the last auctions in April, point to a strong market next week, with values at the highest point of the most successful wool year that growers have ever experienced. There is every appearance of a full clearance of the offerings. Wool is required to go straight into consumption, and fortunate indeed are those who are able to meet the market when it is as good as the most optimistic seller could wish it to be.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

The most important event in wool-selling circles during the week was the auctions in Brisbane on Wednesday last, when seven catalogues, aggregating 19,540 bales, were submitted to a large and representative attendance of buyers. This was the ninth and last series of sales in the northern centre for the 1909-10 season. The offerings comprised important clips from the Central, Warrego, and Northern districts, those from the Central district being again very light in condition, but showing a good deal of discoloured wool. Reports shew that competition was very keen and rather more evenly distributed than at the previous sale, the market being quoted generally as exceedingly firm for all wools, and in sellers' favour. Both greasy and scoured of good to superior quality sold exceptionally well, occasional lots showing an advance of ½d per lb. Bulky greasy necks and broken fleece were very keenly sought after, occasional lots fetching extreme prices. Lambs' wool also showed a firm tendency, practically regaining what was lost at the May sales. The bulk of the wool was bought for the Continent, Germany being the chief purchaser. The demand from Yorkshire was also very strong, and Japanese buyers were again in evidence. The highest price obtained for greasy was 14d for 18 bales of GF/Wolfang and for 11 bales FMY/Arcturus, while scoured brought 24½d for 16 bales GF/Beaconsfield.

Melbourne has been marking time, waiting upon the next auctions arranged for June 24 next, which will probably be the last auctions for the year closing June 30. It would seem that the useful rains that have fallen all over Victoria have greatly improved the wool-growing position in that State. The lambing promises to be a heavy one, and the growing clip a good one.

THE GENERAL OUTLOOK.

Trade prospects continue very good on the Continent, and especially so in England; the only quarter of the globe where manufacturers are not working at full pressure is America. With regard to the Continent, on April 15 Messrs. Wenz and Co. said that, although the turnover in the manufacturing districts had rather decreased since the beginning of that month, no appreciable change in prices was anticipated, at least in the case of merinos and fine crossbreds; coarse crossbreds continued in small request. On April 25 the position in manufacturing circles in England was summed up by the Leeds correspondent of the "Yorkshire Observer," who said that everyone must now admit that the woollen and worsted industry is in a state of remarkable activity, and although the machinery in all the mills is working at the highest possible pitch of pressue, manufacturers are far behindhand in the matter of delivery, and complaints are numerous on this score from the distributors. Makers of fancy tweeds are the best supplied with orders, as these fabrics are still very popular, and urgent repeats for summer delivery are still coming forward. Serges, vicunas, and plain goods generally are in better request, and in spite of the recent heavy output there is a strong run on costume cloths. Prices are hardening, but this, contrary to the usual experiences, is not restricting trade. Shippers report continued activity with all the leading Continental and transatlantic outlets, and inquiries are also numerous. Wholesale clothiers are very busy, and the Whitsuntide trade is coming up fully to expectations, especially as far as the North of England markets are concerned.

AUSTRALASIAN WOOL EXPORTS.

There is not very much change in the position of wool shipments from Australian and New Zealand ports at May 31, as compared with that on April 30. The increase in the exports for the 11 months, as against those for the corresponding period in the previous season being now 135,926 bales, as compared with 124,035 bales at April 30. Present indications are that no material change will take place during the present month, the probability being that the June shipments this year will be about equal to the closing month in the previous wool season. We give the particulars of the exports for July 1 to May 31 period in the two seasons, as compiled by Dalgety and Co., Limited, as follows:—

	1909-10. Bales.	1908-9. Bales.
New South Wales	904,458	894,007
Victoria	458,179	449,202

SYDNEY WOOL RECEIPTS.

Wool has been arriving in fair quantities during the week by rail and boat, and shows a considerable increase, for the time of the year by rail, and a moderate increase by boat. Autumn shearing in the north-west has helped supplies of late by rail, and, although the Brisbane market is increasing in importance, fair quantities are coming down from Queensland for realisation in the Sydney market. The quantities for the week and season to date compared to last year are as follows:—

BY RAIL.

Season.	May 28-June 3.	July 1-June 3.
1908-9	887 bales	651,612 bales
Increase	1,110 bales	60,938 bales

BY BOAT.

Season.	May 28-June 3.	July 1-June 3.
1908-9	898 bales	160,553 bales
Inc.	329 bales	Dec. 30,321 bales

BRADFORD TOPS FIRM.

Our cable message of yesterday's date stated that the Bradford market was firm, and that quotations for all descriptions were unchanged. On the corresponding date last year the market was cabled as without change, the market being firm and all qualities quoted at the prices established four weeks previously being maintained, namely, /28, /27, and /26, for sixty-fours, super sixties, and common sixties respectively; and /15 and /13 for forty-sixes and forties respectively. Prices for the past three months compare as follows:—

June 3	29½	28½	27½	17½	15
May 7	29½	28½	27½	17½	15
April 15	29	28	27	17½	14½
April 8	28½	27½	26½	17½	15
March 25	28½	27½	26½	17½	15

June 4	28	27	26	15	13

April 10	27	26	25	14	12½
March 6	24½	23½	22½	13½	12

Messrs. Wenz and Co., writing Rheims, April 15, in reference to tops, said that the volume of business during the previous fortnight had been fairly satisfactory, although the demand was rather less keen than before. Merinos maintained their favour, and prices were firmly held, with a slight advance for fine qualities. Quotations for crossbreds have hardly eased off, offerings being distinctly less important than in previous years. Their five chief conditioning houses registered in March 6,347,000 kilos of tops, as against 8,131,000 in March, 1909. The total for the first three months 1910 (18,091,000) showed a decrease of 2,509,000k, as compared with the same period 1909 (20,600,000). In noils the tendency was somewhat better for good sorts, and prices were firm. The combing mills continued sufficiently occupied.

WOOL SHIPMENTS.

Only one vessel has cleared the Sydney Customs since last week's review with wool for over-ocean ports, and that was the Vine Branch, on May 28, for London. The total quantity shipped during May was 22,502 bales, and the transhipments totalled 2752 bales. During the past 11 months of the current statistical wool year 859,365 bales have been shipped from Sydney, and 13,861 bales from Newcastle. The transhipments for the same period totalled 31,255 bales. Compared to last season, the exports are as follows:—

	Bales.
Vine Branch, May 28, for London	2,213
Total from Sydney and Newcastle from July 1, 1909, to date	873,226
Corresponding period last season	849,973
Increase	23,253
Transhipments for current season to date	31,255
Corresponding period last season	44,268

MACHINERY FOR THE FARM.

A CANADIAN EXAMPLE.

In view of the increasing demands of labour, the uncertainty of the seasons, and the irregularity of wheat quotations in Mark-lane, the profit to be derived from the cultivation of any given area is always a problem the solution of which must be deferred until the grain is sold and the buyer's cheque pocketed. The most obvious, and, indeed, the only, method available for assuring the best results is that of adopting the best methods of cultivation, and, subject to this condition, endeavouring to lessen the cost of production. So far as can be judged, no saving need be expected in the item of wages, the general tendency being indeed in the direction of an increase in the cost of agricultural labour, and all that can be done is to minimise the volume of manual labour required by an increased employment of labour-saving machinery. One of the heavy items in the farmer's annual outlay is found in the cost of ploughing, and here there would seem to be room for economy. In this connection a valuable example has been set by the farmers of North-western Canada, who for a long time past have adopted steam power with manifest advantage in regard to speed and economy. The use of steam, of course, involves the use of coal, which is not always readily obtainable, is usually dear, and almost invariably of poor quality. Attention is therefore now being directed to the use of petrol as a motive power, this substance, since the advent of the motor car and motor bike, being obtainable at a reasonable rate all over the civilised world. An agricultural motor now coming into much favour in Canada will, it is said, when attached to a plough, break up 15 acres a day; attached to a harvester it will cut and bind 50 acres a day. It is equally valuable for traction purposes, drawing a 10-ton load with ease at the rate of four miles an hour. In the matter of weight the motor has a great advantage, weighing but four tons against the 16 tons of a steam engine of equal power. The ultimate test of comparative efficiency is, however, referable to the question of cost, and here the motor comes unmistakably to the front. The cost in time and money of ploughing, discing, harrowing, and seeding of an acre of land by horses and by the petrol motor is as 2 to 1. The actual money cost when the petrol motor is employed is, indeed, considerably less than half the cost where horses are used. In the case of small farms the cost of the new process may perhaps be prohibitive, but in the case of big holdings, where the tillage acres are reckoned by the thousand, the adoption of the new system would seem to be indicated as a necessity in the near future for the up-to-date farmer.

THE DINGO.

Mr. James M. Grant writes:—Your interesting article on the dingo in last Saturday's "Herald" induces me to remark that the evidence advanced in favour of his Australian origin is by no means conclusive. The fact that his remains have been found beneath a volcanic deposit 60 feet deep is proof rather of his antiquity than of his indigenous origin. He was there before the eruption occurred; but who is to say whether that event was before or after the land connection of our continent with Asia was broken? How comes it that he of all our mammals is the sole exception to the marsupial order? Our fauna includes earth-dwellers and dwellers in trees, but all are marsupial. I have elsewhere advanced the theory that the absence of the dingo from Tasmania, and that of the wolf and native devil from the mainland, is readily explained by the assumption that the dingo arrived in Australia after some convulsion of nature had separated that island from our shores, whereon those animals, still numerous in their island home, suffered extinction at the hands of the newcomer. Further, your argument that his invariable or unvarying colour tends to support the indigenous theory is scarcely tenable. The dingo has been inbred for countless centuries, and my own experiments in dog-breeding have shown me that diverse elements are so readily blended that uniformity of colour and type may be established in four or five generations. Of this fact the Corriedale sheep, evolved of late in New Zealand, and among birds the Black Orpington fowl, scarcely 20 years old, are striking examples.

AUSTRALIAN FRUIT IN ENGLAND.

FEDERAL LAND TAX.

"State Rights" writes:—"I notice by your columns that in commenting on the proposed Federal land tax, Mr. Wade, the Premier of New South Wales, and Mr. Lee, the Minister for Works of the same State, do not seem to be very aggressive towards the tax. They appear to take the view that such a tax must come. They have not said anything about State rights in the matter. Surely the States must have some rights left. No doubt if the State Government does not fight the tax before the High Court some private individual or company will do so. It seems unconstitutional for the Federal Government to be able to tax the lands of the States. To my way of thinking, the only lands that the Commonwealth Government can constitutionally tax are those that have been handed over by the States to the Commonwealth. If the present Constitution permits the Commonwealth Government to impose a tax on State lands, then the sooner the State Governments are wiped out the better. No doubt if the Federal Government interferes too much with State rights a great movement will take place for the withdrawal of one or all States from the Federal union. New South Wales, at any rate, would not lose anything by withdrawing."

DAIRYING.

CASINO.—The farmers and settlers of Ettrick, which is about seven miles west of Kyogle, and about 18 miles from Casino, have decided to form a company for the erection of a butter factory. Ettrick at one time was an out-station of Kyogle. The land will grow almost any crop, and right along the main river are thriving homes.

RAYMOND TERRACE.—At the fourteenth half-yearly meeting of shareholders in the Raymond Terrace Co-operative Dairy and Produce Company there was a good attendance of shareholders, and the directors' report and balance-sheet was unanimously adopted. The amount of butter made for the half-year was 519 tons 6cwt, which realised £51,290 2s 11d, or an average price for all grades of 10.58d per lb. The proportion of second-class was 9 per cent. 2200 boxes were exported to London, and returns for portion show a net profit over Sydney rates ruling at time of shipment of £215 5s. For the half-year £328 11s 10d was writen off buildings, machinery, and launch, and £300 added to reserve account, leaving a balance to credit of profit and loss of £1232 0s 6d, from which it was decided to pay a dividend of 5 per cent., amounting to £172 15s, and a bonus of ½d per lb to supplying shareholders on butter supplied during the half-year, amounting to £850 9s 11d, and to carry the balance of £208 15s 7d forward. The business of the company has doubled in 6½ years. During a discussion on the question of cream carriage many shareholders expressed the opinion that suppliers who are not shareholders should now be asked to take up the minimum number of shares. The matter was left to the board to deal with. For five seats on the board there were 13 candidates, and four retiring directors, Messrs. A. Campbell, W. Moxey, G. Priestley, and H. G. Ralston, with Mr. J. W. Boag, were elected. The present output of butter is about 14½ tons per week.

CASINO.—The following declared pays of the various Richmond and Tweed co-operative butter factories are evidence of the wealth of this end of the State, and the progress made in dairying:—Casino Co-operative Company: 84 tons, 9½d first, and 8½d second; total pay, £6738 7s 2d. Coraki Co-operative Company: 51½ tons, 9½d first, and 8½d second; total pay, £4687. MEETINGS OF FARMERS.

FORBES.—At its last meeting the Forbes branch of the Farmers and Settlers' Association presented Mr C. J. Haselton, now manager of the Bank of New South Wales at Eugowra, and till recently an active member of the local association, with a handsome gold medal, suitably inscribed, as an appreciation of the good work he had done for that body during his residence in Forbes.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

COOMA.—The Young Pastoral and Agricultural Association has asked the Cooma association's committee for an expression of opinion as to the proposal to form a southern district's pastoral agricultural association, in consequence of the P. and A. Societies' Union having practically ceased to exist. The local committee declined to withdraw from the union, which it considered still in existence.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BOWRAVILLE.—Since the visit of Mr. P. G. Hampshire (Government dairy instructor), several parents' associations have decided to purchase Babcock testers to enable the scholars to obtain a thorough knowledge of cream testing.

MOLONG.—The rainfall during May, although allowing the farmers to get along with their ploughing and sowing operations, has proved insufficient to meet the requirements. The recent rains were followed by several severe frosts, which hardened the ground to a considerable extent. However, this district appears to be more fortunate than other western centres, as in a good many instances the early sown crops—which look remarkably strong and healthy—are well above ground. A fall of a couple of inches of rain would do an immense amount of good, especially to the young grass, of which there is a good show.

NARRABRI.—Now that the experimental farm at Moree has been wound up it is hoped here that the Government will fulfill a long-standing promise and establish one locally. The local grain is claimed to rival, if not excel, the best in the State.

WOLLONGONG.—At a meeting of the Illawarra branch of the New South Wales Fruitgrowers' Association it was stated that Mr. Jones, inspector, had done much good in the district in the way of causing trees which were useless and a breeding place for pests to be cleared off, but that one inspector was not enough for the area.

Diphtheria

CAUSES.—The general cause is bad drainage, and being highly contagious, extreme care must be exercised in isolating the patient. Milk readily carries the disease, and all milk should be scalded before use.

SYMPTOMS.—Sore throat, shooting pains in throat, headache, and fever. In bad cases white patches appear on the throat and palate. These may form a thick, white, false skin, which will cause suffocation if the throat be not opened (tracheotomy). A doctor should immediately be consulted.

TREATMENT.—Have the patient isolated in a large and well ventilated room. Remove all carpets and upholstered furniture. There must be no coming and going between the sick room and the rest of the house. The doctor's instructions should be carefully attended to.

Dr. KARL ENOCH, Chemisch, Hygienisches Institut, Hamburg, put Lifebuoy Royal Disinfectant Soap through a severe test, and proved its power to destroy disease. Solutions of 1%, 2%, and 5% of Lifebuoy Soap in water were made. These Solutions were brought to bear on a variety of clean, cultivated germs or microbes; in each case a certain exact time being allowed for the operation. Dr. Karl Enoch gives the result of his experiments as follows:—

Microbes Destroyed.	Solution used.	Time.
Typhoid	5%	2 Hours
Cholera	2%	15 Mins.
"	5%	5 "
Diphtheria	5%	2 Hours
Carbuncle	5%	4 "

Dr. Karl Enoch writes:—"From the foregoing experiments it will be seen that the Lifebuoy Royal Disinfectant Soap is a powerful disinfectant and exterminator of the various germs and microbes of disease."

The Eggs Increased

The "Australian Hen" reports in a recent issue:—

"We recently selected 20 young hens, picking them so as to get two pens of ten as near alike as possible.

"These birds were put on a ration composed of equal parts by measure of pollard, bran, and scalded lucerne chaff, on December 1st, and allowed to run on that for a month to test their equality.

"The ration was mixed with liver soup, and they had boiled liver added to the mash twice weekly. That was all the animal food they had, and it must be remembered that in the table of results no account has been taken of the meat food, as they were both impartially served during the whole of the test.

"On the 1st of January, to the ration of pen No. 1 was added scalded Sunlight Oil Cake, replacing half the bulk of bran. By a careful test we found that bran and Sunlight Oil Cake gave about the same amount of scalded food for a given sum—that is, while the Oil Cake was dearer to buy, weight for weight, it swelled to a much greater extent than bran, and a quart of scalded bran would cost as much as a quart of scalded Oil Cake, as near as it was possible to compute it. Thus, in doing away with half the bran, and keeping up the same bulk of mash with Oil Cake, the cost of feed was not increased; as a matter of fact, after the Oil Cake was added, we found that the birds did not consume quite as much food as they did before its addition. It is to be understood, therefore, that the addition of Oil Cake was not an expense, but rather inclined to be a saving, as far as cost of food is concerned.

"The trial was continued for three months, and the birds were then again put on the plain ration, without the Oil Cake.

"The results of the test, as far as the production of eggs is concerned, were as under:—

No. 1 (Oil Cake).

Dec.	Jan.	Feb.	Mar.	Apr.	Total.
235	210	157	201	117	920

No. 2 (without Oil Cake).

Dec.	Jan.	Feb.	Mar.	Apr.	Total.

"In all other respects but those mentioned, the birds were treated alike. The number of eggs laid by even the plain pen is proof that they were not neglected."

SOCIAL.

Their Excellencies the Governor-General and the Countess of Dudley, with the members of their suite, have returned to Sydney, and are again in residence at Government House. Her Excellency stood the journey from Melbourne well, but is still far from strong, and her medical advisers have ordered her complete rest from all social duties for a period of three months.

His Excellency the State Governor and Lady Chelmsford returned to Sydney early in the week after a short visit to Norfolk Island, the trip being made in H.M.S. Cambrian. Lord and Lady Chelmsford met with a most enthusiastic reception on the island, and thoroughly enjoyed their visit.

Lord Dudley's brother, the Hon. Cyril Ward, and Mrs. Ward, accompanied Lady Dudley from England, and are the guests of their Excellencies at Government House.

The marriage of Mr. Robert Arthur Lennox Farran, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. F. Farran, Woollahra, Sydney, with Lilian, second daughter of the late B. J. T. B. Warner, of Tilbuster station, Armidale, and Mrs. Warner, Wharekoa, Armidale, N.S.W., was solemnised on Wednesday evening, May 11, in Lautoka Church, Fiji. The bride wore a charming dress of white lace over white silk, her tulle veil being arranged over a wreath of orange blossoms, and her pearl pendant was the gift of the bridegroom. She was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. V. G. Wilson, and was attended by two small bridesmaids, the Misses Aileen Doyle and Tempe Farquhar, who wore white muslin frocks trimmed with Valenciennes lace, and caps of lilies of the valley, and carried small posies of flowers. The bridegroom presented them each with a pearl and turquoise brooch. Mr. L. Trevor Jones acted as best man. A reception was afterwards held by Mr. and Mrs. V. G. Wilson at their residence in Lautoka, and about 40 guests entertained at supper. The bride's going-away dress was of heliotrope Shantung silk, worn with a hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Farran subsequently left for Vitago Estate.

Madame Calve was in excellent voice at her third concert, given on Wednesday evening in the Town Hall, and, as on previous occasions, met with a most enthusiastic reception. Her dress was a glittering mass of green crystal beads, embroidered on black net, and made with long, hanging sleeves, and scarf drapery falling from the shoulders. Round her throat was a rope of pearls, and a diamond and emerald ornament was worn in her hair. Madame Calve never wears gloves, but on her fingers were a few handsome rings. The singer created some amusement, when, in response to repeated encores, she came on to the platform by the side steps, instead of, as is usual, through the centre door, beneath the organ, and Madame Calve thoroughly enjoyed the surprise she had given to the audience. The fourth concert of the season will take place this evening.

Miss Ethel Stephens was in London when the last mail left, after touring the Continent and visiting the principal art centres. Miss Stephens joined the Lyceum Club upon her arrival in London, being proposed by Lady Northcote, and seconded by Miss Baxter.

On Friday next a ball is to be held at St. George's Hall, Newtown, in aid of funds for the Marrickville Cottage Hospital. Mr. Samuel Cook is a vice-president of the hospital, and Lieutenant-Colonel Longfield is hon treasurer, and Mrs. Trindall the hon. secretary. The ball promises to be most successful, and the committee have restricted the sale of tickets to 300 to avoid the overcrowding of the hall.

On Thursday evening, May 26, in the Masonic Hall, North Sydney, a farewell was given to Mrs. C. H. Hodges by the members of the North Sydney branch of the District Nursing Association and some of her personal friends. Lady Poore (patroness of the branch), in an appropriate speech, spoke of the great interest Mrs. Hodges had always taken in all charitable movements in the district, more especially in connection with the District Nursing Association, of which branch she had been president for some years. Lady Poore, after expressing the great regret felt by all at Mrs. Hodges departure from North Sydney, on behalf of her friends presented her with a purse of sovereigns, also an illuminated booklet, inscribed with the autographs of her friends. Mrs. Hodges returned thanks, and said she greatly regretted having to leave North Sydney and severing her connection with the District Nursing Association. She regretted the absence, through recent bereavement, of the newly-elected president, Mrs. James Wilshire. Mr. Hodges, in moving a vote of thanks to Lady Poore for presiding, also thanked all present for their kindness in entertaining Mrs. Hodges and himself. During the evening Mrs Alice Braund sang two songs and Miss Dora Hill gave two pianoforte solos. Miss Elsie Dumolo recited "The Grey Dress," and Mr. Frank Miller ('cello solos) and Mr. Donald Smith also contributed to the programme.

The annual carnival dance given by the members of the band of the Third Australian Light Horse was held in the Oddfellows' Hall, Goulburn, on Thursday evening, May 26, and was most successful. The dance was chiefly for juveniles, of whom there were a large number present. The evening opened with a march by the children, supervised by Captain Wedd. In the decorations flags and greenery were prominent, lance heads and pennons giving a military touch. The supper tables were tastefully decorated by the Misses Chisholm, jonquils, maidenhair fern, and autumn leaves being used. Music was supplied by the band. The masters of ceremony were Major M'Master, Captains Wedd and Fitzgerald, and Lieutenants Twynam, Martin, and Hunt. There were four fancy sets, including the Australian Light Horse Band, French peasants, a national set, and one of gipsies. Prizes for the best fancy dress were won by Miss Rita James and Master Ronald Bates.

The Marrickville Bowling and Recreation Club held their second annual ball in St George's Hall, Newtown, on Friday, May 27th. The arrangements were most successfully carried out by a ladies' committee, including wives of members, amongst whom were Mrs. J. B. Trivett, president; Mrs. R. W. W. M'Coy, hon. treasurer; Mrs. J. H. Cutler and Mrs. J. J. Dunlop, hon. secretaries: Mrs. D. Hardy, Mrs. G. H. Wedlock, Mrs. G. M'Lean, Mrs. J. Kelaher, Mrs. C. J. Meldrum, Mrs. S. W. Bradshaw, Mrs. J. Macintosh, and Miss Yates. There were about 220 visitors present. The president of the club, Mr. J. B. Trivett, was unavoidably absent, being detained in Melbourne.

The Paddington Town Hall was the scene of a large gathering on Tuesday evening, when the jubilee ball to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the municipality took place, and was attended by about 400 visitors. The hall was gaily decorated for the occasion, and the ball proved a great success. Mrs. Meacle (Mayoress of Paddington) was president of the ball committee, Mrs. Pointing vice-president, Mrs. F. K. Rutherford and Mrs. H. Zions the hon. treasurers, and Mrs. J. M'Namee and Mrs. F. A. Healey the hon. secretaries. The committee also included Mrs. Delrose, Mrs. Patemore, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. J. B. The Mayor and Mayoress of Paddington (Alderman and Mrs. Meacle) were also present, the latter being presented with a bouquet of pink roses by Mrs. Zions on behalf of the committee.

The Montefiore Home ball will take place on Wednesday evening, June 8, at the Sydney Town Hall, and a special feature of the evening will be the gallery attractions, which are kindly being arranged by Mr. Sidney T. Price. The programme will begin early, and will consist of vocal and instrumental items, and humorous sketches. At the Mosman Town Hall on Monday a successful ball was held in aid of the Sydney Day Nursery by the Mosman Nursery Circle. The hall was decorated with flags, and the supper-room with red and white flowers and greenery. The ladies personally undertook the catering, for the excellence of which they are to be highly commended. All arrangements were carried out in a most efficient manner, and spoke highly for the care and trouble that the circle, and especially the hon. secretary (Miss Gladys Burcher), took to ensure the success of the dance. Those who interested themselves in this object were the Misses Barling (2), Moore, Irene Toose, G. Walsh, Hirst, Clarke, Hopkins (2), Jeane Buchanan (hon. treasurer), and Gladys Burcher (hon. secretary). Mr. Reuss presented the tickets for the occasion.

A pleasant gathering was held on Tuesday, May 31, at the Children's Day Nursery, The Creche, Bengal House, Ross-street, Darlington, the occasion being a presentation and send-off to Matron Ryrie, who is leaving Sydney for Perth, W.A., to join the nursing staff of the City Council of Perth. Mr. C. Mason occupied the chair. Mr. R. D. Meagher, M.L.A., presented the matron, on behalf of the citizens of the district, with a handsome travelling case, and in the course of his speech spoke most eulogistically of the sterling qualities of Miss Ryrie. Mr. J. Wilkinson responded on behalf of Miss Ryrie. Mrs. T. Doyle, Miss E. Wilton, and Mr. S. Wilton were the organisers of the presentation. On Monday, May 30, Mr. Buchnan presented the matron with an ivory manicure set and handsome peggy bag on behalf of the mothers of the children.

The annual Polo Club ball, which was held in the Bombala School of Arts, was very largely attended, there being visitors from Cooma, Bega, Dalgety, Delegate, Craigie, and Berridale. On Saturday, at Goulburn, Mr. and Mrs. William Sands, two colonists of very long standing, celebrated their golden wedding, and the gathering of sons and daughters, with their wives, husbands, and children, numbered about 30. Mr. Sands came from Cowbridge, Glamorganshire, South Wales, in 1853, and went to Goulburn in the same year, where he has been in business ever since, and is now probably the oldest stock and property salesman in the State. He was married to Marcella Lynch Anderson, seventh daughter of the late Mr. James Anderson, then solicitor of the Justice Department, at St. Paul's, Redfern, Sydney, on May 28, 1860.

Celebrations of diamond weddings are far from frequent, and that of Mr. and Mrs. James Hawksford on May 31 therefore attracted much interest amongst their friends. Mr. James Hawksford was married to Miss Frances Nest Wellings at St. Paul's Chapel, Birmingham (England), on May 31, 1850, 60 years ago. Both, as Mr. Hawksford explained, were "Brummagem" people, and had settled in New South Wales, where their family of two sons and six daughters and their descendants now lived. Mr. Hawksford will be 81 years of age in January next, and his wife 81 next September. Both were able to remain to the close of the festivities given in their honour, and both retain pleasant memories of their lives in this country. Mr. and Mrs. Hawksford's six daughters all married and only one, Mrs. Pugh, is a widow. The other daughters and sons-in-law include Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lovely, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Evans, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Dayto, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Brien, all of whom are well-known in Sydney commercial and business circles. One son, Mr. Frank J. Hawksford, is married, and has five children; the other son, George, is unmarried. The family therefore includes one daughter-in-law, nine grandsons, 12 granddaughters, three granddaugters-in-law, and one great-granddaughter. All the members of the family were present, with about 60 old friends. The gathering was held at Baumann's, where ample preparations for the wedding supper, dance, and musical items were made by a family executive. Mr. Charles Lovely presided, and Alderman A. A. C. Cocks proposed the health of Mr. and Mrs. Hawksford, which Mr. Hawksford, senior, appropriately acknowledged.

A marriage was solemnised in St. Peter's Church, Surry Hills, on April 23, when Miss Nora Glynn, youngest daughter of the late Mr. Michael and Mrs. Glynn, of Dowling-street, Moore Park, was married to Mr. Leslie St. Vincent Clifford, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Clifford, of Chelsea-street, Redfern, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Father Collender. The bride wore ivory white silk trimmed with lace, also a coronet of orange blossoms and a veil, the gift of her god-mother. Her shower bouquet and diamond ring and gold bangle were the gifts of the bridegroom. Her bridesmaids were Miss Rose Glynn (sister) and Miss Grace Normoyle, of Young (cousin of the bride). The train-bearer was Kathleen Phillips (cousin of the bride). Mr. J. Glynn was best man, the groomsman being Mr. J. Clifford. After the ceremony a reception was held at Redfern Town Hall. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride, the Rev. P. de Laure Musgrove being the celebrant. Miss Garlick was beautifully dressed in white silk, made in Empire fashion, trimmed with guipure and silver passementerie, and a wreath and veil, and carried a bouquet of white flowers. Miss Pearl Garlick was bridesmaid. Mr. O. Lyndon was best man. The wedding breakfast was arranged on the spacious verandah. Mr. and Mrs. Goslett left in the evening on their journey to Melbourne, where their future home will be.

On April 27 at St. Paul's Church of England, Adelong, a marriage was solemnised between Harold William, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Cabban, of Mosman, Sydney, and Annie, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Purcell, Wondalga Station, Adelong. The Rev. H. E. Lewis officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore ivory-white paillette silk, braided and finished with pearl trimmings, also an embroidered family veil and a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and asparagus fern, and wore a gold bracelet, the gifts of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were the Misses Neilie and Cecilia Purcell (sisters of the bride). Miss Mona Purchase and Miss Lynda Hillas were the bridesmaids, and were dressed in white muslin trimmed with guipure and Valenciennes lace. Mr. Duncan S. Middleton, brother of the bride, acted as best man. The service was choral. The children of the parish formed a guard of honour, through which the bridal couple passed between the church and the rectory. The reception and breakfast were held at the rectory, and subsequently the happy couple left for Thirroul, on the South Coast, for their honeymoon trip. The presents were numerous and costly, and included presentations from three divisions of the parish in which the bride had been deaconess prior to her marriage.

The bride wore a travelling dress of pale grey satin charmeuse, with a large black hat, her gold chain and pendant, and a white kid prayer-book, being gifts from the bridegroom. Miss C. Gorrell, niece of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. S. Griffiths was best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at Canterbury, the residence of the bride's mother, where Mr. and Mrs. Robson received the congratulations of their friends. The marriage of Mr Reginald Riemerschneider to Miss Edith Hunt took place at Holy Trinity Church, Dulwich Hill, on April 16. As both bride and bridegroom have been prominently before city and suburban audiences as singers, quite a large number of well-wishers attended the wedding ceremony. Rev. F. G. Evans conducted the marriage service, and subsequently the wedding party assembled at Dulwich Hill, where the wedding breakfast was served. Mr. R. L. She carried a shower bouquet, and wore a gold bracelet, gifts of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Prendergast (sister of the bridegroom) and Miss Minnie M'Cormack. Mr. J. T. Prendergast was best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at Fernville, Underwood-street, Paddington, where about 60 guests were entertained at the wedding breakfast. MANLY COURTHOUSE.

THE FORMAL OPENING.

REMARKABLE FREEDOM FROM CRIME.

Manly can now boast a courthouse, the building having been formally opened yesterday morning. It is situated on the Sydney-road, just at the foot of the hill, and is built on the site of portion of the famous old Ivanhoe Hotel. Latterly the building had been used as a council-chamber. A representative gathering attended to witness the opening ceremony.

Alderman James Bonnor, the Mayor of Manly, presented Mr. J. R. Garland, the Solicitor-General, who, with Mr. Smithers, S.M., and Dr. Arthur, M.L.A., was on the Bench, with a key to the courthouse. The court was then declared open. Mr. Garland in replying stated that he as the representative of the Department of Justice had much pleasure in accepting the gift at their hands. It was appropriate that a key should be given to open a court of justice. They have long been desirous, he said, of having a court. This desire was a laudable one, and did not result from the number of crimes which were committed in Manly—as a matter of fact, crime was practically non-existent there. This was the more remarkable since Manly was the favourite place of resort, not only of Sydney, but he might even say of Australia. Manly had made remarkable progress during the last nine years. In that time its population had increased from 5000 to 10,000; the capital value of the rateable land within the borough had increased from £1,264,000 to £1,480,000. He congratulated the residents on the progress that they had made in the past, and hoped that it would continue. He hoped that the courthouse would be little used, for although he belonged to the legal profession he did not like to see litigation abnormally increased. He desired to bring justice to the door of everyone, and the only way to do that was not to deny it to anyone. It was only right that the residents of Manly should have a court of their own, for if they had to go to Sydney to settle their troubles they would often abandon their rights rather than go to the inconvenience and suffer the loss of time that a trip over the water would entail.

CHEMISTS' HOURS.

THE EARLY CLOSING QUESTION.

Yesterday the president and some members of the Pharmaceutical Society of N.S.W. were received by the Minister for Education (Mr. Hogue) in respect to the question of closing the chemists' shops at an earlier hour than at present. They represented to the Minister that a great amount of inconvenience, and even danger, would arise if the Government agreed to the request recently made on behalf of the chemists' assistants. It was asserted that so many prescriptions are made up between 6 and 9 p.m. that to close at 6 as asked would mean a change that would involve a serious position from a public point of view.

The Minister, in replying, said he understood that many of the proprietors would not be unwilling to close earlier than they do now; but he recognised that the interests of the public had to be considered. The rush of business being at about 8 o'clock indicated that there was a public custom that would be very difficult to get over. The doctors, he understood, were out on their rounds all day, and in the evening saw their patients and gave them prescriptions.

Mr. Hogue said he could see the difficulty. He was glad to have had the representations of both sides, which he would take into consideration and lay before his colleagues.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—On the 24th inst a deputation, introduced by Mr. Robertson, M.L.A., waited upon Mr. Hogue, Minister for Labour and Education, requesting that chemists be brought under the Early Closing Act, viz., 6 p.m. on four days, 1 o'clock noon on one day, 9 o'clock p.m. on one day, and closed all day Sundays. Messrs. Moore and Roper, employees of Pattinson and Co., represented the chemists' assistants' interest, and stated, as a strong argument in favour of the chemists being brought under the Act, that the business done after 6 p.m. was wholly made up of retailing soaps, brushes, and sundries. As a matter of fact, more prescriptions are usually dispensed during the doctors' evening consulting hours than during the whole day, particularly in the suburbs, and the hours between 6 and 9 p.m. are the busiest and most profitable. I am not disputing that Messrs. Moore and Roper's statement is incorrect regarding the businesses they are in charge of, but it is undeniably misleading when applied to "pharmacies."

The proposal to keep a qualified dispenser on duty to attend to urgent prescriptions after 6 p.m. may seem to meet the case. Can anyone define what is urgent with regard to medicines? I contend that any drug, plaster, dressing, oil, lint, wool, or material to prepare poultices, if urgently necessary, is quite as urgent as a doctor's prescription, and should be supplied without question at all times. Further, closing at 6 p.m. will inconvenience doctors, their patients, and the public generally. What friendly societies' dispensaries do cannot be made applicable to open chemists. The example of the one prescription, dispensed presumably in Townsville, between 1 o'clock and 7 p.m., is no argument in favour of early closing. In urgent cases, as is well known, members go to the nearest chemist and pay for their prescription rather than walk probably miles to the dispensary. I personally have this experience nightly, between 6 and 11 p.m. In fact, the proposal of Messrs. Roper and Moore is a move on the part of the employees to obtain short hours. Already the assistants are once more putting the screw on the employers. Evidently the recent award has not satisfied them. No doubt they made out a strong case from their particular point of view; but their point is self evident, and before anything definite is done towards closing chemists at 6 p.m. to suit employees, I would suggest that the pros and cons of the matter be thoroughly threshed out by obtaining the evidence of experienced chemists in business in the suburbs on their own account.

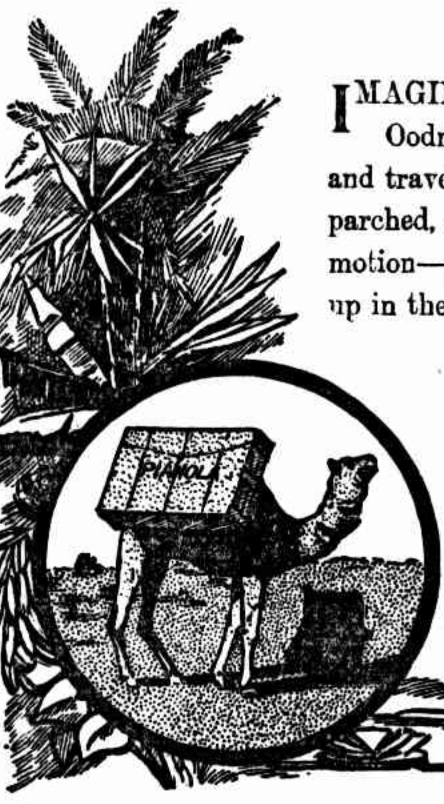

I am, etc.,

From the Tropics to the Pole.

IMAGINE that the South Australian railway has carried you to Oodnadatta—the terminus. Picture yourself setting out from there and travelling due N.E. After traversing three hundred miles of sun-parched, sandy desert—with the camel as your only means of locomotion—you'd reach the little town of Alice Springs. You'd be away up in the never-never land—right in the heart of Central Australia.

In such a place you'd certainly never expect to find the Pianola. Yet, in tropical Alice Springs there is a home made happier by the possession of one of these 'pleasure-bringing piano players. Moreover, the owner of it has at his command the full resources of the Pianola Circulating Library, and every four months 100 rolls of chosen music leave for Alice Springs.

The Pianola was on this tropical trip subjected to the test of a broiling temperature of 170 deg. That it arrived not one whit the worse for its journey speaks volumes.

Climatically, and in point of distance, there is a world of difference between Alice Springs and the North Pole. Nevertheless, at the Pole, also, the Pianola has played its cheering part. In a corner of Commander Peary's cabin stood one of these instruments, and that it helped to pleasantly while away many hours can easily be imagined. The gallant explorer himself tells how much he owed to his forethought in making a Pianola part of his equipment.

The two places mentioned may well be regarded as absolute extremes. That the Pianola has found its way to both, surely demonstrates its world-wide recognition. It stamps the Pianola as "the" piano player. That the instruments have withstood those exceptional temperatures is evidence of their ability to resist the most trying climatic conditions.

To tell you all the pleasure and enjoyment that the Pianola brings with it would exhaust many pages. A charming little Booklet, E, will give you some idea. We'll be pleased to send you it.

ARNOTT'S MILK ARROWROOT BISCUITS.

INSTRUCTIONS HOW TO GIVE THE BISCUITS.

FOR VERY YOUNG CHILDREN.—Crush the biscuits to a powder, and, if possible, put through a very fine sieve. Take a well heaped dessertspoonful of the powder, and gradually add half a cupful of boiling water, stirring at the same time. Then add half a cupful of fresh milk, and sweeten to taste. It is best to first sterilise the milk by placing a covered jug or other vessel containing the milk in a pot of water, and boil for half an hour. See that all vessels are kept scrupulously clean.

FOR OLDER CHILDREN.—Pour boiling water on the biscuits as they are, and give by spoon. A good way is to put a saucer over the cup or basin in which the biscuits are placed to soak, until they swell out, leaving the water. Later on children can have them either whole or soaked, at home or at school. They will be found a fattening, strengthening diet for young and old.

BEAUTY'S FAVOURITE.

The article which excels all others in improving the beauty of the skin is naturally and deservedly beauty's favourite. This has been the acknowledged and honoured position held by PEARS' SOAP for nearly 120 years. It won, and has maintained that position by virtue of its complete purity, and by the possession of those special emollient properties which soften, refine, and impart natural colour to the skin. No other soap possesses these qualities in such a pre-eminent degree as are not a doubtful medicine. They are not a passing novelty, not an experiment, not a mystery. They have a reputation, long since well established, as a safe, reliable medicine of incalculable value for the relief and cure of all irregularities of the bowels, stomach, liver, and kidneys. As a corrective for all errors of the stomach—imperfect assimilation and digestion—they are of very great service. They will certainly

MATCHLESS FOR THE COMPLEXION.

IMPROVE BAD DIGESTIONS.

When so much needs to be done—in the office, in the workshop, in the home—it is very discouraging to be subject to depression of spirits, and the painful sensations arising from dyspepsia. A continuous feeling of fitness is essential, nowadays, to cope with one's work. A day off can ill be spared. Necessity presses hard and constantly, and if you are well, it is above all things necessary that you should keep so. Let it be remembered, then, that Beecham's Pills not only improve bad digestions, but they as surely

PRESERVE GOOD ONES.

RECORD OF THE TEAM.

TO-DAY'S MATCH.

The Northern Union team will open its programme of matches to-day against New South Wales at the Agricultural Society's Ground.

This match will mark a new era in football. It will be the first appearance of an English professional team in Australia. The League game has made remarkable progress for the short time of its existence. It is fast, and is usually full of exciting incidents. The northern team come to Australia with a big reputation. The men chosen for to-day are all internationals, with the exception of three, and since their arrival in Sydney they have put in a lot of hard work, and may be expected to be in as good form as is possible in nine days after a long passage.

The home side is a strong one, and may be expected to give a good account of itself. The captain is Messenger, a man who is a law unto himself in football, and who almost invariably does the correct thing. Lomas will lead the visitors.

THE ENGLISHMEN.

WHO'S WHO OF THE TEAM.

Frank Young, the fullback, made a splendid reputation in the Rugby Union game before joining the professionals. He played for London Welsh, Bristol, and Cardiff before going to Leeds. Under amateur rules he secured county honours for Glamorgan, and appeared for Wales and Scotland. He played a great game for Wales against England at Wakefield season before last. He is 25 years of age, 5ft 7in, and 12st 8lb.

J. Bartholomew belongs to Huddersfield, and was the last player selected to make the trip. He plays right wing or fullback for his club, but for Saturday's match is on the left wing. He is wonderfully strong, both in defence and attack. Last season he scored five tries in five successive games. He is 22, 5ft 8½in, and 11st 7lb.

James Lomas, left centre, is the veteran of the team. He can play three-quarter, fullback, or half. Though 30 years of age, he was a full-fledged senior when only 16. He played for Cumberland at 19, and later for Lancashire. Amongst his wonderful records it may be mentioned that in 45 games for Salford he has scored every point. Against Liverpool he obtained 38 points, and against Goole, in a cup tie, 36. He is 30, 5ft 7in, and 13st 3lb.

T. or "Chic" Jenkins, who comes from Ebbw Vale, is one of the leading players in South Wales. His record for one season is 101 points, which were put up for Pontypool. He played for Monmouthshire prior to signing for Hull Northern Union Club. He played for Wales against All Blacks, Kangaroos, and England. He is 28, 5ft 8in, and 11st 6lb.

F. Farrar played for the county of Broadacres against the All Blacks and Kangaroos, and was reserve for England against New Zealand. Is fast, great swerver, and consistent scorer. For Hunslet v Leeds he scored a try after running the whole length of the ground. He is 25, 5ft 8½in, and 10st 10lb.

F. Smith (Hunslet), who has played for Yorkshire, and for England against Wales, is splendid behind the scrum or play. He will work the scrum as stand-off half-back. He is 25, 5ft 6in, and 12st 5lb.

F. Webster (Leeds) is a genuine front-rank man, who persists to the end. He has secured county honours for Yorkshire, and played for England against "Other Nationalities" in 1905-6. He has captained Leeds. He is 27 years of age, 5ft 9in, and 13st 4lb.

W. Winstanley (Leigh) is the leading forward of Leigh. He scored county honours for Lancashire, and also his International cap. He is 24 years of age, 5ft 9in, and 13st 9lb.

G. Ruddick (Broughton Rangers') first played the Association game. He has been leading forward at Broughton for many years, and the most successful scoring scrummager for five seasons. He has county honours for Lancashire, and was "capped" for Wales when the Northern Union discovered that he was a Welshman. He played in two test games against "All Blacks." He is 29 years of age, 5ft 10in, and 13st 4lb.

F. Boylen (Hull) is a forward. He assisted his county to win championship in 1905 and 1907. Played for England against France, Wales, Ireland, and Scotland, and against the Kangaroos for the Northern Union in the test games, and against Wales last season. He played for Durham against Amateur All Blacks and South Africans. He is 28 years of age, 5ft 8½in, and 13st 5lb.

W. Jukes (Hunslet) is a forward. He has played regularly for Yorkshire since 1906-7, and opposed the Kangaroos in every representative game last season. He secured International honours for England against Wales and the Kangaroos. He is 27 years of age, 5ft 8½in, and 12st 10lb.

R. Ramsdale is the tall man of the team. He plays for Wigan, and got his cap for Lancashire. He is 24, 6ft 1in, and 14st 10lb.

J. Thomas, who will take Davies' place as stand-off half, plays for Wigan. Thomas has secured county honours for Glamorgan and Lancashire, and international caps for Wales v England, Wales v All Blacks, and for the Northern Union against Kangaroos. Davies met with a slight injury to his knee while training on Thursday.

RAILWAY CHARGES.

The third meeting of the campaign in favour of reduction in railway charges, taxation of land values, and effective voting, was held in St. John's Hall, Rockdale, on Wednesday night. The Mayor presided. Mr. A. G. Huie claimed to have a practical plan for dealing with the problem. Railways and tramways, he said, increased the value of land. They did not raise wages, or enable the farmers to get higher prices for their produce. The price of land and rents went up. He pointed out that our railways had cost nearly £52,000,000. The interest should be made a charge upon land values, and that would enable the people to secure a big reduction all round in railway charges.

Mr. H. J. Fletcher said a reduction would not be much good unless the interest was put upon land values, for the price of land would go up, rents would rise, and the people would not benefit. When the Pyrmont Bridge was made free the residents of Pyrmont did not benefit, because the landlords put up the rents a shilling a week.

SUGGESTED CITY TRAMWAY.

John M. Purves writes that something should be done at once to provide residents of the eastern suburbs with faster and more commodious tram facilities. Congestion of the city-bound traffic begins at Darlinghurst, therfore at that point traffic must be diverted. A line should be provided for through traffic to (say) Market-street, and should then go on to Moore-street, Bent-street, and Circular Quay. The line should turn off down Bourke-street, along Liverpool-street, on an elevated roadway, along College-street, and by tunnel under Hyde Park the rest of the way. The underground stations should be between Elizabeth and Castlereagh streets for Market and Moore streets, and on the vacant area in front of the Metropole.

A CUSTOMS PROSECUTION.

MAKING A FALSE ENTRY AND STATEMENT.

Before Mr. C. N. Payten, S.M., yesterday, at the Water Summons Court, Customs Inspector Donohoe proceeded against Enoch Taylor and Co., of 22 York-street, boot and shoe manufacturers and importers, upon information alleging that they did make an entry which was false in certain particulars; and making an untrue statement in a declaration.

Mr. Blacket, instructed by the Commonwealth solicitor, appeared for the complainant; and Mr. Lamb, K.C., instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, for the nominal defendant, Alfred Lee.

Mr. Lamb stated that the entries in question were made by a clerk in the employ of Enoch Taylor and Co., and without the knowledge of Mr. Lee, who was managing partner in Australia of Enoch Taylor and Co. When the fact became known the duty had been underpaid on certain goods an exhaustive inquiry was made, going right back to the imposition of duties (Oct., 1901), and it was found that in all the sum of £80 was underpaid, and during that time £50,000 of duty was paid by the firm. It transpired, however, that during the period there had been an amount overpaid to the Customs on goods which were not dutiable, which amount, as was admitted by the Crown, exceeded the amount of underpaid duty. The underpayment was in respect of cartons in which boots were imported by the firm, and the overpayment was made in respect of the outside, or cases in which the boots were imported. The clerk, no doubt, was guilty of stupidity or blundering, or perhaps something worse. The question could be raised as to whether Mr. Lee was responsible for the act of his clerk, and a host of cases might be cited on both sides, but he had advised Mr. Lee that it would be better to plead guilty and not contest the point. He understood that the Crown did not press that the penalty to be imposed should be more than £40 in each case.

Mr. Blacket having intimated that such was the case, defendant in each case was fined £40.

MAORI FOOTBALLERS.

ARRIVAL IN SYDNEY.

The Maori football team arrived in the steamer Victoria yesterday, and were met by the officials of the N.S.W. Rugby Union. They appear to be a very big lot, and are the picture of health, besides being full of enthusiasm concerning the tour. The manager, Mr. T. Parata, stated that they are a tip-top team, the backs being, in his opinion, as good as anything that could be got in New Zealand. The forwards, too, are first-class, but suffered in the game they played before leaving from want of condition. They were feeling a little seedy last night, he said, as they had not yet got their land legs, but otherwise are all right. The trip across was a very rough one, but his team proved good sailors. Training will be indulged in this morning at Rushcutter Bay, under the watchful eye of W. Stead, the famous "All Black," and the public will have an opportunity of judging their form in the match versus New South Wales on Monday. The tour was organised by some prominent Maori citizens, and the profits, if any, will be devoted to charities.

WOLLONGONG SENSATION.

CHARGE AGAINST A CONSTABLE.

ABBOTT ON TRIAL.

Nicholas Percival Abbott, ex-constable of police, pleaded not guilty at the Central Criminal Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Cohen and jury, to a charge of attempting to discharge a loaded arm with intent to murder Sergeant Charles Noble, at Wollongong, on March 29. There was also a second count against Abbott of attempting to discharge a loaded arm with intent to do grievous bodily harm to Noble. To this accused, who was defended by Mr. E. R. Abigail, also pleaded not guilty.

The Crown case was that Sergeant Noble was completing his rounds on the date mentioned, and saw accused in Crown-street, Wollongong. He told Abbott that the inspector had been asking for him, and advised him to go to the police station. Abbott replied, "I'll give you station; I'll blow your ——brains out." He thereupon pulled a revolver out of his pocket, but the sergeant forestalled him, and threw him on the footpath, the revolver falling at their feet. They struggled, and accused used bad language, and threatened the sergeant's life. Abbott endeavoured to draw a second revolver, but the sergeant again prevented him. A man named Sloan came on the scene, and between them they placed the "snips" on the accused's wrists, and removed him to the police station. On the way he repeated the threats, and struggled to obtain the revolver from his hip pocket, but Sloan took it away. At the police station accused, when asked why he had two revolvers, said that he put one in his pocket especially to shoot "the dog."

William Joseph Sloan said that on March 29 accused was under the influence of liquor. Witness advised him to go home, as he might find himself in trouble, and accused put his fist in witness's face, and said, "I'll fix him." Subsequently the sergeant and the accused met, and a scuffle ensued. Witness went to the assistance of the sergeant, who had accused down, and found a weapon at the feet of the two men. The scuffle continued, and accused used bad language. Witness told the sergeant to leave the other man alone, and the sergeant replied, "What is a man to do when he has firearms?" Witness then advised accused to go to the police station, and on the way there he struggled to get free, and witness took another revolver from the pouch on accused's hip. At the lock-up accused said he wished he had shot the sergeant.

To Mr. Abigail: When witness came on the scene the sergeant had accused down, punching him in the face. Witness told the sergeant that it was cowardly, and that if he hit accused again he (witness) would hit the sergeant.

Constable Porter said that when accused was charged at the police station he replied, "It's a pity the thing never went off."

To Mr. Abigail: Accused complained that someone had "walloped" him, and that whoever it was he deserved to be shot. Accused had five young children, and had been burnt out 12 months previously.

Accused said that he had been in the force some 12 years. He had been on friendly terms with the sergeant up till the night of the trouble. He did not remember going on duty that night, but remembered having two revolvers in his possession, one of which—a private weapon—he intended to lend to someone. While walking along the footpath he received a blow from the sergeant, and was knocked down. He remembered nothing more till he found himself in the lock-up. Witness denied having said to the inspector that he told his wife he intended to shoot the sergeant.

Other witnesses called for the defence said that accused did not draw a revolver before he was struck by the sergeant.

A verdict of not guilty was returned, and accused was discharged.

They state that the correspondents did not give the additional information that Archdeacon D'Arcy-Irvine was not present on the occasion, as he had to preach at a neighbouring church, and his place was taken by a visiting clergyman. The churchwardens state that the Archdeacon habitually uses the Athanasian Creed on those Sunday mornings when it is ordered by the rubric to be sung or said.

NEWCASTLE.

NORTHERN MINERS' BOARD.

THE MINMI TROUBLE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

At the Northern Miners' Wages Board this morning Judge Scholes, referring to the dispute at Duckenfield and Back Creek collieries, asked if both sides were prepared for the matter to be brought on on Tuesday.

Mr. Watt (for the employees) said he understood the men had not worked at Minmi the last few days owing to there being no trade. The men were not refusing to work the pillars. It was merely a matter of adjustment.

Mr. Kelynack (for the employers) said that the men would not work unless they were paid what they asked. If they undertook to work the pillars at the price his clients offered there would be no difficulty.

His Honor: It appears to me that this is going to become a general claim, and that our award will be the award for the district. We will not have to refer to the matter again.

Mr. Watt said that there had been no trouble about the matter at any other colliery.

His Honor: No trouble has cropped up before, but both sides see a good deal in this, and there is a good deal in it when you come to consider that in some mines pillars represent 60 per cent. of the coal. His Honor suggested that the mine might go on working, and that where the pillars were below the minimum height there should be paid into a reserve fund the difference between the amount claimed and that offered on the minimum height scale. When the matter had been decided this money could be paid out accordingly.

Mr. Kelynack said that he would submit that proposal to the proprietors.

Mr. Watt said that the proposal would not be acceptable to the men.

His Honor further suggested that in mines where a dispute arose in connection with crushed pillars the work should be done as shift work until the question was settled.

Mr. Watt expressed his willingness to accept this proposition, but Mr. Kelynack would not entertain it.

It was arranged that the matter should come on for hearing on Tuesday, and the board adjourned till that date.

WEEK'S COAL OUTPUT.

The total quantity of coal exported from Newcastle during the week ended yesterday amounted to 106,781 tons. Of that quantity 62,311 tons were sent to foreign ports, whilst the Commonwealth and New Zealand ports took 44,470 tons.

COAL AND OTHER EXPORTS.

The following vessels were cleared at the Newcastle Customs-house yesterday:—Gunvol, bq, for Antofagasta, with 2491 tons coal; Tordenskjold, s, for San Francisco with 5126 tons coal and 702 tons bunkers; Kapunda, s, for Geraldton, via Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide, and Fremantle, with 450 tons coal, 15 tons coke, and 1100 tons bunker coal; Moorabool, s for Melbourne, with 4500 tons coal and 240 tons bunkers; Corio, s, for Adelaide, with 1580 tons coal and 300 tons bunkers; Myra Fell, s, for Port Pirie, via Sydney, with 2800 tons coal, 280 tons bunkers, 40 tons clay, and 300 sleepers.

SUFFERED SEVERELY FOR YEARS.

CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, AND RHEUMATISM.

"For a long time I have suffered with Constipation and Indigestion, and could find nothing which would do any permanent good," writes Mrs. M. Thackery, 24 Moore-street, Balmain, N.S.W. "Also, I have been troubled with Rheumatism for some years, from which I have suffered severely, and although I tried several kinds of Pills, nothing did me any permanent good until I struck Laxo-Tonic Pills. These seemed to help me from the first, and never gave me any pain, like the others, and after taking them for a week I was entirely cured of the Constipation and Indigestion, and suffered no more from the Rheumatism. Since then I have only taken an occasional Pill, and I have never had any return of my troubles. Laxo-Tonic Pills are certainly a wonderful remedy, and I am proud to testify to their many virtues."

Constipation is the cause of far more ills than many dream of. It can be effectively treated by Laxo-Tonic Pills, which have been very aptly described as a tonic medicine with a purgative or cleansing effect. They purge the system of all impurities, but at the same time provide vigour and tone. They are obtainable everywhere. Price, 10½d and 1s 6d.—Advt.

UNION OF THE CHURCHES.

METHODISTS SYMPATHETIC.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

At the evening session of the General Conference of Methodists on Thursday a spirited discussion took place on the question of the union of the Churches.

The Rev. W. H. Beale (N.S.W.) reported that the committee appointed to go into the question had been delayed through having to await an answer to questions submitted by the Lambeth conference. The committee recommended that committees be appointed by the General Conference on lines similar to those in 1907, with a view of the preparation of a more complete basis of union, and to foster generally the union spirit. The committee expressed gratification at securing such agreement on both doctrine and policy disclosed in documents previously prepared, and invited the conference to commend the movement to the sympathy of the Methodists and to record the hope that a satisfactory basis on which a union of the negotiating Churches could be effected.

This gave rise to a general debate, in which it was stated that cold water business was not wanted—only red-hot enthusiasm.

The Rev. J. P. M'Cann (Vic.) said that an Anglican bishop had recently told him that union was necessary to fight the indifference and materialism manifest throughout Australia.

The Rev. T. Adamson (Vic.) said they must work for union, as well as advocate it.

The Rev. F. Colwell (N.S.W.) said the proposal was 50 years too soon. The Methodist Church in Victoria had been running after Presbyterians for years. (Dissension, and voices: Withdraw.)

The Rev. Mr. Beale, in reply, said that no statement was wider of fact than that they were courting Presbyterians. That Church had taken the initiative. He was not thinking of union to embrace the Anglican Church. That was not worth praying for.

A voice: Don't say that.

Mr. Beale: Well, it's a dream. First let Anglicanism unite itself and become an evangelical Church. The recommendation did not commit the conference in any way. The question was a real practical one, engaging the serious attention of leading Churchmen in New South Wales and Victoria.

The motion was carried by a large majority.

The Rev. J. E. Carruthers (N.S.W.) then moved,—"That the conference expresses continued sympathy with the movement for the union of the Churches, and in adopting the report of the committee declares that in its judgment it is desirable, with a view to the better promotion of the movement, that practical steps be taken to secure unity of worship and service among members and adherents of the several negotiating Churches, and to foster co-operation in public action in matters common to all the Churches." This was carried.

The following delegates were appointed to represent the General Conference at the Ecumenical Congress to be held in Toronto early in October, 1911:—The Revs. Dr. Fitchett, W. M. Williams (Vic.), J. E. Carruthers, W. G. Taylor, the Hon. N. Robson, P. N. Slade (N.S.W.), the Rev. S. Lawry, T. Allen (N.Z.), the Rev. J. Pearce (S.A.), the Rev. J. H. Heaton (Q.).

BARRIER WATER SUPPLY.

The Public Works Committee met yesterday to give further consideration to the proposed Umberumberka water scheme for Broken Hill.

Mr. F. C. Howard (chairman of the Broken Hill South Company) strongly advocated the Umberumberka scheme.

Mr. E. A. Whitehead (the engineer of the B.H. Water Supply Company, Ltd.) stated that the reticulation system was quite sufficient for domestic purposes in Broken Hill, but if it were necessary to increase it he would favour the Yancowinna scheme on account of its cheapness.

The manager of the Broken Hill South Mine (Mr. W. E. Wainright) considered that too much importance had been given to the Yancowinna diversion scheme. No reliable data were available as to the rainfall on the catchment area. It was, however, proposed to bring the water into Stephen's Creek reservoir by a canal some 10 miles long. This canal would be subject to sand being blown and washed into it, and probably only some two-thirds of the water would reach the dam.

N.S.W. TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The tournament, which has been so much interfered with by adverse weather, will be continued to-day if possible. The courts dried well yesterday morning, but were saturated again in the afternoon. NEWCASTLE TECHNICAL COLLEGE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The annual distribution of prizes and certificates gained at the Newcastle Technical College examinations of 1909 took place at the college to-night. Alderman J. Reid (Mayor of Newcastle) presided. Mr. J. Mitchell, resident master, read his report, which showed that during the year 37 classes were in operation, and 749 scholars enrolled. Of these 553 were males and 196 females. The sum of £3000 had been spent on technical education in Newcastle over and above the fees from students. Thus each student obtained the equivalent to a free gift of £3 9s 6d.

Scholarships were awarded as follows:—H. W. Burkett and G. W. Rae (applied mechanics); Andrew Sneddon, G. Wallace, Geo. Watson, and Jas. Bell (mine surveying); James Bell (coal-mining); K. T. Pullen (mechanical drawing); H. A. Woolston, J. W. Lovell, and F. J. Wilson (wood-carving); Ambrose S. Varley (fretting and turning); R. Heads (boiler-making).

ANGLING.

Mr. W. A. Benn and Dr. Stokes have been experimenting on the northern side of Sydney Harbour with a new method of preserving fish in sea-water. Mr. Benn asked the Fisheries Board to assist the project with fish for experiment this week, and the board left the matter in the hands of the chairman (Mr. F. Farnell).

Mr. L. C. Russell Jones submitted a petition to the Fisheries' Board this week, asking for the closure of George's River to net-fishing west of the Como Bridge, on account of the diminution of the supply of sporting fish. The matter was held over for full inquiry.

No Tasmanian flounder are to be imported this year, but attention is to be specially paid to indigenous fish by the State Department of Fisheries.

The Piscatorial Council, of which Mr. A. W. Cleary is hon. secretary, has been informed that perch are protected against capture in certain streams in the Hunter River Valley and elsewhere.

The annual supply of trout ova of the rainbow species from New Zealand this year will be 100,000. These eggs will be dealt with at the Prospect hatchery, and the fry liberated in the springtime.

The Leichhardt P. and D. A.F.A. went out schnapper-ing in the Woy Woy last week-end, and caught over 500 fish, the majority small. Norah Head, wide, was the best ground. Mr. A. Lothian won the trophy, with Mr. H. Baffey runner-up. Mr. J. Maddison, jun., caught the largest fish. During the afternoon the drift was too slow.

Dr. Maitland and Mr. C. H. Gorrick were out spinning at Port Hacking last week-end from a launch. They had no luck in the port, but went outside after a shoal of salmon. The salmon would not rise to the spinners, but a few barracouta and kingfish did, and were caught.

The Bobbie Burns was out with a large party last week-end, and plenty of small fish were caught. Men were fishing with silk twists for red bream on the steamer. Leather-jackets were found in places, and all that were caught were bagged. Very few people despise leather-jacket as food now. The largest schnapper weighed about 6lb, but a fine lot of red rockcod were secured off Bird Island.

Mr. D. A. Solomon is part-donor with Dr. H. L. Maitland of the principal trophy for the Anglers' Casting Club competition.

A LEADER OF MEN.

There is one element in modern history that presents an insuperable difficulty to students, in spite of all their new facilities for research. They constantly find traces of an influence for which, though its importance is undeniable, they find it impossible to account. Gladstone, we were told, influenced everybody with whom he came in contact—except one man, Lord Acton, and he influenced Gladstone. The few memorials we have of Lord Acton bear witness to his extraordinary learning, and to his zeal for Liberalism in religion and politics. But they give no clue to the secret of his hold over his contemporaries, whether they were active and powerful statesmen, participants with him in ecclesiastical controversies, or pupils of his during his short term of office at Cambridge. During the same period there were two other men widely differing from him, and from each other in character, who held each of them a similar position. At Oxford Jowett was the adviser of a succession of young men, many of whom in their turn have held the leading positions in the Empire. No one has ever been so fully trusted as a master in the art of getting on. At Cambridge during the same period Henry Sidgwick was the counsellor and friend of a group of his contemporaries, of whom each had become conspicuous in some department of public work—in politics, in letters, or in scholarship. Sidgwick is the best type of the professor or tutor, of an English university who, by constant intercourse, impresses his character on his pupils, and whose influence continues after they have taken their place in the world. Sidgwick wrote much on his special topics, ethics, the theory of politics, and economics. But his writings contain nothing to justify the testimony of Leslie Stephen and Mr. Balfour to the benefit which his life had been to them in their work. The explanation is only to be found in the combination of qualities which are summed up in the word "personality," and which exist apart from anything said or written. Sidgwick has stated in an early letter that the main formative influence of his youth was the writings of John Stuart Mill. Mill's methods, his outlook on life, and his way of approaching the questions of his day, are apparent throughout all Sidgwick's work. But the likeness of the disciple to the master is not shown only by a comparison of what they have written. Mill for the greater part of his life held a position very similar to that held by Sidgwick in his turn at Cambridge. In a time when many grave and far-reaching questions were being agitated for the first time he was looked up to as a source of inspiration by all young men, except those directly connected with the Church, who were bent on doing disinterested work themselves. For a time his treatises were regarded at Oxford as containing the last word in philosophy, and were read no less devoutly at Cambridge. The best of the graduates at either university when they came to London went to Mill, and found him ready to put all his abilities at the service of such of them as he found to be in earnest. With the best of them the connection did not end when they had chosen their careers. With many it continued until the day of Mill's death at Avignon thirty-seven years ago. The character which inspired this feeling of reverence and affection is partially revealed to us in the "Autobiography," which has been to many of its readers a source of comfort in every time of perplexity. But that strangely fascinating book is only half-understood by those who have not read the eulogies of Mill's most famous disciple, now Lord Morley. From the "Autobiography," and from these three essays, we are able to learn what were Mill's dominant characteristics—his abiding determination to work for the present, apart from any hope of supernatural rewards, his confidence in the ultimate perfectibility of mankind, and his intellectual honesty, which forbade him, as he says, to accept half solutions of difficulties as complete, or to allow any obscure corners of a subject to remain unexplained, and which led him to address his famous rebuke to the electors of Westminster.

In the sense that these qualities were not fully disclosed in Mill's writings, or in his political career, it is true to say with a reviewer of his recently-published letters that the man was greater than his work. But unless the saying is used with this restriction it discloses a singularly inability to appreciate what Mill actually did effect; in other words, to consider his work in relation to the age in which he lived. There is no more trustworthy estimate of his relative position than that of M. Taine, an eminent and hostile critic of England and everything English, who had written the only summary of his logic that satisfied him. Taine has a real or imaginary dialogue with an Oxford friend of the sixties in which he asks what the English have got that is original. The answer is: "Stuart Mill; his little book on "Liberty" is as good as your Rousseau's 'Social Contract' is bad, for Mill concludes as strongly for the independence of the individual as Rousseau for the despotism of the State." That is not enough, what else? Is he an economist who goes beyond his science, and subordinates production to man, instead of subordinating man to production? Is he systematic, a speculative reformer? "No; he has far too much mind for that. He does not pose in the majesty of a restorer of science; he does not proclaim, like your German, that his book is going to open a new era for the human race. He walks step by step a little slowly, and often close to the ground, across a host of instance and example. He excels in giving precision to an idea, in disentangling a principle, in recovering it from under a crowd of different cases, in refuting, in distinguishing, in arguing." In face of such reasoned praise it is futile to censure Mill as a philosopher whose work has been superseded by the generation next succeeding his own. No one knew better and no one regretted less than Mill that the work of a philosopher must always be taken up and transfigured in the work of others. The best he can do is to remove obstacles, and make possible the work of those who come after him. This is what Mill did in politics, in logic, and in social reform. In our day there are few to contest the doctrines of his tract on the subjection of women. But we can get some idea of the opposition he had to face by studying the position held by women not more than ten or fifteen years ago on the Continent. It was to Mill more than to any other agency that Englishwomen owe their priority in emancipation. It was to Mill, too, we owe the fact that the name of philosophy is no longer a synonym for dismal and visionary speculation. It can be said of him as truly as of Wordsworth, that he always wrote with his eye on the object. His conclusions in metaphysics can no longer be defended, but it is his method which distinguishes the practical English school, which deprives of its truth the old jest that Oxford is the place where bad philosophers go when they die. So it was in politics. Mill worked always with a practical aim. His treatise on Liberty said the word which was needed in his time, and which inspired the minds of the middle of the last century, though it says little to us who have our own difficulties before us. Mill's practical sense drove him into politics, where he was not a success. His upbringing had disqualified him for the House of Commons, where Disraeli called him a finishing governess. The event has proved that wherever they met they differed, Mill was right, and Disraeli was wrong. But the fact remains that Mill was one of those politicians whose best work is done outside Parliament. His ambition was to set democracy on guard against itself. Nothing could be more needed in his day or in ours, but it is a task which can be accomplished more successfully by indirect means than by appealing to the electors for votes.

HOSPITAL OR HOME.

The extension to Australia of the scheme for the skilled nursing of the sick poor in their own homes is a matter concerning which there can be only one opinion. The inauguration of this particular system of dealing with the needs of suffering humanity is largely to be credited to her Excellency the Countess of Dudley, who is thus following in the footsteps of the late Queen Victoria and of the Queen Mother Alexandra in their efforts to promote the welfare of the poor. The Jubilee Institute for Nurses has already accomplished a great and beneficent work in the homeland, and the Queen's nurses, as they are called, are familiar and welcome figures in all parts of Great Britain and Ireland. The tabulated statistics of the actual work done by the nearly five hundred branches of the institute would be impressive reading. But behind the figures lie certain facts bearing upon the life of the people that would on consideration be powerfully illustrative of the immense amount of moral and physical good accomplished. In this country of magnificent distances, notwithstanding, or even by reason of, a small and scattered population, there is an undoubted call for the exercise of this branch of philanthropy. In the older parts of the world congested populations make for crowded hospitals, and the demand for accommodation is perpetually on the increase. The same condition of things obtains in this more thinly-peopled continent, but it is fairly certain that our public hospitals are used by those whose means could well compass the expenses of private treatment. The object, however, of the bush-nursing scheme promoted by Lady Dudley is expressed in its title, and aims not to much at the relieving of the pressure upon the wards of the hospitals as the carrying of hospital experience and efficiency to the bedside of the patient for whom there is but little chance of hospital treatment. There is infinite pathos in the hitherto unanswered call from the lonely solitudes of the interior, and Australians may well be thankful for the inauguration of a scheme that promises to do for our bush dwellers what it has done for the people in the villages and hamlets of the old land. To associate such with the memory of the late King would indeed be timely and appropriate, and it will hardly need much advocacy to prompt Australians to take the necessary action.

The visiting nurse is regarded as the substitute for the unattainable advantages of the modern hospital; but there is another aspect of the question which comes into view directly we put into opposition the home and the hospital as the sphere of the necessary and humanitarian work of the nurse. If the nurse is the substitute for the hospital in the case of those who for one reason or another cannot be treated in these institutions, the hospital is morally and historically considered the substitute for the home. With the development of medical and surgical science there has arisen the necessity, forced upon the world by more accurate knowledge of disease, for a specialisation in treatment which is only in the rarest cases possible in private houses. The hospital is therefore a great deal more than a provision for the treatment of the poor. The growth of private hospitals, with specially-designed buildings and modern scientific equipment, is proof enough of the inadequacy and inefficiency of the best of home treatment in certain classes of disease. At the same time the hospital as such is the creation of a moral necessity to provide for the thousands who by reason of poverty are utterly unable to help themselves. There is, however, some reason for fear that the wave of collectivism that seems to be sweeping the world is carrying people into regions where great moral issues become obscured, and where natural duties and obligations are in danger of being misunderstood, if not actually repudiated. There is some indication of this in the matter of the treatment of the sick and suffering. George Peabody, in writing upon social questions, reminds us that "impersonal and deputed care, even if well designed, is but an artificial makeshift for personal and continuous service." Admirable and desirable as institutional charity is, it cannot and ought not to be accepted as a substitute for the good offices we have a right to expect from those who are intimately associated with us by the ties of nature. The personal element is quite as important a factor in the treatment of the sick as that of mechanical efficiency. Those most competent to judge have always recognised that in respect of a nurse's qualifications, the questions of temperament, manner, power, sympathy, and tenderness are at least as important as those of technical skill. The reason is not far to seek, for human nature possesses more than bones and sinews, flesh and blood, and the successful nurse must call to her aid those other qualities that appeal to the sense of gratitude in her patient, thankful for that subtle something that smoothes the pillow of the sick. The difference between home and hospital nursing lies perhaps in the greater opportunity the former affords for the play of character and the influence of personality. It is indeed a matter for thankfulness that so many women rise superior to the deadly tendency to mere mechanical performance of duty in hospital wards, and win the fervent gratitude of their patients, but it is not in human nature to be unaffected by stereotyped routine. To remain human, and at the same time official, is not given to everyone, even in a hospital. The inference from all this is obviously the encouragement that should be given to home nursing as being in a vast number of cases the proper, as well as natural, order of things. If individual and domestic responsibility be duly recognised, then the professional nurse who visits the homes of the poor for special service becomes to right-minded inmates of such homes an instructress in the divine art of which she is an expert exponent, and her teaching will tend to a general uplift in the moral and physical life of the people. The home-nursing scheme will thus encompass a wider range of usefulness to the community than even the primary business of the relief of suffering. The inculcation of the principles of hygiene—the lessons in order, method, and cleanliness, as conditions of life in health as well as in sickness—will have an elevating effect on the lives of the poor, and react favourably upon society at large.

One other aspect of the case for nursing at home must not be overlooked. However grateful we may be for the relief of human suffering, we dare not forget that some of the finest traits in human character are fostered by a right acceptance and understanding of the discipline of pain. The patient waiting upon and ministering to the sufferer in the sickroom is a part of our moral education only to be foregone at the command of necessity. The individual who has no experience of sickness, whilst to be envied from some standpoints, has lost something that makes for strong, moral fibre, and is the poorer in some of those qualities that give sublimity to human life. There is some danger in a community whose tendency is towards increased easiness of living, lest the attractions of material enjoyment and the desire to avoid the unpleasant things of life should dull the moral sense to the finer elements in human character, those elements that are often nurtured and perfected by the discipline of pain.

AN EMINENT CITIZEN.

The death of the Honourable William Gregory Walker has deprived the State of one of its most eminent citizens, and has inflicted an irreparable loss on a wide circle of friends. We reprint elsewhere the tributes of the members of the Bench, some of whom had been his colleagues, and of the leaders of the Bar. On the Bench the late Judge more than fulfilled the expectations which had been formed of him before his appointment. His knowledge of law was profound, and he was gifted with that rare quality, the judicial temperament, in a remarkable degree. Suitors and advocates who appeared before him were all treated with the same impartiality, and with an attention and courtesy which never varied, even when the Judge was obviously suffering from a distressing illness. His judgments were marked by a literary finish, which was the result of a trained and fastidious taste, and of a singularly ripe scholarship. The late Judge had a distinguished career at Oxford, and was clearly destined to success at the English Bar. His decision to come to Australia was a fortunate one for this State. Few men have furnished such an example of ability to combine the best elements of the conservative English temperament with a sympathetic appreciation of the movements and conditions of a new community. He was followed into his retirement by the deep regret of his fellow-citizens, and the hope of better things which we now know cannot be fulfilled. His family may rest assured of a sympathy which is genuine and widespread. The State is the better for a legacy of work faithfully done, and the members of his profession for a renewed sense of the honour and dignity of their calling.

To-day's Herald.—Sir Henry Lucy this week in "Life in London" (page 7) discusses the Budget, and then moves on to the Royal Academy, finishing with the recently discovered letter written by Lord Byron on a political situation parallel to the present one. Mr. Roosevelt's speech on Citizenship is given in this issue (page 7), and it will be read with as much interest as was given to it on delivery at the Sorbonne, in Paris, at the end of April. "See Naples and Die" is the note of an article on Naples (page 7), which is written with a critical appreciation of that far-famed Italian city. Those who have seen it, as well as those who may hope to visit it, will follow the judgment herein given with attention; while all who can never expect to get so far will travel in imagination. "In Governor Bourke's Time" (page 5), the local colour is well brought out. It is the colour of 70 years ago, when "Annandale" was in the country, and wild bush was predominant everywhere. An old "Gazette" has been used to revive the old days, and it has been well handled. Our London correspondent gives a graphic account of a great football match under the heading, "Final Cup Tie" (page 5). It was a case of the provinces going to London to encourage their teams. "In the Garden" (page 5) is, as usual, full of seasonable hints. "Science Notes" (page 4) is devoted this week to a review of a work on geology, with the text, "A World Born Cold." The other features of Saturday's paper are well maintained.

German Influx into Queensland.—By the German mail steamer Seydlitz, which arrived in Sydney yesterday, 250 immigrants, including 120 children, came direct from Bremen, en route to Queensland. They will be transferred to the Gabo, which leaves to-day for Brisbane. The immigrants, with the exception of three Dutch families, are all Germans, of a fine, strong, healthy type. Mr. A. Meston, Director of the Queensland Government Intelligence and Tourist Bureau in Sydney, who accompanied them from Melbourne, explained to a "Herald" reporter that there are in different parts of Queensland thousands of Germans who are settled on the land, and who are among the most contented and progressive of the agricultural population. Certain areas are occupied almost exclusively by Germans. Mr. Meston explained that his Government only looked to the Continent of Europe for white people when it found it could not gain sufficient population by drawing from English countries. By reason of its liberal land policy Queensland last year gained 12,000 people (irrespective of 10,000 additional by birth). The new population was drawn from Canada, New Zealand, Victoria, and New South Wales. Applicants to the bureau in Sydney have, according to Mr. Meston, always complained that they could not get land in New South Wales. Queensland was getting the benefit of the land policies of Victoria and New South Wales, which did not allow of areas being made available on easy conditions. Forty-eight new settlers went through the Sydney bureau in April with an aggregate capital of £40,000. This settlement was from abroad, but lost mainly to New South Wales and Victoria.

Pure Food Conference.—The delegates representing New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, and Tasmania, who have been meeting in conference daily during the last fortnight, are on the eve of the completion of their work in bringing into line the pure food regulations in the four States. Yesterday the conference reviewed the work done, and gave consideration to further regulations for the protection of food from contamination, permitted colouring matters, additions to the infants' food regulations, regulations prescribing the construction of tins containing soft foods, regulations on the preparation of rice for sale, eucalyptus oil, invalid foods, and the use of the words "pure" and "genuine" on labels. The conference will give the finishing touches to its work on Wednesday.

Darling Harbour Split.—What is known as the disbanded Darling Harbour Political Labour League met last night to protest against the action of the P.L.L. executive in refusing to recognise it. The chairman (Mr. Price) explained that a letter had been written by the league to Mr. Grant, secretary of the P.L.L., enclosing the nomination of Mr. Thomson as a candidate for the Darling Harbour seat, and asking the executive to endorse the nomination. The letter was registered, so there was no doubt about its reception. Mr. Grant, it was stated, had not acknowledged the letter, or done anything to recognise the league in any way. At last night's meeting a resolution of protest was carried. Bitter speeches were delivered, denouncing the executive and threatening to run Mr. Thomson as a rival candidate at the next election to any other Labour nominee put forward.

Bennelong Point Wharfage Scheme.—The proposed Bennelong Point wharfage extension scheme is meeting with opposition from those who would prefer to see this portion of the harbour improved and made a picturesque spot. Alderman Barlow writes urging a strong public protest against Bennelong and Dawes Points being used for wharfage purposes. He says: "Dawes Point has been a neglected site, but as it serves as a 'lung' for the thickly-populated Rocks area and forms a beautiful approach to the Cove, surely we can afford to preserve it as a park. With a small expenditure it could be made one of the picturesque spots of our harbour. Bennelong Point should also be preserved; and if these places were handed to civic control a transformation would be soon effected. The City Council has given ample evidence of its ability to beautify its parks."

Lost Time.—"Did the engineer get a holiday whilst the boat was laid up?" asked Mr. Russell of a witness at the Tugboat Employees' Board last night. Mr. Allan, the union representative, objected. He said Mr. Russell was trying to elicit evidence from the witness that he had no right to. There was a proper way of getting it out. Mr. Russell, however, complained that Mr. Allan was interrupting him, and he went on to show that the question should be admitted. Then the chairman had something to say on the matter, and the admissibility of the question was discussed at length from every possible point of view. At last the chairman decided in Mr. Russell's favour, and the witness was again asked about the engineer's holidays. His reply was short. "I don't know," he said, and the board returned hurriedly to its work in a strenuous endeavour to make up the lost time.

The Producer and the Railways.—The consignor of perishable produce appears to suffer severely by irregularity in the carriage of his produce on the railways. One correspondent ("Struggle") says: "I have been struggling here in Bathurst for years now. So far as the land is concerned it is all right, I can make it grow. The last few years I have gone in for cabbages and cauliflowers, but the great trouble is not to find a market for them, but to get them to market. Invariably my experience is: I put them on rail, consigned on an urgent ticket. I go to the trouble of coming to Sydney to handle my own stuff in the market, and invariably of late my experience is, my produce is never here, and when it does arrive it is in a half rotten condition. Cabbages and cauliflowers just fresh from the field under tarpaulins for days and days would be in an unmarketable condition when they reach here. Our railway conditions are simply scandalous. It strikes me it's a good thing for the highly-paid, gold-braided servants, but for the poor man depending on getting his stuff to market in proper time it means continual loss and practical starvation. I'm only a small man, and a truck or two is everything to me. If you complain at the railway headquarters you're bluffed out of sight."

Association versus Union.—Mr. J. H. Catts, M.P., secretary for the Amalgamated Railway and Tramway Association, resents the charges made at the Sydney Labour Council by Mr. Lawton and Mr. Harding, that his association is trying to crush out the Tramway Union. He made a statement yesterday emphatically contradicting the allegation that he had at any time asked a member of the sectional Tramway Union to leave that body and join the association. He welcomed the decision of the Labour Council to hold an inquiry. When he visited Rozelle Depot last week he did so at the request of an influential deputation of drivers and conductors, but all he did was to answer inquiries as to the amalgamated scheme of organisation. "Tramway union officers omit to state," said Mr. Catts, "that they themselves have been following a strenuous campaign amongst permanent way men, knowing full well that the bulk of these men are association members, but we have not squealed, knowing full well that the bulk of these men are too well served to fear the competition of another body." As far as the statement that the association was merely a sectional organisation was concerned, he (Mr. Catts) had only to mention that it contained four times the membership of the union. It had covered over 8000 service employees with wages awards, increasing their remuneration by £33,000 per annum, and at present had a board sitting covering over 5000 employees. Union officers had persistently attacked him politically for his connection with the association, but the latter supported Labour in politics, and, moreover, he had been associated with it before he entered Parliamentary life. He would be a spineless coward if he allowed the noise made by paid officers of the union, unsupported even by their own members, to alienate him from his association.

The picnic fireplace in the Domain will be open to the public on King's Birthday.

The Institute of Incorporated Accountants of N.S.W. announce elsewhere the dates of their examinations.

Wednesday next will be the last day for payment of 1910 income tax without a 10 per cent. fine.

"A Packer's Wife" is of opinion that warehousemen will get better results out of their employees who work as packers and get but 42s a week if the amount were increased by a few shillings. The expense of living nowadays, as proved by the evidence before wages boards, precludes a man keeping his wife and family respectably on such a wage.

"J. H. Beale, Manly," asks whether the Water and Sewerage Board can explain why North Manly, a thickly-populated and important suburb, with about 400 houses, is not properly sewered.

"Week-ender" considers that two ferries plying between Woy Woy and the bar should be licensed and controlled by some responsible body.

PERSONAL.

Mr. W. L. Allardyce (Governor of the Falkland Islands) is at present on a private visit to Melbourne. On Thursday he called upon the Prime Minister (Mr. Fisher) and members of the Federal Ministry. Yesterday Mr. Allardyce was somewhat indisposed, and he has gone into a private hospital, where to-day he will undergo a slight operation. He hopes to be about again in a few days.

The Postmaster-General (Mr. Josiah Thomas) left last evening for Brisbane. He returns to Sydney on Wednesday.

Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, the first qualified lady doctor, whose death at the age of 89 years was announced in our cable messages yesterday, was a sister of Miss Anna Blackwell, for very many years the Paris correspondent of the "Sydney Morning Herald." Miss Anna Blackwell, who adopted the nom de plume "Stella," was a lady of brilliant attainments, and was almost as distinguished in the world of literature as her sister was in the world of medicine. She was a contributor to the columns of the "Herald" at the time of the Franco-Prussian war, and was compelled to leave Paris during the siege. Upon the termination of hostilities, however, she returned to her duties, and continued to act as the Paris correspondent of this journal until 15 or 20 years ago, when she retired with her sister from active work. Miss Anna Blackwell took a deep interest in a wide range of subjects, and published a number of poems.

Mr. E. F. Pittman (Under-Secretary for Mines and Government Geologist), Mr. J. B. Jaquet (Chief Inspector of Mines), and Professor David arrived at Broken Hill yesterday. Mr. Pittman and Mr. Jaquet are on official business, the former in connection with the geological survey of the Barrier. Professor David is there on the invitation of his old students and the mining managers. The party will remain at Broken Hill until Wednesday.

Mr. J. H. Stockdale, lately manager of the Junction mine at Broken Hill, has been appointed manager of the Stannary Hills mine in North Queensland, and will leave Broken Hill next week.

Mr. Colin Campbell, accountant at the Mosman branch of the English and Australian Bank, was on Wednesday night, the eve of his marriage, presented with a cabinet containing table silver and cutlery, and a marble clock.

The staff of the Coastal Farmers' Co-operative Society, Ltd., assembled in the general office, and made presentations to Mr. James W. Hall on the occasion of his approaching marriage. Mr. Hall has been associated with the society since its commencement.

At Aarons's Exchange Hotel on Thursday Mr. J. J. Dowd, solicitor, who is leaving Sydney for Mudgee, was presented with a gold albert by the members of the St. Stanislaus' College Old Boys' Union.

A meeting of residents of Darlington attended at the Home of the Day Nursery Association, in Rose-street, on Thursday night, and made a presentation to the matron, Miss H. B. Ryrie, on the occasion of her departure for Western Australia to fill a hospital appointment.

Mr. Percy Whitton, who has hitherto occupied the position of chief clerk in the Audit Office, has been appointed Collector of Customs for Victoria.

The death recently occurred at the age of 76 years of Mr. William Wilson, part owner with the Messrs. M'Philliamy, of Mulgawarrina station, West Bogan, Nyngan. The pastoralist, who was a native of Crawford, in Lanarkshire, Scotland, had resided in the Nyngan district for over 50 years, during the whole of which time he was connected with station properties as manager and owner.

The death is announced of Mr. Paul Krug, senior member of Krug and Co., Reims, since 1866, at the age of 69. Mr. Krug was president of the Syndicate of Commerce of Champagne, and vice-president of the Reims Chamber of Commerce.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN MINISTRY.

EX-PREMIER'S FAREWELL.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The new Ministry was sworn in to-day.

The ex-Premier (Mr. Peake), in taking leave of the officers of his department, said that, although some speakers had expressed regret that he was retiring, he thought it would be for his own good to be out of harness for some time at any rate. He had had a fairly strenuous official life for five years, and would be quite content to be a private member, although still leader of an important party.

The retiring Commissioner of Public Works (Mr. O'Loughlin), who has been in office practically for the last 15 years, said that he was not going to whine about going out. He looked upon it as the luck of the game, and would like to see the other side get a fair show. The wheel of fortune was always turning, and his time might come again.

RESTRAINT OF RAILWAYS.

AMERICAN MANAGERS' ANSWER.

STOPPAGE OF NEW CONSTRUCTION.

LONDON, June 3.

The Washington correspondent of the "Times" telegraphs that the scope of the Government's move against 25 western lines forming the Western Traffic Association is not only against advantage rights, but against the whole system of railway committees and associations. It seems to indicate the initiation of lawsuits similar to the Northern Securities and Harriman merger cases some years ago.

The Washington correspondent of the "Morning Post" states that the railways concerned threatened that until the Courts decide the rates may be increased new construction will be suspended, thus throwing thousands of men out of employment.

The managers of the railways state that the high cost of labour and the increased price of coal and oil necessitate higher wages.

It was reported a few days ago that the United States Government had obtained an injunction restraining 25 railways of the Western Traffic Association from increasing freights, on the ground that the advance, being without competition, violates the Sherman anti-trust law.

NEWFOUNDLAND FISHERIES.

HAGUE ARBITRATION COURT.

LONDON, June 2.

The Newfoundland Fisheries Dispute will be dealt with by the Hague International Arbitration Court, which opens on Monday.

The court will be composed of Professor H. Lammasch, Austro-Hungarian member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague, as President; Dr. Drago (Argentina), Dr. Lohman (Netherlands), Judge George Gray (United States), and Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of Canada.

The dispute with which the tribunal mentioned in the cable will deal concerns the interpretation of the treaty concluded between Great Britain and the United States in 1818 regarding the Atlantic fisheries. This treaty provided that the inhabitants of the United States should have for ever, in common with the subjects of his Britannic Majesty, the liberty to take fish of every kind on that part of the southern coast of Newfoundland, which extends from Cape Ray to the Rameau Islands on the western and northern coasts of Newfoundland from Cape Ray to the Quipron Islands, and also on the coasts, bays, harbours, and creeks from Mount Joly on the southern coast of Labrador, through the Straits of Belleisle, and thence northward indefinitely along the coast, without prejudice however to any of the exclusive rights of the Hudson Bay Company. The United States fishermen were to have liberty for ever to dry and cure fish in any of the unsettled bays, harbours, and creeks of the southern part of the coast of Newfoundland, and of the coast of Labrador named; but when it was settled arrangements were to be made with the lawful possessors of the ground. The United States renounced for ever any liberty formerly enjoyed or claimed by its inhabitants to take or cure fish on or within three marine miles of any of the coasts, bays, creeks, or harbours of his Britannic Majesty's dominions in America not included in the abovementioned limits; provided that United States inhabitants should have liberty to enter such bays for the purpose of shelter, procuring wood, repairing damages, obtaining water, and for no other purposes.

It is contended by Great Britain that the exercise of the liberty to take fish referred to in the Treaty of 1818, which the inhabitants of the United States have for ever in common with the subjects of his Britannic Majesty, is subject, without the consent of the United States, to reasonable regulation by Great Britain, Canada, or Newfoundland, in the form of municipal laws, ordinances, or rules, as, for example, to regulations in respect of (1) the hours, days, and the seasons when fish may be taken in the treaty coasts; (2) the methods, means, and implements to be used in the taking of the fish, or the carrying on of fishing operations on such coasts; (3) any other matters of a similar character relating to fishing, such regulations being reasonable.

It is contended on behalf of the United States that the exercise of such liberty is not subject to limitations or restraints by the abovementioned, unless they are appropriate and necessary for the protection and preservation of the common rights in such fisheries and the exercise thereof, unless they are reasonable in themselves and fair, and not so framed as to give an advantage to local fishermen over United States fishermen, and unless their appropriateness is determined by the United States and Great Britain in common accord.

Another question submitted is "From where must be measured the 'three marine miles of any of the coasts, bays, creeks, or harbours, referred to in the Treaty of 1818?'".

CRICKET IN AUSTRALIA.

THE AFRICAN TEAM.

DR. POIDEVIN ON GUARANTEE.

LONDON, June 3.

Dr. Poidevin, in the course of a letter to the "Daily Express," reports that it is not likely that the Board of Control of cricket in Australia will give a guarantee of £5000 for a short season, as proposed by the South African cricketers, unless it is allowed to approve of the personnel of the team. If the Africans play good cricket they have nothing to fear financially.

Dr. Poidevin does not think that the hitch will affect the triangular series of test matches.

The South African Cricket Association asked for 50 per cent of the gate, and a guarantee of £5000. If the South African Association insists on the guarantee and the Board of Control does not grant it the tour will not take place, and there will be very little likelihood of the triangular scheme being carried out. The visit of the South African team is a condition precedent to the meeting of England, Australia, and South Africa in England.

MR. ROLLS' GREAT FEAT.

LONDON, June 2.

Mr. C. S. Rolls started on his monoplane from Dover at 6.30 this evening, and arrived over Calais at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Rolls rose quickly to a height of 600 feet, and his highest elevation was 1000 feet. Three torpedo boats followed him. Steering did not trouble him, but the wind deviated the short Wright biplane, which he used, to Sangatte, a mile from Calais.

The bi-plane was fitted with air bags as a safeguard against immersion.

There was immense excitement among the crowds at Dover when it was realised that Mr. Rolls was unexpectedly returning. He circled the castle and alighted within 60 yards of his shed. The only prize was an 80-guinea cup.

A PRE-ARRANGED AFFAIR.

LONDON, June 3.

Mr. J. N. Gillett, Governor of California, in the course of an interview with a representative of the "Chicago Examiner," said: "The result of the Johnson-Jeffries fight for the heavy-weight championship of the world has been pre-arranged. Johnson will win £30,000 more if he loses than if he wins, owing to the greater value of the moving pictures.

"In any case Johnson is without a chance unless he goes into the ring prepared to whip Jeffries, the referee, and the majority of the male population of California as well. The crowd will never stand the negro.

"I am not going to interfere, as the law permits boxing bouts."

The statement has caused a sensation in America.

DEATH OF HON. GREGORY WALKER.

EX-SUPREME COURT JUDGE.

Although among his relatives and intimate friends the death of the Hon. William Gregory Walker, one-time Judge in the Probate and Bankruptcy jurisdictions of the Supreme Court, was not altogether unexpected, it came as a shock to many persons. Since his return from a visit to England 12 months ago the deceased gentleman had been residing at his country residence, Highfield, Moss Vale, and during the last few weeks he was very seriously ill. As a last resort, and in the hope that he would benefit by change of air and scene, he was brought down to Sydney a few days ago, and took up his residence at Beach-road, Rushcutter Bay. The change, however, had no beneficial effect upon a frame already enfeebled by a complaint of long-standing, and Mr. Walker succumbed yesterday morning, death coming to him painlessly. His age was 62.

The deceased gentleman was born at Norfolk, England, in December, 1848, and received his preliminary education at Tunbridge School. He subsequently proceeded to Oxford University, and graduated B.A. in Hall at Exeter College. He was called to the Bar at Lincoln's Inn in June, 1873, and practised in the Chancery Division until 1883, when he came to New South Wales, and was admitted to the Bar here. In the legal profession it is a matter of common knowledge that Mr. Walker soon acquired a very large practice in Equity, as well as a high reputation, not only as a sound lawyer, but a clear-headed, accomplished advocate. In 1896 he took silk as Queen's Counsel, and it is interesting to note that Mr. Justice R. E. O'Connor, Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson, and Mr. Bruce Smith had a similar distinction conferred upon them at the same time. On August 23, 1898, he was appointed Judge in Probate and Bankruptcy in succession to Mr. Justice C. J. Manning. His health, however, became indifferent, and towards the close of his short career on the Bench it was apparent to the legal profession that he sometimes carried out his onerous duties under trying physical conditions. He was reluctantly compelled to resign at the end of December, 1906, but during his eight years' service as a member of the Judiciary his sound logical judgment enhanced the fame which he had obtained while at the Bar. He was not only cautious in his decisions, but extremely impartial, and his judicial deliverances were invariably characterised by deep research and a high degree of literary form. After leaving the Bench he visited England in search of health, and returned to Australia, as already stated, about 12 months ago.

Deceased was the author of several well-known Text books. He was the editor of an edition of our Equity Act, which is a recognised work, dealing with practice in that branch of the Supreme Court, and he was the author of a compendium of the law as to executors. He also collaborated with Mr. Elgood, an English barrister, in the production of a work as to administration actions. For a number of years he took a deep interest in ecclesiastical matters, and acted as Chancellor of the Diocese of Sydney.

He married a daughter of Mr. Thomas Whistler Smith, of Glenrock, and leaves two sons (one of whom went to the Bar) and one daughter, Mrs. Arbuthnot, who resides in England.

TRIBUTES IN THE COURTS.

Immediately upon his Honor the Chief Justice taking his seat in the Banco Court yesterday, he said: "Before we proceed with the business of the Court I desire to say that we have heard, with much sorrow, of the death of a former member of the Bench—the Hon. William Gregory Walker. His sterling genuineness of character, no less than his great learning and ability, gained for him the high respect of his colleagues, and of the community, while his dignified courtesy under all circumstances endeared him to the members of the legal profession. We sympathise with the members of his family in their loss, and trust that this tribute to a useful and honourable life may help them, at least, in realising the appreciation in which he was held."

Mr. R. J. Browning said that, as the senior member of the Bar present, he desired, on behalf of the legal profession, to respectfully echo the sentiments so well expressed by his Honor. The character of the late Mr. Justice Walker always commanded the love and admiration of all those who knew him, and he treated everybody with whom he came into contact with courtesy and consideration.

In the Divorce Court Mr. Justice Gordon briefly referred to Mr. Justice Walker's death, the news of which, he said, would be received with heartfelt sorrow and regret by the public as well as by the profession.

Mr. Justice Cohen, at the Central Criminal Court, said that the deceased gentleman's ability, learning, courtesy, and impartiality were well recognised.

In the Equity Court Mr. Justice Simpson referred to the deceased Judge as an able, painstaking, and courteous gentleman, who when practising at the Bar had always been scrupulously fair.

In the second Equity Court, Mr. Justice Street and Mr. Loxton, K.C., also paid tributes.

Mr. F. H. Salusbury, Registrar in Bankruptcy, said that in Mr. Justice Walker's death he had lost a very dear friend, who when presiding over the Bankruptcy Court had won the affection of all with whom he had come in contact.

THE EVOLUTIONIST.

MR. JOSEPH M'CABE'S VISIT.

"A FRAGMENT OF PARADISE."

ENGLISH NOT A GOOD LANGUAGE.

The Garden of Eden was in Australia. Most Australians live their lives unaware of it, quite content to believe that they are dwelling in a place unsurpassable as a land of beauty and sunshine. They will probably accept this recent theory of evolution complacently, taking the word of Mr. Joseph M'Cabe, the renowned author and translator, and one of the most prominent upholders of Haeckel and Darwin, for it with their usual laconic "That's right."

Mr. M'Cabe arrived in Sydney yesterday by the express from Victoria, in the course of a lecturing tour of the Commonwealth and New Zealand. Admirers of the two great searchers into the problem of life mentioned are usually impressed with the fact that their books present an astounding amount of research to have been crowded into the short span of human life. One looks, therefore, with interest at Mr. M'Cabe, who has so much to his name, although he has barely arrived at the middle of the average term on earth. He has written about 30 books, mastered about 15 languages, dead and alive, and translated about a dozen works from the German, Italian, French, and Latin. Born in 1867, he was a monk in 1883 and a priest in 1890. In 1890-4 he was a professor of scholastic philosophy, and in 1895 rector of Buckingham College. He left the Church in 1896. Speaking of his life yesterday he said he had been a student for 30 years. "I've done nothing but read for 30 years; my life has been one of seven days' work a week." He is slight and youthful of figure, and carries but little of the overworn bookworm in his appearance.

AUSTRALIA AND EVOLUTION.

"Australia as a fragment of Paradise" is an alluring line in the synopsis of one of his lectures, and this gave rise to the observation above. "Scientifically," he explained, "Australia is of tremendous interest. I'm surprised that more is not made of it. Australia and New Zealand were cut off from the rest of the world ages ago, and it is singularly interesting that your animal and plant population is just the stage where the evolutionist places animals and plant life at the time when the break occurred. The whole thing fits in most beautifully with our scheme of evolution." In this respect the instance was made particularly applicable by references to the platypus, which exists in Australia in its evolutionary stage between the fur, feather, and fish animal; and scientists have been particularly interested in the kangaroo rat, which is classed between the monotreme and the marsupial—by some claimed as a monotreme pure and simple.

As to the Garden of Eden for Australia theory, it is based on the placement of the extinct Tasmanians as the earliest of human beings, on account of their crudities of speech, their lack of tribal organisation, and so forth. "Supposing," said Mr. M'Cabe, that the seat of humanity was in a part of this continent now under the ocean, it would be one of the earliest waves in distribution from the cradle of humanity to Tasmania. There is evidence—very scanty, it's true—that it was not Babylonian, but northward of here.

"The chances are that the Garden of Eden, if ever there was one, was here—probably a little more north—probably in a land now under the Indian Ocean," said the evolutionist.

Evolution and development is a subject inexhaustible. Mr. M'Cabe, however, in his short sojourn in Victoria, was as keenly interested in the modern as in the prehistoric man. "Australia, in my opinion," he observed, "is a decade in advance of Europe politically and socially. I regard Australia as leading the way. I was very much impressed with Mr. Fisher and his friends—their strong sense of responsibility was evident. You are being watched very closely from our side of the world. We want to see how the democracy will get on when it feels its full power."

Mr. Foster Fraser's assertion that the Australian is always leaning up against a post, Mr. M'Cabe says, is sheer nonsense. "He has been talking about the languor here," he said, "but there is no more languor, as far as I can see, than in London, though I might understand it better in summer—no, I don't intend to write a book—but I can find nothing of that kind. In some ways the feeling was the feeling of Italy, but in Melbourne I couldn't help feeling the contrast. It was extraordinary. Italy, you know, all closed up to keep out the sun; Melbourne spread out to catch it. I couldn't help regarding it as a piece of symbolism.

BIRMINGHAM ACCENT.

"The Australian accent? Well, I've only heard the city speech, but what I've heard comes home to me peculiarly as like the Birmingham speech. No, nothing of the American about it; there seems no tendency to let it degenerate in the way the Americans have. Most of the American magazine writers are simply corrupting the English language; there's so much straining after effect. If you're looking for signs of degeneracy, look at the American press. From what I've heard and read, you certainly might in your country districts find a nearer parallel to the American speech.

"How many languages do I speak? Well, I speak four or five, and read about 10, including dead languages. It is only in recent years I've gone into languages. You are free from that necessity in Australia. Your insulation makes you so; and I rather admire it. People here come along with a blush, and say they don't read French, but I admire it. I think learning languages a waste of time. I saw a menu the other day written in French. I thought it was silly. The language question in Europe is an appalling waste of time. English isn't a good language. I don't care much for Esperanto. Something much simpler might be invented. It should be left to philologists to settle."

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

BUILDING EXTENSION SCHEME.

A great building campaign in connection with the Young Women's Christian Association will be commenced by a spectacular demonstration in the Town Hall in July next. A strong building committee has been formed to take this enterprise in hand, and the names of the committee appear in our advertising columns.

The work of the association is very varied. In addition to its religious and social departments, classes are held in English, German, English literature, elocution, dressmaking, millinery, ambulance work, cookery, physical culture, and singing. The weekly attendance at these classes is 260. A strong department of the work is the "travellers' aid," and strangers find a welcome and a helping hand on arrival in the city by boat or train. There is also the industrial side of the work, carried on by means of noon-hour visitations of the workrooms, and a girls' club. The restaurant is a great boon to girls, and 4000 to 5000 are served with meals each month. In the boarding department 60 are accommodated, several being young girls who have found employment in offices in the city, and find in it a real home. The employment bureau finds work for those seeking situations in homes, such as governesses, housekeepers, and all kinds of domestic workers.

The association was formed in Sydney in 1880, when it was situated in Lorna House, Wynyard-square. In 1892 it removed to Phillip-street, and thence to Queen Victoria Markets. In 1902 the association took up its quarters in the present premises, which were then thought by some too large for the work, but which at the present time are quite inadequate owing to the great development of the last few years. The work has now quite outgrown the accommodation provided, and the need for an additional new building is a matter of urgent necessity. Hence next month the association proposes to hold a building campaign to raise the sum of £20,000 for the purchase of an additional site, the erection of a new building, and for the extinction of the present mortgage.

NEW ZEALAND FOOTBALLERS.

THE TEAM FOR SYDNEY.

MATCH AT WELLINGTON.

WELLINGTON, Friday.

The New Zealand Rugby team prior to leaving for Sydney to-night by the Maitai defeated Wellington representatives by 26 to 17.

Though the match between the New Zealand Rugby representatives and a Wellington team was fast and interesting, the scoring being frequent, it probably represents the strength of the New Zealand team very imperfectly.

The Dominion men had not played together before. Besides this they did not appear to be thoroughly exerting themselves, no doubt looking upon the match more in the nature of a practice game. The representatives are a fine body of footballers. The forwards are heavy, but fast notwithstanding; while the backs may be expected to show considerable brilliancy on the fast Australian fields, especially in the attack. The match was witnessed by a large crowd and aroused much interest throughout.

Taranaki defeated Wanganui by 11 points to nil.

PRICE OF BRICKS.

FEDERAL MINISTER PROTESTS.

LEGISLATION OR DIRECT STATE ACTION.

The Federal Attorney-General (Mr. Hughes) made a further contribution last night to the public discussion arising out of the determination of the brick companies to raise the price of bricks. He said that Mr. J. M. Pringle, one of the members of the Master Builders' Association, appeared to be in great perturbation of spirit as to "why I had so much to say about bricks on the night of the master builders' annual dinner. He disclaims having said anything about bricks to provoke me, and adds he did not even mention the words 'wages board.'" Mr. Hughes was under the impression that reference was made to wages boards, though not to bricks; but he brushed the point aside as quite immaterial.

"What I referred to," Mr. Hughes continued, "was a report of a meeting of the Master Builders' Association, when certain members were reported to have said that the fact of a wages board having decided to increase wages in the building trade would have a very injurious effect upon current contracts, and would place builders in an invidious and unfair position, and that the association should ask the Premier to bring in legislation such as would enable a contractor under such circumstances proportionately to increase the contract price. It was by way of comment upon this that I ventured to 'heave' the brick which has caused such a commotion.

"In view of the latest disclosures, I certainly do not regret my remarks as either unprovoked or unnecessary. Indeed, they were moderate to an extent which I regard now as almost inexcusable. The action of the combine in raising the price of bricks by 4s per thousand is one that I venture to say, in the light of recent events, will awaken public interest in political and economic affairs, and is likely to bring about consequences which the brick combine may regard as distinctly unfortunate for themselves. There appears to be two courses open to the public. First, effective legislative restrictions and regulation of trusts to prevent restraint of trade to the detriment of the public; and, secondly, direct State action. My own impression is that before another twelve months are over our heads these methods will be resorted to, and will be in no way confined to the brick combine, but will embrace any and every combination in restraint of trade which ventures to exploit the public. As to the brick combine, it is particularly unfortunate that at a time when the building trade is so brisk and an endeavour is being made to make up arrears caused by the recent strike that this increase in the price of a primary commodity to the building industry should be made.

"It is quite evident from what Mr. Rabone has said and done that an increase of 1s per 1000 would have been sufficient to cover the additional cost of production due to the rise in wages. I would like to say that it is the usual practice, and one which challenges and compels the attention of the public in every case where an increase of wages is secured by the workers, that the increase in the cost of the commodity or service produced or rendered is made many times in excess of that which is necessary to cover the increased cost. Hitherto no effective notice has been taken of these practices, and grown bold by impunity the combines have ventured perhaps upon still bolder flights in that direction. Clearly that cannot be allowed to go on indefinitely. My opinion is they have gone as far as they will be permitted to go."

CASE FOR THE BRICKMASTERS.

STILL FURTHER INCREASE POSSIBLE.

Brickmasters say that the increase in price is due to the increased cost of production.

Recently the drivers of brickcarts got an increase in wages through a wages board, and their employers have now to pay the money. Master brickcarters have also found that they are compelled to pay more for horses and vehicles. They waited upon the Master Brickmakers yesterday morning, at the Builders' Exchange, to ask for an increase in the rates now paid for brickcarting. The proposal is that is 6d per thousand more be allowed them for the cartage of bricks from the kiln to almost every part of the city and suburbs. It was decided that the Master Carters' Association should prepare a revised schedule of charges and place it before the executive of the Brickmakers' Association next week.

Then, again, the brickmasters are threatened with a demand from the men making bricks for a further increase in wages. They are also afraid of a further rise in the price of coal, and if all the extra expenses are piled up against them there is just a possibility of a further rise in the price of bricks to the consumer.

The brickmasters state that bricks, like every other commercial commodity, rise and fall according to the market. Bricks are now being delivered at 54s to districts where some years ago they would have cost 70s.

Mr. Wright, secretary of the Brickmakers and Brickcarters' Union, stated last night that the cost of carting, as far as the drivers were concerned, had not increased in price. The recent wages board did not give the drivers any increase of wages, so that the brick masters must not saddle the carters with the blame for a rise in the price of bricks.

ADVANCE OF ONE SHILLING.

Mr. S. J. Rabone, one of the principals of the Flemington Brick, Tile, and Pottery Proprietary, stated yesterday that his firm had advanced the price of bricks by only 1s per thousand, which he regarded as sufficient to meet the increased cost of production due to the award of the wages board. The brickyard has been established in the first instance on account of the difficulty which had been experienced in securing sufficient bricks for buildings in which his firm was interested.

METHODIST MINISTERS.

MARRIED LIFE ON £100 A YEAR.

TEMPTATION TO SPECULATE.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

At the Methodist Conference to-day the treasurers reported that all practicable steps had been taken to secure payment of the heavy arrears and fines due by certain ministers on terms sanctioned by the general conferences of 1904 and 1907. The success had only been partial, and the treasurers suggested that the special facilities then offered should cease.

The Rev. F. Colwell (N.S.W.) pointed out that in his State many ministers, including quite a number of married men, had to maintain their establishments on a salary of from £100 to £150 a year. It was a hard struggle to do this, and the board of treasurers should be lenient, and exercise discretion in deserving cases.

The Rev. C. T. Newman (N.S.W.) said that, in view of the increased cost of living, ministers should receive a minimum stipend of £300 a year. How could they, on the present salaries, rear families and avoid the temptation to speculate? (Disapproving cries.) It was opening their eyes to it.

It was resolved, "That the time for the payment of contributions to the supernumerary fund be extended by one month, i.e., to May 31, before imposing a fine; failing payment, the fine to be 2s 6d a month or part of a month, with a maximum forfeiture of 10s; and that, if at the end of the year (December 31), the amount due remained still unpaid, it bear compound interest at the rate of 4½ per cent."

ENDLESS LEGISLATION.

MR. MURRAY'S LAMENT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

When asked to-day whether the various small legislative measures which were dropped by the State Ministry during last session of Parliament would be revived this year, the Premier replied that he was tired of hearing about Parliamentary bills.

"I sometimes think," said Mr. Murray, "we have too much legislation. Great heaps of bills are brought forward year after year, until one wonders if there will ever be an end to our legislating. But I suppose we will really have to reintroduce most of those bills we had to drop last year."

ADMIRAL POORE'S COMMAND.

HIS PROBABLE SUCCESSOR.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

H.M.S. Powerful, after an absence of 18 months, reached Melbourne to-day on her return journey from Western Australia.

It is expected that Vice-Admiral Sir Richard Poore will conclude his term on the Australian station in January or February next. In the service there is a belief that Vice-Admiral Sir Percy Scott, who gained distinction during the defence of Ladysmith, will be his successor.

FATAL SHOOTING PARTY.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

A boat containing a shooting party of eight capsized on the Waitaki River, near Oamaru. Two were drowned, namely, Mr. R. Finlayson, a settler, and Mr. D. Byers, a bank clerk.

A TALK WITH ROBERTS.

EXPLOITS IN INDIA AND THE EAST.

"I was taught billiards," said John Roberts, the world's retired champion to a "Sydney Morning Herald" representative yesterday, "when I was 13 or 14, and I began by learning the spot stroke. When I lost the position I would cannon until I secured it again. Still, I took everything as it came, practising all sorts of strokes, and particularly winning hazards."

Mr. Roberts was favoured in having a father who was champion of the world for 25 years. The great games Roberts senior and junior have played for big stakes would require a fair-sized volume to describe.

John Roberts, jun., followed in his father's footsteps and became a great player, but there is probably no similar case on record to that of the two Robertses. Within two months of the father losing the championship to Cook in 1870, the son determined that it should be kept in the family, won back the laurels, and held them, off and on, until 1885, and from that year to 1904 held the title exclusively—nearly 30 years champion of the world! Stevenson and Dawson played for the B. A. championship in 1899.

The last championship John Roberts, jun., played was in 1885, when he defeated Joseph Bennett in 3000 up by nearly 1600. Roberts stood alone. To get a match he had to give starts varying from one-third to one-half.

"What do you consider the most remarkable match you have played?"

AN EXCITING MATCH.

"One against Peall was a wonderful contest. It was for £1000, spot barred, and I allowed him 12,000 in 24,000. Peall won by about 800. I have also had important matches with North, Diggle, Dawson, and more with Peall. In all matches, excepting those for the championship, and one I had with Dawson, I have conceded starts. That against Dawson was 18,000 up, for £100 a side, and all the gate, which was worth £2300. I won by about 2000. I had been playing with bonzoline balls, and I came straight on ivory, and might easily have lost."

There was not many years ago a lot of comment in the papers concerning the title of champion. Stevenson and Dawson were playing for the title periodically. A meeting was arranged between these two and Roberts, and the latter gave Stevenson 2000 in 18,000 for a big stake, and Stevenson wagered £100 that he would beat Roberts by more than the points he received. Roberts lost the match by 1800 odd, so he won the side wager, and took two-thirds, as arranged, of the gate, the takings were nearly £3500.

SPOT-BARRED.

"Did you not introduce the spot-barred game?"

"No; it was Joseph Bennett, though I perfected it. The game as it is played now is due to me. I recognised that the public would be wearied by the incessant and monotonous spot stroke, so I made nearly all my matches 'spot stroke barred.' As to the losing hazard game, it never occurred to me to go in for that as Gray the youthful Australian has done. It is very wonderful, and he is a nice lad, too, quite an ornament to the profession, I am pleased to say. Still, I think the stroke will become monotonous—I fancy so. I have not seen him play; perhaps I should not make these remarks, it is what I have heard people say."

"I believe I am scoring more quickly than when I was last here, about eight or nine years ago. I am certainly playing this match faster than any I have ever played."

CONTROL OF THE GAME.

"It seems to me that something should be done with regard to professional billiards in Australia. Now," said Mr. Roberts, "who is the Australian champion? Weiss claims that he is, and I understand that Lindrum thinks he holds the title. Is there no body controlling it?"

Mr. Roberts was informed that there was a New South Wales Amateur Billiard Association, which looked after the amateur championship. At this he expressed surprise. "The association ought to control both amateurs and professionals, and should draw up rules, etc, and affiliate with Billiards Control Club. At present the professional championship runs along anyhow.

"You have a splendid player in Lindrum. I think he has a brilliant future, and that it is in his own hands. With the exception of Gray, I don't know any young player so proficient. He has a very good pose at the table."

How long have you been playing billiards?

"For 48 years I have been before the public. In 1866 I won my first tournament at St. James's Hall."

The mention of his match with Ives recalled an historical event. "It was neither English nor American billiards," Roberts continued, "it was a compromise. The pockets were small, and the balls large. He got the balls in the corner and would be still playing if the crowd had not hissed. Provision should have been made against this—it was left out by accident—it was in all other agreements. At English billiards Ives was very ordinary. I offered to back Memmott, who was then in England, to give him halfway."

A FOUL STROKE.

Speaking of strokes in the game, Mr. Roberts said that the masse stroke, when the cue ball and the object ball are close together, is in many cases a foul, for the reason that the cue is in contact with the cue ball while the cue ball is in contact with the object ball. Frenchmen and Americans use this stroke to bring the balls together. Englishmen play to avoid the masse.

"What do I think of the game put up by Inman in the abandoned game with Stevenson? Well, I cannot understand it. It is only a few months ago Stevenson offered Inman a third of the game in 30,000, and Inman replied, saying: 'I will not play a machine.'"

The match referred to was abandoned because of the death of Mrs. H. W. Stevenson.

A UNIQUE ACHIEVEMENT.

What was the most wonderful stroke you ever played?

"It was made when I was touring, and occurred in June, 1904, at the Beach Hotel, Chefoo, in the Gulf of Pechili. The spectators were to a large extent Chinamen. After the usual game, I gave an exhibition of fancy strokes. The shot I had to play was a cannon on a ball placed in a hat about 18 inches from the cushion. Of course, I did not use my best set of ivory balls to illustrate a trick shot of this type, but brought into requisition an old set, much the worse for wear. As the cue ball jumped into the hat, the object ball broke clean in half, amid deafening applause from the Eastern gentlemen present. No one was more surprised than I. The spectators thought the double event was intended, and wanted an encore, but I gave them to understand that I never did this particular shot more than once in an evening.

MAGIC IN INDIA.

"I was giving an exhibition of fancy strokes at Framjee Cowesjee Institute, Bengal, India. At that time I specialised a little in the direction of fancy strokes made by hand, and one of my shots was to throw the ball with considerable force from baulk, and, with a backward twist as it left my hand, making it stop near the billiard spot. To display this item to the best advantage I cried to the ball, 'Stop,' which the backward spin made it do. The spectators thought it would travel up and down the table, and this apparent magic was too much for them. A leading member of the community rose and said, "I can understand what Mr. Roberts does to the balls with a stick, but when he talks to them, and they obey his voice it is not right! There is magic about it, and I will stay no longer.' He left the room, and so did many others."

BANK MANAGER'S LAPSE.

TOTAL DEFALCATIONS £3000.

At the Sydney Quarter Sessions yesterday, before Judge Murray, Wilfred William Jauncey, formerly manager of the Dorrigo branch of the Bank of New South Wales, who had pleaded guilty to two charges of larceny as a servant, was brought up for sentence. It was stated for the Crown that accused's total defalcations amounted to a few pounds short of £3000. At the time of his arrest he was in receipt of £260 a year, and in addition to this he was allowed a house, a servant, and fuel and lighting expenses, bringing his allowance practically up to £350 a year. His books had been extensively falsified, and two of his accounts showed shortages respectively of £900 and £760.

On behalf of accused it was stated that he had become involved owing to speculation in land at Dorrigo. He was not addicted to drink, and otherwise bore an excellent character.

His Honor said that the case was a very distressing one. Accused apparently thought he would be able to repay the money he had taken to invest in land, and the redeeming feature of his conduct was that he had, apart from taking the money, led a reputable life.

Accused was sentenced to two years' hard labour in Goulburn Gaol on each charge, sentences to be concurrent.

MELBOURNE BREAD DOWN.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Melbourne and Suburban Master Bakers' Association decided to reduce the price of the 2lb loaf from 3½d to 2¾d cash, and 3d if booked.

BOTHA AND HIS CABINET.

SOME CHARACTERISTICS AND IDIOSYNCRASIES.

Mr. Louis Botha and Dr. Jameson are the two outstanding personalities of South Africa. The mantle of first Prime Minister of the latest of dominions within the world-encircling Empire rests, however, on the broad shoulders of him who succeeded the veteran warrior Joubert as Commandant-General of the Boer forces, when Briton and Boer were in the grip of war. Just eight years ago King Edward, the Peacemaker, brought about, at Vereeniging, in the Transvaal, that meeting of the leaders of the contending forces which, happily, ended the guerilla engagements, and reconciled the great white peoples of South Africa. The Boers returned to their farms, and the British legions were reshipped to their homes across the seas. To-day, there is scarcely an irreconcilable in South Africa who regrets that noble, wise, and humane intervention. The work of repatriation began at once, and Generals Botha, De la Rey, and De Wet sailed for England to meet Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary for State, in conference, and to give the finishing and detailing touches to the terms of lasting peace.

VISIT TO ENGLAND.

When the generals arrived at Capetown, en route for England, they were lionised by British and Afrikander alike. Botha and De la Rey took gratulations and demonstrations with characteristic calm, but de Wet, with a soul for excitement, an infinite capacity for sociality, a lively temperament, and a ready wit, was the hero of many al fresco and festive functions. The guerilla leader proved himself a bronzed and breezy after-dinner speaker, and looked in evening dress as lithe and alert and quite as conventional as, say, Mr. Alfred Deakin. The Capetown press referred to the delegates as "Generals"—a denudation of dignity in denomination resented by the Dutch. At a garden party, at Stellenbosch, near Capetown, as De Wet moved along, a Dutch-Huguenot lady, daintily gowned, and of rare beauty, tripped lightly towards him, and, with her heart in her mouth, and all her racial instincts aflame, exclaimed: "Oh, General, how pleased I am to meet you; or"—and she paused—"should I say 'ex-General.'" Holding her hand, and twinkling his eyes, De Wet (who enjoyed the role of lion) declared: "Ah! madam, you may call me ex-General, to-day; who knows I may be Excellency to-morrow!" Returning from England, De Wet bought a farm, and is now prospering peacefully in the Orange Free State.

PERSONAL SKETCH.

Louis Botha is physically and mentally a big man. A fine head is set on a stalwart frame. The brow is high and broad; the eyes are bright and penetrant; the nose is shapely and strong, and the dark beard is closely clipped. The voice is full and vibrant, and the address distinguished and masterly. Yet his manner is genial, friendly, and magnetic, while his nature is simplicity personified. A cultured, handsome man, he is eminently companionable, and entirely free from preoccupation or self-consciousness. He is attentive and courteous, and treats his newest acquaintance with the easy familiarity of an old friend. Next to the late J. H. Hofmeyr ("Onze Jan"), Mr. Chamberlain regarded him as the most able of the South African Dutch. He was never an extremist, and, as the first Premier of the Transvaal under the first Constitution enacted by the Imperial Parliament, he was esteemed and trusted by the British, notwithstanding his natural desire to fill civil service vacancies with Boer officials retrenched by the rod of war and the policy of Lord Milner, to billet the British on the higher departments. It is well known that Botha was favourable to an alliance with "Dr. Jim," in the formation of the first Ministry of the Union, but the predominant Dutch-Boer party vetoed this as impolitic, and all too magnanimous. That "Dr. Jim" deserved inclusion, there is no doubt, but then, like Mr. Reid in the Commonwealth, he will have the distinction of leading the Opposition—and, for a long time, at that.

OLD POLITICIANS.

Nearly all Prime Minister Botha's colleagues are seasoned partisans. The exceptions are: —Mr. F. R. Moor and Mr. C. O'Grady-Gubbins, both of Natal. Mr. H. C. Hull was recruited to the Botha ranks a few years ago. The other six fought for the Boers, either with rifles or rhetoric. Mr. John X. Merriman, Premier of the Cape at the establishment of the Union, refused a portfolio. This was characteristic of the brilliant son of an English Bishop. He opposed the inclusion of "Dr. Jim," and, having his own way, barred himself. He is certain of a seat in the new Parliament, and he will, no doubt, play the role of subtle critic of both Government and Opposition. This will suit his testy temperament and constitutional love of indolence. He will deliver the most pungent and polished addresses, and be the most picturesque figure in politics. But his influence will be infinitesimal, for he will have no following. South Africa, however, will insist on his presence in Parliament, for his personal popularity is based on his charm of manner, ripe scholarship, and fascinating phrases.

The Prime Minister has a strong team from the point of view of votes at the general elections. General Smuts, who takes over the Interior, Mines, and Defence, is a warrior-statesman, a man of distinguished parts, and a successful administrator. All along the line of Witwatersrand Reef he is greatly esteemed; while, of course, on the veldt, he is beloved as a patriot. He has done much to reconcile the races, and he will have splendid opportunities to do more. With no assumptions of dignity and importance, he is direct, dexterous, and decisive, and entirely free from prejudice. Mr. Hull, who controls Finance, is an Englishman for long years intimately associated with Johannesburg's business and financial affairs. He is alert and level-headed, with a capacity for detail and control. As Treasurer, he should be quite at ease. No man of prominence has steered clearer of racial strife. He has trod on no corns.

ORANGE FREE STATE.

Ex-Judge Herzog and Mr. Fischer represent the Orange Free State in the Justice and Lands Departments, respectively. Mr. Herzog left the Bench for the fields of battle. Broad-shouldered, upstanding, sinewy, and athletic, his keen intellectual caste alone differentiated him from the typical Boer leader. No complaint was ever made against him by the British, and his frank and fair dealing during the two years and eight months' action, will, no doubt, characterise his conduct of the Union's Department of Justice. Simplicity and strength, with innate geniality, best describe him. Mr. Fischer is an old Parliamentary hand. He is the ablest politician in the Free State, and has been accustomed to lead. As Premier he has ever been practical and efficient.

Natal, the least Dutch of the colonies, was reluctant to enter the Union. It knew very well that it would be swallowed up in the great dominating Dutch pool. Also, it knew that if it did not join in, the port of Durban would be boycotted and supplanted. It accepted salvation and sacrificed identity as the "loyal" dependency. Its Premier, Mr. Moor, as Minister for Commerce and Industries, will enter strange company. But the politician, highly placed, has remarkable powers of adaptability. Mr. O'Grady Gubbins, Minister without portfolio, will help Mr. Moor to reconcile Natal to Union. He has just awakened to find himself famous.

CAPE MEMBERS.

The Cape is allotted three portfolios. Mr. J. W. Sauer (Railways and Harbours) is probably South Africa's ablest debater. He is the incarnation of Africanderdom. Behind the mask of a pleasant, confidential manner, and a zest for sociality and festivity, he hides a strenuous and determined will, and a subtle ambition for the supremacy of his race. He has always been an object of suspicion to ardent Britons, and the avowedly British press of South Africa has found in all his utterances matter for critical and often caustic comment. But this he always deprecated, and declared he was misunderstood. He is fat and jolly, and impervious to attack. He must be happy in his Union element, with Botha in the lead. A lucky young barrister of English parentage is Mr. Henry Burton, who takes charge of Native Affairs. He joined the Bond party and entered the Cape Parliament a few years ago. A fire-spitting partisan, he was a target for more attacks than any other Bondman. Energetic, aggressive, and able, his reward has come quickly. Mr. F. S. Malan, who holds the portfolio of Education, is an advocate who graduated from the editorial chair of "Onze Land." Fiery on his feet, and one of the most forcible of speakers, he is, otherwise, one of the calmest and mildest of men. In the prime of life, and of fine abilities, he will prove himself worthy of Botha's judgment. A surprise is Mr. D. P. de V. Graaff (Public Works, Posts and Telegraphs). A well-known commercial man of Capetown, and prominent personality in companies and corporations, he was never suspected of high political ambitions. He is the rich man of the Cabinet, and personally not the least popular. His presence is some guarantee that the millionaires and minor capitalists will not be without a voice in the Cabinet.

The brains of the opposition to the Botha Government will probably be supplied by Dr. Jameson, Abe Bailey, Sir Percy Fitzpatrick, Sir George Farrar (all millionaires) and Dr. Smartt. However, Prime Minister Botha will face with few fears the campaign now opening for the first general elections.

FEDERAL FINANCE.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA'S POSITION.

COMPLAINT BY MR. WILSON.

PERTH, Friday.

The Acting Premier (Mr. Wilson) said last night with respect to the financial agreement that direct promises were given during the Federal elections by the representatives of the Fisher Government that if the financial agreement were rejected Western Australia would receive the same terms for 25 years, although this contract would not be embodied in the Constitution. Mr. Fisher was now suggesting a 10 years' arrangement without saying whether he intended to pay Western Australia £250,000, decreasing annually by £10,000.

Mr. Wilson regretted the abandonment of the proposed Premiers' Conference. The present position was that Mr. Fisher had declared the conference off. It was now stated that a constitutional difficulty had arisen as to whether the federation could differentiate in payments to the different States. He hoped the question would be settled in the interests of Western Australia.

THE LAPSED CONFERENCE.

STATEMENT BY MR. FISHER.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In reply to questions put to him to-day the Prime Minister (Mr. Fisher) made a brief reference to the negotiations in connection with the now abandoned Premiers' conference.

"Owing to my public statements," said Mr. Fisher, "the statements which I have made in regard to the Commonwealth working amicably with the States, Mr. Murray called upon me. I said I would be glad to meet the Premiers and discuss matters of mutual concern, especially the financial relations. After our conversation Mr. Murray thought it wise to go and see Mr. Wade. When he returned from Sydney he came to see me again, and asked if June 17 would be a suitable date for a conference, and I agreed. Some considerable time after that Mr. Wade sent a letter to me pointing out the inconvenience of the date named, and laying down other conditions, which ended the matter."

Will you tell us what you wrote in reply?

"No," said Mr. Fisher. "Mr. Wade may violate the canons of correspondence, but I will not."

NEW HEBRIDES JOINT COURT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Appointments have been made after a long delay by the King of Spain to the joint Court to be established in the New Hebrides.

The Court is to be established in the terms of the Anglo-French convention of 1906, and it will have jurisdiction in civil, including commercial, cases over all suits respecting land, and suits of every kind between natives and non-natives, police, and criminal cases, every offence or kind of crime committed by natives against non-natives, and generally over the particular offences constituted by the convention of the regulations framed for carrying it out. It will consist of three Judges, one British and one French, the president and the public prosecutor being appointed by the King of Spain.

The Spanish nominations are:—President, Senor Don Tomas Alonso Y Zababa, Conde De Buena Esperanza, doctor of civil law, ex-Governor of various provinces, ex-secretary to the Governor-General of Puerto Rico, and formerly legal adviser to the Cuban Administration; Public prosecutor, Senor Don Alfonso Aguirre Y Carrier, Conde De Andino, doctor of civil law, doctor of philosophy, doctor of letters, and first-class clerk in the Treasury. The English Judge is Mr. T. E. Roseby, formerly of Sydney, where he practised as a barrister. The French Judge has yet to be appointed.

TATTERSALL'S SWEEPS.

"WIDESPREAD AND DEMORALISING."

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The general conference of Methodists to-day dealt with Tattersall's agency at Fiji.

On the recommendation of the committee it was decided that the board of missions reply to the letter from the Governor of Fiji, stating that he would not deal with the matter at present that in the judgment of the conference his Excellency should know how widespread and demoralising were the results of Tattersall's business in the Australian Commonwealth, and pointing out that no action for the suppression of the agency in Suva would be harbouring an institution working against the Federal law, as well as jeopardising the morality, peace, and good order of the various native races in Fiji and the Western Pacific; that there was a predisposition on the part of conference to call the attention of the Secretary of State for the Colonies to the terrible menace to the people of the South Seas that had been created by the establishment of a great gambling institution in the heart of a community that only within the last half-century emerged from barbarism. The conference further decided to call the attention of the Federal Government to the establishment of Tattersall's in Fiji; and to urge it to take action to make penal the posting or distribution through the Commonwealth Postal Department or Customs, of any correspondence, literature, or other matter intended to incite the people of the Comonwealth to take part in gambling or lottery institutions.

It was further resolved to congratulate the past postmaster and the present Postmaster-General, on the prohibitive action already taken in this direction, and to urge more drastic steps in the interests of the Commonwealth, and the races in the Pacific. It was decided also to approach the State Governments to enact similar laws to the Commonwealth regarding lotteries, sweeps, consultations, and so on.

A TEN-SHILLING BANK NOTE.

FEDERAL INTENTIONS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In connection with the projected issue of Commonwealth notes, the Treasurer (Mr. Fisher) has in contemplation the issue of a 10s note, though not in the immediate future. It is understood that the Treasurer is personally favourable to the idea, but there are some departmental objections to issuing notes of lower value than £1.

INSURANCE COMPANIES FUSION.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

In reference to a London cable that the Commercial Union has absorbed the Ocean Accident Insurance Company of New Zealand, the general manager of the latter company states that the cable does not represent the true position. An arrangement has been made for the fusion of the two companies, but there will be no change in the existing lines of business. Thus the Ocean Accident Company does not lose its identity, as the London message infers.

DELAYS AT RAILWAY STATION.

Owing to a defect in the electrical portion of the interlocking gear at the Central Railway station, passenger trains were delayed about 20 minutes on Thursday night between 6 and 7 o'clock. The country trains got away to time, but it was midnight before the traffic was readjusted. Last night another block took place just as the home-going traffic was at its height. Several trains started 15 minutes late.

STATE ELECTIONS.

MR. LEE'S CANDIDATURE.

NEW RAILWAY PROMISED.

CASINO, Friday.

The reception accorded to Mr. C. A. Lee (Minister for Works) in this district was very cordial. Already active steps have been taken to form a strong working committee to ensure his return at the next election.

Mr. Lee's speech to the people of the Upper Richmond was most warmly applauded. He said that he was determined to extend the railway from Kyogle up the valley of the Richmond to Woodenbong and Tooloom and Acacia Creek. The survey had been made as far as Woodenbong. He had it on the authority of the Forestry Commission that the timber there was the finest soft and hard wood in New South Wales. More butter was made to-day in the 14 police patrol districts on the Richmond River than 18 years ago in the whole State, and as much butter was made in Kyogle to-day as there was 20 years ago in the whole of the Richmond River police district.

Mr. E. H. Burgess, who recently contested the Federal election for Parkes, is one of the six Labour representatives nominated for selection as the candidate for Canterbury.

BISHOP STRETCH ON "NO-LICENSE."

A WORD FOR THE PUBLICANS' CASE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

At the synod on Thursday evening Mr. W. Conn moved:—"In view of the high medical testimony that alcoholic liquors are not a necessity, but are injurious to health, and shorten life, and are the source of untold misery, destitution, and crime, and that drunkards are to be counted by thousands, not one of whom as such, on the authority of God's word, can inherit the Kingdom of God, this synod therefore resolves to support no-license at the approaching local option vote in September next."

Bishop Stretch expressed the opinion that the synod as such would not support "no-license" in September next. The synod was not a political body. For any such body to say it would support and vote for a man on this ground only was, he believed, a most degrading doctrine. (Hear, hear.) They would only be putting in a man who would really fly flags. That was what was really meant by sectarianism, to vote for and cry for the personnel of the candidates. That was a thing the speaker would not do under any circumstance. He thought, as a citizen, that local option was the worst thing ever introduced. He regarded the action of the Legislature in referring to the people the question of no-license by means of local option as a piece of cowardice, and false to the root principles of democracy. He objected absolutely to the renewal of licenses being the right thing, because they were merely annual. Wherever legislation demanded an initial expense which was larger than could be recouped within the scope of the license there was a moral obligation that if the conditions of that license were complied with it should be renewed. Enormous expenditure was called for by the State. The State said, "You can have your license if you build a house costing seven or eight thousand pounds. But we can shut it down at the year's end, however well you conduct it." This was an elaborate and disgusting swindle. (Hear, hear.) It would knock the morality out of trade. While they were all conscious of the seriousness of the question, there were wide differences of opinion. It was difficult to find out what was the real effect of local option. There were extraordinary contradictions on this point. He did trust that the synod as such would not take an action which it should not take.

An amendment, omitting the word "resolves," and inserting the words "urges members of the Church of England in this diocese," was adopted by Mr. Conn.

The Rev. A. A. Yates said that as Christian men they would not oppose compensation, and he was willing to join issue with Canon Boyce or anyone else on this matter.

The Rev. A. C. Hirst thought the adoption of no-license was not the way to deal with this evil or the abuse of alcohol.

The motion, as amended, was put to the synod, and was declared lost on the voices. A show of hands being asked for, showed 19 for the motion and 31 against.

TRAM ACCIDENT.

AN OLD LADY KNOCKED DOWN.

Mrs. Sarah Williams, aged 72, living at May-street, Newtown, was knocked down by a city-bound tram at St. Peters yesterday morning and severely injured. She was about to cross King-street when a cart going in the direction of Cook's River drove up. She stepped back to allow it to pass. When it had done so she stepped into the roadway, and on to the tram line in front of a tram going citywards, which had, up till that time, been hidden by the cart. The driver applied his brakes and endeavoured to bring the car to a standstill, but his efforts were unavailing. The tram, though slowing down, hit Mrs. Williams. She was knocked down, and appeared to roll right under the tram, being pinned underneath the car. She was extricated and placed in the tram, which ran through to Newtown without a stop. Then the Civil Ambulance Brigade conveyed the sufferer to the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital. When admitted, Mrs. Williams was unconscious. She was suffering from a probable fracture of the skull, abrasions about the face and body, and shock. One of her wrists was almost severed.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The Home Secretary on Thursday received a deputation representing the Institute of Ophthalmic Opticians, asking that legislation be introduced on the same lines as that dealing with chemists, dentists, and the medical profession, with the object of rendering it impossible for quacks to operate in the profession. Mr. Appel expressed himself in sympathy with the objects of the deputation. He proposed to have a draft bill prepared to deal with the matter, but could not promise that it would be introduced this session.

ILLEGAL OPIUM.

Walter Hayward was fined £50 or six months' imprisonment at Geraldton for being in unlawful possession of 30 tins of opium. Hayward is from Sydney. He pleaded guilty.

At Rockhampton delegates of the Institute of Mining Engineers were entertained at a river trip on Thursday. Mr. H. W. Gepp (Broken Hill), responding to the toast of the visitors, said that among the resolutions passed by the Institute was one urging the initiation of a Federal geological survey, which would enable people prospecting to know where to go, and what to look for. He asked everybody, whether connected with the Institute or not, to give their best support and sympathy to the movement.

STRACHAN V. "COURIER."

BRISBANE (Q.), Friday.

The trial of the action brought by John Strachan, master mariner, against the Brisbane Newspaper Company, claiming damages laid at £5000 for alleged defamation, was concluded at the Supreme Court to-day.

The jury, in reply to his Honor's questions, found that plaintiff did not ratify and approve of the publication of the article of May 11, 1909, after he became aware that no article relating to the same matters had been published by the authority of the German Consul in the same paper; that the publication of the article of May 17, 1909, was not made in good faith for the purpose of giving information to the public with respect to a subject as to which the public was believed by defendants on reasonable grounds to have such interest in knowing the truth as to make their conduct in making the publication reasonable under the circumstances; that the publication of the article of May 17, 1909, was not made by the defendants in good faith for the public benefit; that the publication of the article of May 17, 1909, was not made by the defendants in good faith on invitation or by the challenge of the plaintiff; that the publication of the article of May 17, 1909, was not made by defendants in good faith for the protection of the interests of the German Consul and his fellow-countrymen, or for the public good; that the damages sustained were £500.

Mr. Lukin moved for judgment for the plaintiff for £500 and costs, and judgment was entered accordingly.

INTERESTS PROBABLY ABANDONED.

MR. WATSON HOLDS ALL HIS SHARES.

"Yes, it is one of those bits of bad luck that will always happen, and one cannot help," said Mr. J. C. Watson yesterday with respect to the report that the Mynpachts Gold-mining Company's leases in South Africa will probably be abandoned. "But it is a severe disappointment to all of us. I had held on to all the shares originally issued to me in the belief that they would be of considerable value, but that prospect seems to have considerably diminished. Mr. Tewksbury will lose more heavily, because he bought out the holder of some of the original shares. I have no doubt that, so far as the contributing shareholders are concerned, no loss will accrue to them, as it is almost a certainty that profitable employment will be found for the capital already paid up. The nearest route to the property, which is situated in a valley in North-eastern Transvaal, is by Delagoa Bay, from which place it is distant between 250 and 300 miles. To go by way of Delagoa Bay would mean a journey of about 800 miles. I am glad that I have disposed of none of my shares, for it is proof that I had every confidence in the prospects."

ROUGH FOOTBALL.

TWO PLAYERS CHARGED.

OFFER TO ASSIST POLICE.

MOVE BY ASSOCIATION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The police authorities have issued summonses against two of the players who are alleged to have been concerned in rough play in the football match between Carlton and South Melbourne last Saturday.

G. Topping, of the Carlton team, has been charged with an assault on Albert Strenckfuss, of South Melbourne. Strenckfuss has been charged with assaulting Andrew M'Donald, of Carlton. The cases will come before the Carlton Court next Wednesday.

At a meeting of the Victorian Football Association to-night, it was decided to inform the Chief Commissioner of Police that the association would assist the police in every possible way to prevent a recurrence of the disgraceful scenes which occurred recently. The umpires would be instructed to give the police all information and assistance to bring offenders to book.

THE AUSTRALIAN PENNY.

URGENT CABLE FOR COINS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

To-day a cable was despatched from the Commonwealth Treasury to the Imperial authorities suggesting a design for the new Australian copper coinage. The obverse side of the coin will bear an effigy of the late King, with the usual inscription round the edge, setting forth his titles. On the reverse side the words "Commonwealth of Australia" will be printed round the upper edge, and the year of the coinage will appear on the lower edge. In the centre will be printed the words "One penny," or "One halfpenny," as the case may be. The Imperial mint has been asked to strike the coins as early as possible in view of the demand at present existing in Australia for copper coins.

FACTORY BURNT DOWN.

BATEMAN'S BAY, Friday.

About 2 o'clock this morning Mr. John Perry's spoke and nave factory was completely destroyed by fire. The fire was not discovered until the roof had fallen in. The manager, Mr. Priest, looked through the mill before retiring as usual about 11 o'clock. There was no sign of fire. Heavy stocks of dressed spokes and naves were inside the building, also a large order for spokes had just been completed for shipment. The damage is estimated at about £6000. About 40 men will be thrown idle.

FALL FROM A LORRY.

DEATH UNDER AN ANAESTHETIC.

The City Coroner yesterday held an inquest regarding the death of John Atkins, a middle-aged man, who died in the Sydney Hospital whilst undergoing an operation on June 1. Dr. A. J. Aspinall, the medical superintendent of the hospital, stated that prior to the operation the decreased was examined by two doctors to ascertain if he were a suitable patient to take an anaesthetic. A post-mortem examination of the body had been made, and it was found that the deceased had marked heart disease, but that sort of heart disease could not be detected by an external examination. The Coroner's verdict was that the deceased met his death from heart failure while under an anaesthetic for a surgical operation. He found that the anaesthetic was properly administered, and that when unfavourable symptoms manifested themselves every effort was made to restore animation.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

WOLLONGONG, Friday.

The inquest concerning the death of John Meredith, a wheeler at South Clifton Tunnel mine, who was killed by a fall of stone, was concluded. Coroner found that deceased met his d[illegible] through injuries accidentally received.

FALL INTO A RIVER.

BRISBANE, Friday.

David Robb, labourer, employed at Deepwater wharf, disappeared at 8 o'clock on Wednesday night. The body was recovered by dragging next day. It is not known how he fell into the river. Deceased was a well-known Scottish piper, and drum-major of the Scottish Band.

A PLUCKY RESCUE.

PATERSON, Friday.

A man named Anderson, employed on the first section of the North Coast railway, fell off the railway bridge last night. His cries attracted the attention of those living close by. On rushing to the scene they could see with the aid of lanterns that he was almost drowned. John Quinn at once jumped in and effected a plucky rescue. Dr. Weedon was at once summoned, and resorted to artificial respiration. Anderson now lies in an unconscious state.

CHILD DROWNS IN BATH.

YERRANDERIE, Friday.

A girl, aged 10 years, the eldest child of Mr. Berguland, engineer at the Burragorang mine, was accidentally drowned in a bath-tub whilst her mother's attention was diverted for a few minutes. The child had previously suffered from general paralysis.

BURNING FATALITY.

PERTH (W.A.), Friday.

A Frenchwoman, Mignon Vasseur, who was frightfully burnt at Fremantle on Monday night, has died. A foreigner, the occupant of the house, has been arrested, but it is said that an Englishman was concerned in the disturbance which resulted in the upsetting of the lamp, causing Vasseur's injuries.

ANTI-GAMBLING CRUSADE.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN GATHERING.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The promoters of the South Australian Anti-Gambling League entertained at dinner to-day a number of social reform workers, who are now visiting South Australia in connection with the Methodist General Conference. Professor Darnley Naylor presided.

The Rev. T. S. B. Woodfull congratulated Mr. Verran (Premier of South Australia) upon his election to office. (Applause.) He had every reason to be thankful to Labour members, some of whom had greatly assisted him in his reform efforts at Collingwood, in Victoria. It was impossible, thanks to the legislation they had succeeded in carrying, to publish betting odds. It was also against the law for any woman to bet in Victoria, whether on the totalisator or not, or for any youth under 21 years to bet; and all gambling had to be done on one small section of the racecourse. If Adelaide only got rid of the totalisator it would partially strengthen the hands of the anti-gambling fighters in the eastern States. (Hear, hear.)

The Rev. P. J. Stephen (N.S.W.) said that one of the first effects of their drastic legislation was to clear the streets of Sydney. Before the anti-gambling Act came into vogue the conditions of their streets had been really too dreadful to contemplate. He had stood in front of one of the city "tote shops" and counted persons entering at the rate of four per minute during the busy time of the day. Bookmakers had plied their craft under the very eyes of the police. The advent of the women's vote had been their great help in New South Wales. (Applause.) That had scared the politicians into action.

Other speakers were the Revs. H. Worrall (Vic.), T. Allan (W.A.), Mr. J. Best (Tas.), and the Rev. W. J. Williams (N.Z.).

Congratulations were bestowed upon Mr. Verran, who was referred to as a stanch social reformer.

THE TOTALISATOR.

ANGLICAN DISAPPROVAL.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Anglican social questions committee rejected by nine votes to four a motion, that while disclaiming any sympathy with betting of any description, it was of the opinion that some of the more glaring evils connected with it would be minimised by the adoption of the totalisator, coupled with the suppression of the bookmaker.

The committee had conducted exhaustive inquiries in South Australia and New Zealand as to the working of the machine in those places.

COMMONWEALTH REVENUE.

THE £600,000 AGREEMENT.

MR. WADE IN EXPLANATION.

The Prime Minister, in his reference to the Commonwealth revenue published in yesterday's "Herald," said that the States would receive £530,000 more than had originally been estimated, and when to this was added the £600,000 they had agreed to forego in their understanding with the Deakin Government, they would probably receive £1,130,000 more than they had expected.

When his attention was directed to the foregoing at the close of a Cabinet meeting last evening, Mr. Wade said:—"The States undertook as part of an agreement made last year to contribute to the extent of £600,000 in the event of the Commonwealth revenue showing a shortage to that extent, but in the event of there being no shortage there was to be no liability. Mr. Deakin undertook to provide for £600,000, representing the other half of the contemplated shortage, probably by the issue of bonds; therefore, the total liability the States might incur in respect of this year's deficit was £600,000. But it was felt by all the State Premiers that the Customs revenue would largely increase, and that this deficit would not be found to exist on June 30. These expectations have been borne out by the actual growth of revenue during the past 11 months. The real position was that there was the possible liability of £600,000 and a strong probability that there would be no liability at all when the financial year ended."

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

LABOUR PREMIER'S VIEWS.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The Labour Premier (Mr. Verran) in a speech at the Rechabite Jubilee said:—"God is not going to see the principles of society dropped by a few dirty beer barrels, and I'm here to defend those principles. While I hold the position of Premier no man need expect any sympathy from me when he comes to me about the drink traffic. I am concerned to defend righteousness, truth, and justice."

A tropical depression appeared off the NE coast of Queensland on Tuesday, and by the following day had affected the weather inland of that State. On Thursday it formed into a cyclonic storm, with its centre between Brisbane and Clarence Heads, resulting in gales from between the E and S, and high seas along our coast. Coincident with this formation, the high pressure wheeled round and stood at right angles to its position of the previous day, thus inducing the cold southerly circulation. This tropical storm resulted in splendid rains throughout the south-eastern half of Queensland, starting at Geraldton it went inland as far west as Windorah and Gunnamulla, no less than 68 stations reporting over one inch, 32 over two and nine over three inches. The following day it had penetrated into New South Wales, and covered a large area of country to the NE of a line joining Hungerford and Sydney. Some very good totals were recorded for the two days in the north-eastern districts, more particularly on the north coast and north-western slopes. The best falls were:—Mullumbimby 940, Murwillumbah 691, Tweed Heads 595, Ballina 422, Byron Bay 406, Kempsey 426. On the NW slopes Manilla had 180, Barraba 165, Narrabri 164, and Boggabri 142. By Friday morning snow was reported from the extreme southern tablelands, and during the afternoon had extended to the central highlands as far north as Blayney.

At South Head last night a strong gale was blowing, and the sea was making rough. Coastal reports showed that rough seas and gales were prevalent practically all along the coast. Many boats were forced to seek shelter at various ports, as will be seen on reference to our telegraphic shipping. The forecast at 9 p.m. for New South Wales was: "More rain on the coast and highlands; fine and cold west of the mountains; cold southerly winds, strong to gales, with rough seas."

RICE CARGO FROM BURMAH.

By the Currie liner Gracchus, due in Sydney in the course of a few days, a large consignment of rice will come forward from Rangoon and Bassein, Burmah. The vessel had 5000 tons in her hold when she reached Melbourne on Wednesday. Some, of course, was discharged there. Captain W. B. Wilkinson, R.N.R., who has command, reports that the Gracchus left Bassein on May 10, and experienced variable weather until reaching latitude 2deg. south, where strong south-east trade winds and high head seas assailed her. These unpleasant conditions lasted until the Gracchus was in latitude 25deg. south, where a turbulent experience befell her in the nature of a furious south-west gale, accompanied by exceptionally rough seas, there being no moderation in the elements up to the vessel's arrival in Fremantle. Discharging a quantity of produce at that port, the Gracchus resumed her voyage, strong westerly to south-westerly winds still prevailing. It was not until the vessel neared Cape Otway that the weather moderated, and then fogs necessitated cautious navigation.

HOULDER BROS. AND CO., LTD.

Mr. F. H. Houlder, chairman of directors of Houlder Bros. and Company, Ltd., made the following reference to the 10 new steamers when moving the adoption of the report and accounts at the general meeting of shareholders held in London just before the mail left:—"Though it does not affect the year under review, I am glad to be able to inform the shareholders that one of the subsidiary companies under our management has arranged for an addition to its fleet of 10 new steamers, some of which are already launched, while others are in course of construction, an arrangement which, considering the improved prospects of shipping generally, I have every hope will prove satisfactory and remunerative to both companies."

NEW AUSTRALIAN DREDGER.

On April 22 there was launched at Schiedam, near Rotterdam, the steel hull of a sea-going bucket dredger, which is building to the order of the South Australian Government. The dredger, which was named Adelaide, is being built under Lloyd's special survey. Her main dimensions are:—Length, 161ft; breadth, 34ft 6in; and depth, 12ft. She will be provided with one compound main engine of 500 i.h.p. for working the screw, and for driving the bucket chain, and one auxiliary compound engine of 100 i.h.p. for working the winches. Steam will be supplied by two marine boilers having a working pressure of 120lb. The dredger will be capable of raising about 500 cubic yards of stiff clay per hour from a depth of 43ft below water line. After completion she will make the voyage from Schiedam to Adelaide under her own steam.

ONLY RIVET HOLES.

The North Coast Steam Navigation Company's steamer Macleay, which had to return to the Macleay River early on Thursday morning in a leaking condition, while cargo laden for Sydney, was found upon examination to be defective only by two missing rivets. These were replaced yesterday, and the vessel was reloaded with pigs and maize for Sydney. Her departure will, however, depend upon the condition of the weather and the river bar.

DOCKINGS.

Suva, s, and Paloona, s, will leave Mort's and Woolwich docks respectively to-day.

HUGE BATTLE TARGET.

BUILDING AT WILLIAMSTOWN.

Messrs. Gray Bros., of Williamstown, Victoria, have on their local slip a new "battle target" for the Admiralty of an entirely new type, for use in Port Phillip. The structure is built of 12 x 12 Oregon pine, and it has an immense iron heel, ballasted so as to give it a deep and firm grip on the water. The naval inspector from Garden Island, Sydney, visited the slip on Wednesday to watch the progress of the work, and it is anticipated that the target will be launched in a fortnight's time. The supply of 12 x 12 Oregon pine in Melbourne has been entirely used up to construct the target, and Oregon 14 x 14 is now being sawn to suit the builders. The body of the target is over 150ft long, and is about 4ft wide, with a double bow. It will have a canvas structure on it about 100ft long by 50ft high, and will be towed through the water at from 15 to 18 knots per hour by one of the cruisers of the station, whilst the others indulge in battle-firing practice at it. This is described as the third target of the kind built in the world.

THE LOCH KATRINE.

The British barque Loch Katrine, which was towed into Sydney in a dismasted condition a few weeks ago, is going to be sold to the highest bidder. Under instructions from the London Salvage Association, Messrs. Hogg, Robinson, and Co. Proprietary, Ltd., are advertising for offers of purchase.

EASIER MONEY MARKET.

The Bank rate was reduced by the Bank of England on Thursday by ½ per cent. to 3½ per cent. The discount rate for best three months' bills eased by 5-16, while the rate for short loans was ½ per cent. easier. The Paris rate was without further change at 2 per cent., but the Berlin rate eased by ½ per cent. to 3½ per cent. Stocks generally improved, Consols advancing 10/. New South Wales securities were no better, but several of the State stocks advanced fractionally.

	N.S. Wales.	Commonwealth.

The report was submitted to shareholders yesterday, under the presidency of Mr. Thos. Hughes, M.L.C. In moving the adoption of the report the chairman commented upon the increase in the revenue of the company. That this development was sound was evidenced by the consistently good results. It would not be a matter of great difficulty to swell the premium income, but the directors preferred the more moderate rate of increase accompanied by a satisfactory profit. The accident business continued to be of a satisfactory character, and he would remind clients of the company of the convenience and advantage to themselves of having all sections of their business dealt with by one company. The interest on investments now amounted to just over £3000, and the directors therefore felt that they could with safety propose to increase the dividend to 10 per cent. This would absorb £3750, leaving only £750 to be contributed from the underwriting profits. The report was adopted, and Mr. A. W. Ralph, F.C.P.A., was re-elected auditor.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

A good deal of business has been done in fencing wires and wire netting. With regard to the latter, about 100 miles in length of the imported article have changed hands at list prices, and there has been a good demand for wire in distributing lots. The market for both is strong. But with regard to other lines of hardware, business is quiet. Steady sales have been made in galvanised corrugated iron, although nothing out of the ordinary has occurred. The demand for cement for the islands has been pretty heavy, and the local stocks, which were replenished by the arrival of the Invermay, had got down to the minimum. This factor makes the English brands which arrived by the Marian Woodside worth 14/ from the ship's side, and 14/6 ex store.

Linseed oil is rather easier, in sympathy with the feeling in London, but whale and other fish oils are very firm and scarce, and a rise of about /1 has taken place in their prices. China oil has also risen in value, both the pure and the denaturated. Though there is no change in the quotations for castor oil, the quotations are firmer. A line of 200 drums of Morrison's has been dealt in at quotation rates. There has been a good demand for kerosene, and Snowflake, ex Varzin, was all booked prior to delivery; indeed, some orders have had to be supplied from store. Whitelead, first brands, is firm at £29/10/ and £28/10/ for second brands; turps, 4/, 4/1, and good distributing sales have taken place in all these lines.

The latest reports received from Hobart concerning hops is that brewers' lines cannot be bought there for less than /18 f.o.b., with a probability of higher rates ruling when the spring demand sets in. A good deal of business has been transacted in Crown brand packet hops at /9½ f.o.b. Melbourne, with a tendency to advance. Malt, both English and Australian, mantains its value.

Advices from Calcutta state that cornsacks are distinctly easier, and the local market has eased in sympathy. A line of 100 bales was purchased yesterday at 4/6 delivered. The produce markets yesterday were dull on account of the rain.

BREADSTUFFS.

There is no change to report in the wheat market, although a rather better feeling prevails. Buyers are indulging in the hope that the London market has reached its lowest, seeing that their cargoes have been sold off the English coast at 30/, 30/2¼, 30/3, respectively. Millers are also hopeful that the downward run has stopped, even if it be only for a time, and that they may be able to do business with only the usual risk of loss. Both millers and shippers quote 3/ a bushel, delivered in Sydney.

Flour is very dull of sale, only enough yet being bought to supply present needs. The £9 per ton quotation is unaltered.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 268 tons of wheat and 27 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

WHEAT.

A RECOVERY.

LONDON, June 3, 1.55 a.m.

The wheat market has recovered slightly from the lowest point reached during the present season. There is some activity in regard to cargoes, and the following have been sold:—

Windsor Park, sh. from Victoria, February 14, for the Channel, with 33,797 bags, at 30/9 per quarter of 480lb.

There is a fair inquiry at about these prices. The crop prospects from all exporting countries are favourable.

Australian wheat on spot is dull at 33/6 to 34/ per quarter, and New Zealand, which is very variable in quality, is quoted at 31/ to 33/.

FLOUR.

Flour is dull of sale. Australian patents at London and Glasgow are held for 26/ per sack.

BARLEY.

OATS.

The market for oats is dull. Gartons are worth from 17/6 to 19/6, Sparrowbills 17/ to 18/9, and La Plata, June-July shipment, 12/6.

La Plata oats, June-July shipment, were also quoted last week at 12/6, and at 13/3 the week before. Gartons on May 30 were worth 18/ to 20/6, and Sparrowbills 17/9 to 19/.

FREIGHTS.

Freights are quiet. Adelaide fixtures are quoted at 20/ for June and July (a fortnight ago it was cabled that South Australian prompt fixtures had been made at 20/6).

SHEEPSKINS.

At the sheepskin sales to-day there was a large attendance, and the bidding was animated. Practically all the lots offered were cleared without further change.

BUTTER.

The butter market is steady. Choicest Australian is quoted at 100/ to 102/ per cwt.; unsalted occasionally 104/; New Zealand, 106/ to 107/. Second quality is difficult of sale, consists mostly of stored butter. Last week Australian was quoted at 100/ to 102/ for first, and 96/ for second quality.

Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Ltd., have received the following cable from their London house:—"Sheepskins: At sales held to-day prices, as compared with those ruling at last auctions, show an advance as follows:—Full-woolled merinos, par to 5 per cent.; full-woolled fine and full-woolled coarse crossbreds on a par; short shorn generally 5 per cent."

Harrison, Jones, and Devlin have received a cable to the same effect.

DAIRY PRODUCE IN LONDON.

Messrs. Dalgety and Co., Limited, have received a cable from London stating that the butter market was quiet at the following prices for finest quality:—Danish, 112/ per cwt; New Zealand, 104/ per cwt; Australian, salted and unsalted, 100/ to 102/ per cwt. Inferior descriptions are neglected. The imports into the United Kingdom last week totalled 87,000cwt, which compared with 74,000cwt for the corresponding period of last year.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

Wheat had a steadier tone to-day, though no alteration was made in the buying price, which is 3/. There were inquiries for parcels at this figure, but of course business is not yet possible. Flour is lifeless at £9, and no trade to speak of passed. Bran and pollard are quoted by millers at 1/1. There are inquiries for chaff, but owing to the quality of this season's cargo not being in good order they have had to be declined. Oats are not worth more than 1/11 for shipment.

Butter ruled easier to-day, and tops did not bring over 1/1½ to 1/2. Eggs eased to 1/5½.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Wheat was steady. Business was done at about 3/2½, and 300 bags were sold at 3/3 ex store, for local consumption, while there are inquiries for parcels at 3/2. Flour was quiet at £8. Bran and pollard were quoted at £5. Algerian oats were quiet, but steady; milling were quoted at 2/1½ to 2/2, feed 1/10 to 2/1. Maize was dull at 2/6. Chaff was quiet; oaten was quoted at 47/6 to 60/, wheaten 55/ to 67/6, manger hay was quoted at 75/ to 65/, manger sheaves at 55/ to 60/, chaffing sheaves 45/ to 50/. Potatoes were quiet; arrivals were not so heavy; Reds and Excelsior were quoted at 85/, Special to 90/, Pinkeye and Snowflake 70/ to 75/, Gippsland Carmen 80/ to 90/, Brownells 70/ to 75/, Neerim Reds 70/ to 75/, special to 80/. Moderate business was done in Ceylon tea, the market closing with a good demand for the few lots left in first hands. About 50 packages of Indian tea were sold. Ten tons yellow sugar were sold for export at £21/5/. Cornsacks were quoted at 4/9½ on the spot, and 4/9 for forward delivery. Branbags were quiet at about 3/5. Woolpacks were quoted at 2/2½ to arrive. Tinplates have had moderate inquiries.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

TRADE IN SUSSEX-STREET.

BUSINESS POOR.

MAIZE CHEAPER. MOST OTHER LINES DULL.

This week was closing with a very small volume going through. There was no improvement in the trade. The inland orders were restricted. Maize was quoted 1d per bushel lower in the "street." Salesmen found it was useless to hold out for values, as the buyers were not anxious to operate. The big stocks on the North Coast wharf were also telling against values. Barley was dull of sale. Peas were very quiet; they were not wanted unless they showed top quality. Oats were in a sickly state. Bran and pollard were both dull of sale. Chaff of a good colour and quality came in for good attention, but poor samples were not wanted. Oaten hay was not clearing too well. There were some big stacks on the wharfs from Victoria. Derrick straw was steady. It was in a better supply than last week, and this steadied values. Hunter River lucerne did not meet much business, as the quality was not up to expectation. Potatoes were rather quiet. Onions were sick; there were too many on the market.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

BUTTER SELLING A LITTLE BETTER.

EGGS AGAIN REDUCED.

The cold snap, together with the incoming Richmond River steamer being delayed, was responsible for a bright tone prevailing in the Butter market. There was not the usual quantity of fresh butter on the market for grocers to choose from. This position, however, did not place things in a nice way for the early part of next week. The delayed shipment will arrive over the Saturday, and as Monday is a holiday it will accumulate with the incoming supplies, and swell the already too large stocks of medium qualities. Eggs were again reduced. There was a little diversity as to the strength of the market. Cheese was weak in tone. Bacon was quiet.

Butter.—First grade 114/, medium to good 110/ to 112/, seconds 100/ to 102/, pastry from 88/ per cwt.

APIARY PRODUCTS.

Honey was still quiet. Supplies were moving off steadily. Wax was not in large quantities.

Honey.—Western, 60lb tins, choice /3½, occasionally /4, prime /3 to /3½, good /2 to /2½; Northern river, /2 to /2½, rough and candied /1½ per lb.

At the auction sales 47 truckloads were submitted. There was a poor attendance of buyers, and the market dropped almost 1/6 per ton all round.

The following prices were realised:—

Best boxwood, 15/ to 16/, good 13/6 to 14/6; ironbark and stringy, 11/ to 13/6; bakers' wood, 14/, good 13/ to 13/6 per ton.

Chaff was in bulk by 39 trucks, choice qualities being entirely absent. Prime wheaten went off at from 4/6 to 4/11, medium to good 3/7 to 4/3, while oaten sold at late rates of from 3/6 to 4/3. Lucerne hay was slightly firmer, prime small bales going off at from 4/3 to 4/5, medium to good 3/6 to 4/, and large bales at from 3/4 to 4/. Lucerne chaff, oaten hay, oats, and wheat were unsaleable. Lucerne threshings were disposed of at 3/4. Prime derrick straw was knocked down at 2/6. Prime Wallangarra yellow maize found buyers at from 2/9½ to 2/10. Potatoes of choice variety showed an advancement, but the intermediate class were hard to sell at reduced rates. FRUIT MARKETS.

COLD WEATHER RESTRICTS BUSINESS.

All classes of fruit had a slow movement, owing to the cold weather. Apples were hard to sell. French Crabbs were in big supply, and were easy in tone. Merchants have only been able to get half the total consignments of their Tasmanian fruit, owing to the Paloona going into dock. This has caused them a good deal of trouble. Lemons were still dragging.

Current quotations were:—

Apples.—Local: Desert, choice 6/ to 7/, medium 4/ to 5/; cooking, choice 4/ to 5/, medium 3/ to 3/6. MINING.

SILVER EASY. COPPER STEADY.

It is difficult to describe in one particular phrase the state of the market yesterday morning. It was certainly irregular, which means that some stocks commanded firm support, others weakened, whilst the quotations for some were practically unaltered from the lukewarm offers of the previous day, and the stand-off attitude of scripholders in regard to those offers.

Though B.H. Junction North maintained a firm position, and B.H. Junctions also opened firmly, this was counterbalanced by easier sales in B.H. Souths paid, whilst the fact that B.H. Souths contg. and British Broken Hill (old) were untaken at the previous day's closing sale tended to indicate that the tone of the market was not quite so buoyant from a buying point of view. It must be stated, as against this, that holders of B.H. South Blocks, Amalgamated Zinc, Sulphide Corporation ordinary, and Zinc Corporation preference did not show any inclination to mark down prices, whilst there were buyers of B.H. Proprietary, but no officially declared sellers.

After a long interval of time the amount of business done in copper shares overshadowed that recorded in the silver section, and with one exception—Great Fitzroys—the sales were booked at steady rates. This was the case in the transactions booked in Mount Elliotts, Budgery, Tolwong Mineral, Cobar Gladstone, and Queen Bee. In other stocks not dealt in there was not much vigour in the buying offers, except in the case of Chillagoe contg. and Mount Morgans.

In the gold section Main Ridge Deep Leads, Mount Davids, and Sandstone Development sold at easier rates; improved offers were made for Araluen Redbank, whilst Black Range West were unobtainable at late rates. Tin shares showed Tongkah Harbour Tin selling at a steady price.

In a dull market that ruled during the afternoon, B. H. Junction North experienced a bad time, sales being booked from 25/6 to 24/3, or a drop of 3/3 on the day. Sulphide Corporation ordinary also eased /3, and British (old) /9. In the copper section Great Fitzroys still stold on the down grade. Both gold and tin shares were quiet.

No. 2 borehole advanced to 122ft. Low-grade ore. Changed in last 10ft to barren lode formation, resembling casing close to footwall. No. 3 bore, 56ft deep, in good ore.

Later in the day the secretary of the company received the following telegram:—

No. 2 bore is now 134ft deep. Almost certain we are in footwall.

MINING NOTES.

During the fortnight ended May 21 the Mount Molloy Company (Q.) produced 485 tons from the 420ft level stopes, and 100 tons from the adit level stopes.

A report from the Kalamadau Gold-mining Company (Woodlark Island) states that a crushing of 1000 tons yielded gold worth approximately £2562.

The following telegram has been received from the manager of the Vegetable Creek Tin-mining Company:—"Two feet good wash west end." A second telegram, a copy of which was forwarded to this office, was not quite intelligible. It stated that in blocking a strip off the end of the west drive a strong body of wash was located, but the thickness was not clearly explained. In the east drive there are 9in of low-grade wash, and tin washing is in progress.

For the week ended June 1, the mill of the Broken Hill Block 10 Company treated 2135 tons of crude ore, assaying 12.4 silver, 12.3 lead, and 14.3 zinc, and produced 319 tons of concentrates, assaying 35.5 silver, 58.8 lead, and 7.8 zinc.

BROKEN HILL MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

Both the Zinc Corporation and South mines are again advertising for men, the South mine for mullockers and the Zinc Corporation for boiler riveters. There still remains many vacancies for good mining employees. The only men locally unemployed are unskilled labourers.

ZINC CORPORATION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Zinc Corporation during the year ended December 31, 1909, made a profit of £100,868, after allowing £56,946 for the redemption of tailings, and £21,043 for depreciation. The gross returns from the sale of concentrates and sundry receipts was £276,947, while the material handled totalled 227,502 tons. In all, 84,898 tons of zinc concentrates, assaying 46.02 per cent. zinc, 7.3 per cent. lead, and 15.08oz silver, were produced, and 6411 tons of lead concentrates assaying 56.98 per cent. lead, 38.49oz silver, and 16.3 per cent. zinc. Payment was received for 75,090 tons zinc concentrates on the basis of zinc at £22/3/2.678 per ton, and the silver at 1/11.727 per oz. The balance of the tonnage was taken into the accounts on the basis of spelter at £22/4/6. The lead concentrates were realised at £13/3/1½ for lead and silver at 2/11. As the result of the working profit of £100,868 being made, the debit of £30,000 at profit and loss brought forward disappears, and a credit of £70,867 remains. Four dividends at the rate of 12½ per cent. have been declared on the preference shares. The last of these being payable this month. The directors allude to the purchase of an additional lot of 500,000 tons of tailings at Broken Hill as already announced, and state that they have arranged for the sale of the whole of their output of zinc concentrates up to 1919. During last month the Zinc Corporation's output was 23,000 tons for 7075 tons of zinc concentrates, as against 7405 tons for April. Taking spelter at £21 per ton, the output was worth £22,934, against a working expenditure of £11,050. The estimated net profit was £5736, as against £4495 in April. The increased profit last month was due to working costs.

TASMANIAN MINING.

LAUNCESTON, Friday.

The output of tin ore from the Mount Bischoff mine last month was 90 tons. The tin contents of the Queen lode are reported to be from very fair to good.

The directors of the Hercules Company have decided to issue, to shareholders only, 16,929 shares, being part of the balance unissued, at 5/ per share, payable 1/ on application, and 4/ at a month later. The shares are to be allotted to shareholders on the register only, in the proportion of one in six of their holding. It is understood the directors decided upon this means of raising money in preference to borrowing for the purpose of installing a unit of the Horwood process at Foy's mine.

ZEEHAN, Friday.

No. 3 lode has been intersected in the adit level at the Mount Zeehan Wallace mine. An apparently new lode, carrying 6in first-class ore, running parallel with the No. 2 lode, has been met with 150ft north of the main shaft. Work has been resumed on the Silver Bell mine, adjoining the Sunrise, which is driving under No. 2 shoot.

YOUNG WOMAN'S SUICIDE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Gwendoline Buckley, about 30 years of age, was found dead in her bedroom at South Yarra on Thursday. There can be little doubt that the case is one of suicide, as the only coherent statement in a rambling letter to her father occurs at the end. The letter is in terms of affection, and concluded, "I have this morning taken an ounce of cocaine —au revoir."

FORBES, Friday.

The Forbes Municipal Council, which some time since opposed an application of the military authorities for permissive occupancy of a portion of the Forbes Common, which it was proposed to have fenced off as a danger zone in connection with the local rifle range, has now withdrawn its opposition on condition that the enclosed area has gates of sufficient width to allow vehicular traffic to pass through, the council also to have grazing rights to the land.

After a lapse of 19 years the old established Hawkesbury Race Club has decided to resuscitate the Hawkesbury Guineas, and the conditions for the classic race of 1911 are set forth in our business sheets. The prize-money is 250 guineas, added to a sweepstakes of 5 guineas, for three-year-olds (now yearlings), and the race will be run over a mile. Nominations will be received by the secretary, Mr. C. S. Guest, Richmond, up to 4 p.m. on Tuesday next, the 7th instant, and up to the same time by Mr. Geo. W. Rowe, at the office of the Rosehill Racing Club, city.

The Grafton gelding Ossian, who is now rising 12 years old, has been taken in hand by his old trainer, J. Chambers, who evidently expects to get another race out of the old fellow.

The Flavus mare Flavol, who won a race at the recent meeting of the Upper Hunter Picnic Race Club at Muswellbrook, has been leased by the trainer, J. Swan.

Trotting enthusiasts at Bathurst have formed a trotting club, the new institution to be affiliated with the New South Wales Trotting Association. The Forbes Jockey Club has framed the programme for its annual show race meeting on August 19 and 20. The prize-money has been increased all round. The meeting is expected to be more than ordinarily successful, and it is anticipated that a number of metropolitan trainers will be represented.

AUSTRALIAN JOCKEY CLUB.

WINTER MEETING.

FIRST DAY.

The winter re-union of the Australian Jockey Club opens at Randwick this afternoon, with every prospect of success, for the lists of entrants for the various events indicate large fields, the going, thanks to the recent rainfall, should be first-class, and a large gathering may be anticipated at headquarters. The customary service of trams will be in vogue, and the management has made due provision in all departments for the requirements of visitors.

The sport commences at 1.30 p.m. with the First Hurdle Race, and at the weights Portlight, Superstition, Black Reynard, Grenfell, and Grateful appear to have the best prospects, while Portlight, Grateful, and Grenfell may fill the situations.

A large field may be anticipated for the Novice Handicap, and the race seems very open, but the settlement of the question seems to be among Jibe, Gay Hampton, Maltster Maid, Black Alick, and Gravelotte, and the judge may declare for Black Alick, Gay Hampton, and Maltster Maid.

An interesting contest is foreshadowed for the First Steeplechase, in which prominent parts should be played by Grafnax, Confusion, Simple Simon, Lady Justice, and Up-to-Date, and the honours may be divided among Confusion, Lady Justice, and Up-to-Date.

Penniless, Borodino, Rose Allie, Quentin, Miss Corelli, and Snowfoot seem to have fair chances in the June Stakes, and the numbers may be hoisted for Rose Allie, Snowfoot, and Borodino.

The afternoon's sport will be brought to a close with the Ellesmere Handicap, for which an interesting battle is promised among The Acolyte, King Bee, Daisy Chain, Lunoc, and Vanadium, while King Bee, The Acolyte, and Vanadium may pass the post as named.

GRAND CHALLENGE STAKES.

The Grand Challenge Stakes will be decided at Woodstock Enclosure, Rooty Hill, under the auspices of the N.S.W. National Coursing Association, on Thursday and Friday next. The meeting has been reduced to two days, owing to the fact that the committee decided it would be better to have a good two days' meeting than a poor three days' sport.

Everything promises well for a successful meeting, the enclosure being in good order, and a good supply of well-trained hares. This meeting will afford the public an opportunity of seeing all the champion dogs of the State competing in the Grand Challenge Stakes, to which event the association has donated £50. There will be two other stakes, as advertised in this issue. A special train will leave Sydney each morning at 10 o'clock, returning from Rooty Hill at 4.34 p.m.

The competition will be resumed to-day, after the break caused by the matches against Queensland. Glebe and University are to meet at the University Oval, and a close game should result. It will probably be the best match of the day, and on form Glebe ought to just about win.

Newtown District team leaves to-night for a tour of the northern rivers, and will be absent from Sydney for a fortnight. Those players who may be required by the New South Wales selectors for representative matches will remain here, their places being filled by second-graders. F. E. Booth will be captain, while Mr. J. Dickie will go as manager.

Glebe will have Middleton with them again to-day. He has been standing down, owing to a broken nose, for some time, and will be a useful addition to the pack.

Eastern Suburbs has strengthened the back division by the inclusion of J. Boward from the City and Suburban Union, who played in the Combined Team on Saturday. He should combine well with Campbell, and the wings will probably get a fair number of chances to use their pace. J. D'Alpuget goes to full-back, and Milner to five-eighth.

LEAGUE NOTES.

The suspension by the league council of the Australian Club for non-payment of an amount due for certain fittings purchased from the league has been automatically removed, as the late officer of the club who guaranteed the amount has paid it direct to the general secretary of the league. Mr. Geo. Cramp, the league secretary, states there is no need for a formal removal of the suspension, as the club was only suspended until the £2 was paid.

The secretary of the Australian Club writes stating "That the Australian Club, as well as other dissatisfied leaguites, do not contemplate the formation of a new governing body. What the Australian Club, etc., have been striving for these last four years are a real live lot of officials at the head of affairs; men who understand the game, and have the interests of the sport at heart."

The date for the Peerless Club's annual Liverpool race will be June 25, and not the 11th, as previously stated. Sanction has been applied for to run two open road races at an early date. A run will be held every Tuesday and Thursday nights for the purpose of training.

MOTOR-CYCLE HANDICAPS.

Mr. F. S. Roberts writes re last Saturday's motor-cycle hill climb:—In reply to Mr. A. M'Neill's remarks in this morning's "Herald," I would like to state that I was handicapped with only three cylinders working on my 5-h.p. "Speedwell" F.N., the wire coming off one of the plugs while going up the hill. The 2-h.p. Moto Reve, with bore and stroke of 50 x 70, has two cylinders, and weighs 90lb. The four-cylinder "Speedwell" F.N. has four cylinders, the same bore and stroke as the Moto Reve, and weighs 180lb, and with a gear of 6 to 1, which is fitted to both machines, would put machines on the same mark in a hill-climb, if worked out on paper. But with the same machine and gear as used on Saturday and same hill I would be pleased to give the 2-h.p. Moto Reve 15 seconds' start on the condition that we start unassisted.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE FOURTH CALVE CONCERT.

Mme. Calve's triumphant reappearance on Wednesday having satisfied the public as to her complete recovery from the cold which affected her last week, another great attendance at her fourth concert at the Town Hall to-night is assured. The programme will include the classic aria "Divinités du Styx" from Gluck's "Alceste," the "Air du Mysoli" (with flute obbligato by Mr. Amadio), Massenet's "Chanson d'Avril," and Vidal's "Chanson Egyptienne." The diva will join with Signor Gasparri in the love-music from Gounod's "Faust." The new Italian tenor will be heard in the Poet's Song and the Presentation Song from "La Boheme," the Drinking Song from "Cavalleria Rusticana," and Tosti's "Ideale." M. Pintel's pianoforte pieces will be Mendelssohn's "Rondo Capriccioso," the Prelude, Mazurka, and Valse (A flat) of Chopin, and Moszkowski's "Spanish Caprice." Mr. Amadio will play "Hungarian Fantasia" for flute (Doppler). Mr. Harold Whittel will be the accompanist. Messrs. J. and N. Tait announce concerts for Tuesday night, and Wednesday afternoon, June 15.

"HENRY OF NAVARRE."

There will be a complete change of period, manners, scene, and subject, at the Theatre Royal next Saturday, when the J. C. Williamson company will produce "Henry of Navarre" for the first time in Australia. The new play will provide a stirring, illustration of the exciting Huguenot days, when the half-crazed Charles IX. of France sanctioned the slaughter of thousands of his Protestant subjects, and there will be a love episode connected with the brave Henry of Navarre. Miss Julia Neilson and Mr. Fred. Terry produced this play in London two years ago, and it has since proved one of their greatest successes. The author, William Devereux, is a well-known London actor. Mr. Julius Knight will appear as Henri de Bourbon, and Miss Katherine Grey as Marguerite de Valois, Miss Susie Vaughan as Catherine de Medici, Mr. Sydney Stirling as Charles IX., Mr. Cyril Mackay as the Duc de Guise, Mr. Leslie Victor as the Duc d'Anjou, Mr. Reynolds Denniston as Arthur de Mouhy, etc. Mr. Knight will direct the production. The plan will open at Paling's on Tuesday.

CRITERION THEATRE.

Monday afternoon will be the date of the next matinee representation of "Pete" at the Criterion Theatre, where Hall Caine's emotional drama continues to draw great audiences. Mr. Matheson Lang plays with a convincing air of nature the part of the fisherman who so loves his erring wife and her child, and the great scene between him and Miss Hutin Britton always touches the audience deeply. At present Rupert Clarke and Meynell have no change in view at the Criterion.

THEATRE ROYAL.

The final matinee of "The Third Degree" is fixed for Monday afternoon, inasmuch as "Henry of Navarre," which will be very picturesquely put on, is now ready for production next Saturday. In "The Third Degree" Miss Katherine Grey has made her mark as the roughly-reared young wife, whose devotion to her husband incidentally teaches some highly-educated people their duty, not least so the great lawyer impersonated by Mr. Knight.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

At 2 o'clock on Monday there will be a holiday matinee of "The Dollar Princess" at Her Majesty's Theatre. This new musical play introduces the captivating valse-theme "Type-writing," which shows Dr. Leo Fall's new work at its best; there is a fascinating humorous number, in which Miss Olive Godwin leads the quartet, and Mr. Bert Gilbert has two new comic songs, which have caught the public fancy. "The Dollar Princess" is beautifully staged, with rich and varied costumes.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

At the Tivoli Theatre, where matinees are announced for to-day, Monday, and Wednesday next, Mr. Harry Rickards will introduce Mendel, the blind pianist, newly arrived from London by the Maiwa, a bravura artist and improviser, and also at the matinee will reappear Johnny Gilmore, endman and comedian. The new entertainment will also include Billy Williams, the Raymond Trio, Godfrey James, the Singing Collier, Carter the Magician, the Mysterious Howards, Fred. Rivenhall, and other favourite artists. Cam Moreni, Alma Gordon, the Banvards, and Miss Fanny Ellie will all join to-day.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

At the National Amphitheatre, where there will be an extra holiday matinee on Monday, the new programme this afternoon and evening will comprise Gardner, Rankin, and Griffin, a new comedy musical trio, direct from America; Cleopatra, described as "the famous, fearless, and fascinating snake charmer;" Bonita, the Child of the Plains and champion rifle shot, with her sister, Cleo, the human target; reappearances of Delavale and Gilbert, and Lily Vickler; Valdare and Varno and Morris and Wilson (last week).

PALACE THEATRE.—WEST'S PICTURES.

Mr. T. J. West notifies matinees to-day, Monday, and Wednesday at the Palace Theatre, where the King's funeral pictures are due June 20. The new programme to-day will include Pathe Freres' colour series, "Zingara, the Smuggler's Daughter," "Native Dances of the East," "Kairwan, the Holy City of Tunis," "Houdini Flying on his Aeroplane," and many other subjects. Mr. L. De Groen's Vice-regal Orchestra will play.

LYCEUM.—SPENCER'S THEATRESCOPE.

At the Lyceum Mr. Chas. Spencer notifies two performances daily, with a holiday programme for Monday afternoon, and the King's funeral pictures on June 20. The new entertainment will include the fifth series of the "Life of Moses," with the death of the patriarch; "Winter in Sweden;" the western drama, "The Mexican's Faith;" the pathetic film, "Grandfather's Head;" and the novel silhouette, "Clown and Donkey."

BIJOU THEATRE PICTURES.

ANDERSON'S VAUDEVILLE COMPANY.

The season of Mr. William Anderson's London Vaudeville Stars will terminate at the Standard Theatre with performances this afternoon and evening and Monday afternoon and evening. A special holiday programme is announced for these occasions, to which attractive items will be contributed by Mr. Nat Clifford, Foreman and Fannan, Miss Lilian Lea, Marshall Palmer, Hagan and Fraser, and other favourite artists.

EMPIRE THEATRE PICTURES.

There will be matinees at the Empire Theatre, Oxford-street, this afternoon, Monday, and Wednesday next, when the latest new pictures will be shown, including "In the Shadow of Old Mount Shasta," and other exciting and humorous stories and scenic studies.

THE GLACIARIUM.

The opening of the first hockey match this season at the Glaciarium after the usual evening session last night afforded players and spectators good sport, and there was a large attendance. Children can practice this morning (only), and in the evening Professor Langley will give an exhibition of fancy skating. His difficult feats are always gracefully executed, and bring many ambitious imitators in subsequent emulation.

SYDNEY SKATING RINK.

At the Exhibition Building the vast floor-space afforded votaries of the rinking pastime is being taken every advantage of this season, and attendances continue satisfactory.

TOWN HALL ORGAN RECITALS.

In response to a general request the City Organist, Mr. Ernest Truman, will repeat the memorial programme of music at the Town Hall to-morrow at 3.15, when some stately Funeral Marches and other numbers will be rendered.

Mr. JOSEPH M'CABE'S LECTURES.

Mr. Joseph M'Cabe, famous as an author and speaker upon "Evolution," will open his short season of lectures at the Protestant Hall this evening. Mr. M'Cabe, whose principal work is "From Nebula to Man," will initiate his series to-night with an illustrated lecture entitled "The End of the World." His season will embrace lectures every evening next week up to and inclusive of Friday.

LAWRENCE CAMPBELL RECITALS.

The fourth recital of the series will be given by Mr. Lawrence Campbell, the popular elocutionist, at the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Monday evening next, when a holiday programme will be presented. The elocutionist will be heard in the Forum Scene from "Julius Caesar," "The Village Priest," "Caged," and other descriptive and humorous and dramatic items. Instrumental and vocal artists will assist, including Miss Amy Murphy, Signor Torzillo, Mr. F. Oakden Brookes, and Miss Lilian Frost. The plan is at Paling's, and is rapidly filling.

Y.M.C.A. GLEE CLUB CONCERT.

The eighth annual concert of the Y.M.C.A. Glee Club will be held next Tuesday evening, when a programme of new and favourite glees will be rendered. The club will be assisted by Miss Hilda Aiken (soprano), Miss Mary Bourke (contralto), Miss Ella Crone (elocutionist), Mr. Maurice Chenoweth (tenor), and Mr. J. J. Virgo (baritone). Plan is now open at the Y.M.C.A., where seats may be reserved.

MISS SYLVIA BLACKSTON'S CONCERT.

Miss Sylvia Blackston, before initiating a second tour of the States, will make a farewell appearance at the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Tuesday, June 14, when Lady Poore and other distinguished patrons will be present. The contralto, who will sing Handel's "Largo" and "Abide With Me," with harp, violin, and piano accompaniment, as well as classic and modern numbers, will be supported by Miss Rene Lees (solo pianist), Miss Rosalie Coutts-Duvalli (harpist), Mr. Oakden Brookes (baritone), and Mr. F. Mowat Carter (violinist). The plan will open at Nicholson's on Tuesday.

RANDWICK MUSICAL SOCIETY.

The Randwick District Musical Society announces some alteration in their programme for Wednesday, June 15, at the Randwick Town Hall, due to the absence of Mr. Philip Newbury and Mme. Spada in Queensland. The society has, however, engaged Mme. Slapoffski, Mr. Maurice Chenoweth, and Mr. Bryce Carter, the full orchestra and chorus will assist, and Mr. G. G. Park will conduct his own original overture, "The Surfers."

AMATEUR ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

The second concert of the Sydney Amateur Orchestral Society's season will be given on July 20 next, and members are reminded that the usual practices will be resumed on Monday evening next. The programme will include Beethoven's "Symphony No. 2 in D," and Herr Slapoffski will also introduce first performances of overture, "Eine Faust" (Wagner), and Fantasia, "Don Juan" (Richard Strauss).

MLLE. ANTONIA DOLORES.

Mlle. Antonia Dolores, one of the most accomplished and charming singers who ever visited Australia, is returning here via San Francisco, and is due to arrive on Tuesday fortnight. The French soprano will open her season at the Town Hall on June 20, under Mr. H. N. Southwell's direction. Reference to Mlle. Dolores' movements is made in our Music and Drama column.

ROYAL PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

Edward Elgar's spirited work "Caractacus" which was so much admired upon its original production here about a year ago, will be repeated by the Royal Sydney Philharmonic Society at the Town Hall on Thursday, June 16. Mr. Joseph Bradley will conduct the full chorus and orchestra (led by M. Henri Staell), and Mr. Andrew Black has been engaged for the important solos of the name-part. Miss Amy Murphy and Mr. Maurice Chenoweth will appear. Subscribers can now enter conveniently in time also for the "Creation," in which Mlle. Antonia Dolores will be the principal soloist.

SYDNEY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

Mr. Joseph Bradley will conduct the third season of the Sydney Symphony Orchestra, which will consist of four matinee concerts in the Town Hall, at 3.30, on the afternoons of the first Thursday of July, August, September, and October. At the first of the series on July 7 the "Prelude to Parsifal" (Wagner) and Tschaikowski's Fourth Symphony will be heard for the first time in Sydney, as well as "Siegfried Idyll" and "Rheingold"—entrance of the gods.

PREMIER DRAMATIC PLAYERS.

Thursday evening last, at the Protestant Hall, Sydney, the members of the Premier Dramatic and Comedy Players presented Mr. W. H. Levey (through their secretary, Mr. Thomas T. Clines) with a suitably engraved sovereign purse of sovereigns, and Miss Ruby Coxhead with a beautiful hand-bag, as a mark of appreciation of their valuable services to the club. The fortunate recipients suitably responded.

COMMONWEALTH EISTEDDFOD.

Great interest is being manifested in the competitions to be held in the Town Hall in connection with the above during August and September. Several choirs are now busily rehearsing the choruses and part songs, extra copies of which have just arrived from England. A new competition this year is the Warehouse, Firms, and Factory Choral Contest, for employees of shops, warehouses, and factories. Already Messrs. Farmer and Co. have organised a choir for this contest, while several other firms are reviving interest in their musical societies. It is likely that two shop choirs will journey from Ballarat to take part in this contest, and the Ballarat Choral Society has decided to compete in the chief, second, male, and female choruses, special trains for the long trip being arranged for.

MONTEFIORE HOME BALL.

On Wednesday evening, at the Montefiore Home ball, there will be special gallery attractions from 7.30 until 8.30, under the direction of Mr. Sidney T. Price. The artists kindly assisting will be Mme. Camille Cornwell, Miss Geraldine Ward, Miss Kathleen Beattie, Messrs. Gladstone Bell, Percy French, W. F. Greaves, Percy Herford, Oakden Brookes, Z. Balkino, and others.

CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF MELBOURNE LOAN

£300,000, at 3½ Per Cent.

For Thirty Years, from 1st July, 1910.

In exercise of the powers conferred upon the Council of the Corporation of the City of Melbourne by the Act 6 Victoria, No. 7, the council has resolved to CONTRACT A LOAN of three hundred thousand pounds (£300,000) by debentures, redeemable in thirty years, from 1st July, 1910. Such debentures will be transferable by delivery, and will bear interest at the rate of three pounds ten shillings (£3/10/) per centum per annum, payable half-yearly on the first day of January and the first day of July in each year.

The amount of the loan is borrowed under the authority of the Act 6 Victoria, No. 7, an Act to incorporate the inhabitants of the Town (now City) of Melbourne, for the purpose of carrying out works which the council is authorised to carry out.

The debentures will be issued in denominations of £500 and £100, as may be desired by tenderers, and applicants must state in their tenders the number and denomination of the debentures they desire to receive.

The principal and interest moneys will be payable at the offices of the bankers of the corporation for the time being in Melbourne.

Tenders must be sent in (on the form attached hereto) in a sealed envelope, addressed to the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor of Melbourne, and endorsed "Tender for Loan Debentures," and will be received at the Town Hall, Melbourne, for the whole amount of the loan or any portion thereof, until 12 o'clock noon on FRIDAY, the 10th day of JUNE, 1910.

No tender below £95/10/ per £100 will be entertained.

Tenders must be accompanied by a deposit in cash, or by bank cheque, payable to the City Treasurer, amounting to ten per cent. of the face value of the debentures applied for, and if the tender be accepted in full or pro rata the balance of the price offered must be paid on or before the 31st day of December, 1910.

Tenderers may, if they so desire, pay the whole or any part of the amount of their tenders, or the whole amount payable for any number of the total debentures allotted to them at any time before the due date for such payment.

The council will pay interest on accepted tenderers' lodgments from date of receipt to the 30th day of June, 1910, at the rate of three and a half per cent. per annum, and tenderers whose tenders have been accepted must pay to the council, in addition to the balance of the price offered, the amount of accrued interest on the face value of the unpaid balance of their tenders from the 1st day of July, 1910, to the date of payment of such balance.

The deposit of ten per cent. and all interest accrued thereon will be forfeited to, and become the absolute property of the council in the event of any portion of the then balance remaining unpaid after the due date for payment thereof.

The corporation bankers (the National Bank of Australasia and the Commercial Bank of Australia) and the Bank of Victoria will each tender for debentures to the amount of £75,000, or a total of £225,000, at the minimum, £95/10/; but all other tenders will have precedence over the tenders lodged by these banks.

Tenderers of the highest premium will have preference, and to tenderers of equal rates debentures will be allotted proportionately to the number applied for. Tenders at a price including a fraction of a shilling other than sixpence will not be preferentially accepted by reason of such fraction.

Tenders will be opened at the time and place before mentioned in the presence of tenderers or their agents.

Brokerage of one-half per cent. on the face value of the debentures will be allowed upon accepted tenders to members of recognised Stock Exchanges of Australasia only.

By section 22 of the Trusts Act, 1898 (59 Victoria, No. 1421), trustees and trustee companies (unless expressly forbidden by the instrument, if any, creating the trust, or unless some particular mode of investment is thereby prescribed) are empowered to invest trust funds in these debentures.

Copies of the authorising Act may be inspected, and all information in regard to the loan and repayment of existing loans may be obtained at the Town Hall, Melbourne.

Copies of the Prospectus, with Tender Form attached, may be obtained on application to the Town Clerk, Sydney.

JOHN CLAYTON, Town Clerk.

PUNT AT SANS SOUCI.

The RESIDENTS of ROCKDALE, KOGARAH, and the surrounding Municipalities are joining hands with the SUTHERLAND SHIRE COUNCIL in an agitation for a PUNT at SANS SOUCI. Anyone in the habit of using the punt at TOM UGLY'S POINT knows of the serious delays that occur in conveying the traffic across the river, more especially on Saturdays, Sundays, and Holidays. There is no fault to be found with the officials in charge of the punt, for they are not only diligent but courteous to all. But the fact is that the traffic has grown till it is beyond the appliances provided. The main cause of it is the amount of settlement that has taken place in Miranda and Cronulla. Now there is a much straighter and shorter route to the latter, if a punt or crossing was available. There is a first-class road along which the tram runs right to the water at Sans Souci, while from Cummins Point, opposite, there is a good road right out to Port Hacking and Cronulla.

These places would be brought some miles nearer the city by this route, and the whole of the districts concerned are awaking to the fact, and have made up their minds to get the punt at Sans Souci. We want Railway Men to realise the possibilities NOW. At ST. KILDA PARK, KOGARAH BAY, on the main Sans Souci road, with a tram passing along, there is some of the FINEST BUILDING LAND around the Metropolis. Everything is there for a model Home—Beautiful Views, Good Garden Soil, Large Lots High Land, and SEASON TICKETS BY RAIL AND TRAM. It is right at the salt water, and is the CHEAPEST LAND offering within the same radius of the City. If this Punt is granted, as is almost certain, it will double its value in a few months. If you want a Salubrious Home Site or a little Investment to enable you to begin saving money you had better get a plan and particulars at once before the rise comes. There are not too many left, and the place of all others for the small man to begin his Investments is ST. KILDA PARK, SANS SOUCI. Plans, etc, from the

Undeniably there is a charm in the special location of "Greenoaks," encircled by its own domain of 10½ acres land of various presentment (only a careful viewing will discover the fairylike fascination of the walks, trees, gardens, and swards), fitting it to be the delightful home of a squatter, planter, merchant, or professional city gentleman, and when it shall have served that feature of use there will thereafter remain a very large and growing value in the land alone for subdivisional realisation, its surface contour lending to a design to secure pretty situations, and thus aid to the best profitable result, either to the land speculator or the capitalist in the erection of a series of villas. Practically the Estate is matchless.

BICYCLES AND MOTOR CARS.

IF YOU CANNOT GET GOOD ROADS, GET A "CADILLAC."

There are plenty of English and European Cars which will run along nicely on pretty blocks, but when it comes to hard work on rough roads you must have a car that is built for such work, and built in a country where the road conditions are the same as those prevailing in Australia.

If you pay more, what do you gain?

THINK OF IT!

ELEVEN 25-35-h.p. CADILLAC CARS sold for the month of May. How do you account for it? Because people recognise that the "Cadillac" is THE Car for our Australian roads, where we have to contend with BLACK SOIL, rough roads, steep hills, sand beds, etc.

Read what a well-known City Medical Gentleman thinks of his "Cadillac" "Thirty":—

"I must express with pleasure my high appreciation of your 25-30-h.p. Cadillac Car. Having had some experience with other cars, I was greatly surprised to find how splendidly my present Cadillac runs. THIS CAR UNDOUBTEDLY CLIMBS HILLS MAGNIFICENTLY, and the climbing capability on the top speed is really remarkable. In addition, too, it has plenty speed on the level ground. Perhaps the most remarkable feature of this Car is the FLEXIBILITY OF THE ENGINE, running almost to a standstill on top speed on a hill without pounding, and almost crawling on level ground on the top speed. Another feature which appeals to motorists is the wonderful ease with which it starts. This Car, too, with my experience, requires no adjusting, and rarely, if ever, do I think will you see a man crawling among the machinery or under the car. Finally, I must say that this Car should appeal very favourably to anyone, as the low price is almost a revelation, and quite surprised those interested in the motor industry at the last Olympic Show in London."

CLEMENT-BAYARD MOTOR CARS.
MONSR. A. CLEMENT, MAKER OF THE FAMOUS "CLEMENT-BAYARD" MOTOR-CAR, AND DESIGNER OF THE "CLEMENT-TALBOT" CARS, HAS JUST FINISHED 2 GREAT MOTOR ENGINES FOR THE ENGLISH GOVERNMENT'S £30,000 DIRIGIBLE—THE FIRST OF THREE.
Curious and strongly suggestive. The greatest experts of the foremost nation, with unlimited buying power behind them, selected the Clement-Bayard Motors as
THE MOST RELIABLE OF ALL MOTORS.
When a nation's safety may depend on war dirigibles, the motors MUST BE ABSOLUTELY RELIABLE. M. CLEMENT made his reputation in Motor Car Engines, and his world-wide fame is behind every Motor Car turned out of his factory at Levallois. The characteristics of his cars are profound reliability, noiselessness when new and noiseless when old, perfection of finish, equal to watch work. The best materials known to science, extremely simple to drive, special resiliency, and sweet running, last as new for years.
No. 8 Model has extra high clearance, and raises little dust, and has a perfected system of lubrication.
"CLEMENT-BAYARDS" are far and away the LOWEST-PRICED FIRST-CLASS CARS MADE.
They have been running in Australia for 7 years, and we have never heard of a dissatisfied user.

"NOTHING BETTER FOR THE COMPLEXION."

SAYS A GREAT LONDON ACTRESS.

If you are a woman, there is one thing as regards which safety lies in delay. You can safely and profitably delay to grow old. This is a trying climate in many respects, and it's very easy to lose the purity and freshness of your complexion. Here is the striking testimony of Miss Marie Dainton, who knows trying climates herself. Do you know her? She is the preferred actress of smart society in the world's greatest capital, and every Londoner loves her. She knows the thing to do, and does it perfectly. She writes:—"In our very uncertain climate it is a matter of necessity to all women who value a good complexion to use some emollient, and for myself I have found nothing better than Madame Rubinstein's Valaze."

Equally emphatic is the testimony of Miss Ellaline Terriss. Do you know her? Her popularity has been, and continues to be, extraordinary. She holds the people by her marvellous charm of personality, her perfect grace of manner. She is the acme of distinction and perfected style. She writes—"I have tried your Valaze Powder, and find it is delightful to use, while the Valaze Skin Food is a most valuable preparation."

Valaze Skin Food, in jars, 3/6 and 6/6; Valaze Face Powder (for greasy skins), and Novena Poudre (for dry and normal skins) in boxes, 2/ and 3/; Valaze Complexion Soap, in cakes, 2/; Valaze Blackhead and Open-pore Cure, a sure remedy for these distressing complaints, easily and quickly banishes blackheads, closes the pores, refines the skin's texture, and overcomes greasiness and coarseness, 2/10 posted.
Valaze Lip Lustre, a natural colour for the lips, which cannot be displaced by biting or wetting. Cures and prevents cracks, chaps, and sores, 2/ and 3/. Of leading chemists, or direct from Mlle. H. Rubinstein and Co., Valaze Institute, 158 Pitt-street, Sydney.
